

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THIS edition of Sallust's Bellum Catilinae is based on the third edition of the work by Director J. H. Schmalz.

Director Schmalz's extensive scholarship, his profound knowledge of the grammatical and stylistic peculiarities of the Latin prose writers, and his experience as a teacher, eminently fitted him to edit the writings of Sallust for the class-room. The favorable reception his Sallust has had in Germany, proves that it fully meets all the requirements of the latest scholarship.

In adapting Schmalz's work to the needs of American schools, his text — which in the main is Jordan's — has not been changed, except as regards the punctuation. This has been altered, so as to conform to American usage. As in the United States Sallust is most frequently read by students who are not so far advanced in their Latin studies as those for whom Schmalz's book was prepared, additional notes on grammar, style, and translation have been added wherever it seemed useful. For the same reason a departure has been made from Schmalz's practice in another particular. While he confines his historical comments to the narrowest limits, it has been thought best here to make them as complete and helpful as possible. The Introduction is entirely independent of Schmalz.

In preparing the historical matter, frequent use has been made of the Jacobs-Wirz edition of Sallust. For the grammatical notes, besides Schmalz, I have had recourse to the editions of Jacobs-Wirz, Dietsch, and Kritz; also to Inaugural Dissertations by P. Schultze and F. Uber, to a Programm by Dr. Prammer, and to Wölfflin's Archiv.

In conclusion I take pleasure in thanking Director Schmalz for his courteous permission to make his Sallust the basis of the present edition of the Bellum Catilinae. To Prof. E. M. Pease, the editor-in-chief of this series, I am deeply obliged for many and important suggestions; also to Prof. J. K. Lord. Both of these gentlemen, moreover, had the kindness to read the proof with the greatest care and conscientiousness. Lastly, I return thanks to Dr. J. C. Morgenthau and Mr. J. F. Mulqueen, of the College of the City of New York, for repeated and courteous aid given me in the progress of the work.

CHARLES GEORGE HERBERMANN.

NEW YORK, March, 1900.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

Dr. Herbermann has thoroughly revised his Sallust—for ten years the best edition published in this country—and, to better adapt it to young students, has given before the text, helpful Summaries of Chapters. References are also given to all the leading Grammars. It is believed that in Introduction, Summaries of Chapters, Text, Notes, and Vocabulary, everything needful has been done to adapt the book to Secondary School use. An edition without the quantity marks can be furnished upon special request.

INTRODUCTION.

I. LIFE OF SALLUST.

C. SALLUSTIUS CRISPUS, or Sallust, as we usually call him, was a native of Amiternum, a town of some importance in the Sabine hills. Born in the year 86 B.C., the year of Marius' death, he may be said to have been cradled amidst revolution and bloodshed. His boyhood and youth were no more fortunate. Rome was assailed by war from without and disorder from within. Mithradates in Asia (78-63 B.C.) and Sertorius in Spain (78-72) for years defied the power of the imperial republic. In Italy Lepidus (78) renewed the terrors of civil war, and Spartacus for two years (73-71) led his army of gladiators and revolted slaves up and down the peninsula, scattering death and dismay. Rome itself was the scene of riots and bloodshed. Ambitious young ruffians, like P. Clodius, at the head of armed mobs, took possession of its streets. Honors and power were the reward of bribery and lawless violence. Scenes like these must have left their impress on the clever and aspiring youth from the Sabine hills. Ambition, he himself tells us, seized his soul.¹ It would have been strange, had he kept his heart and mind uncontaminated by the prevailing corruption.

When Sallust left Amiternum for Rome, we do not know. Nor are we better informed about the progress of his education. All we can say is, that when he plunged into the current of Roman politics, he had already made serious studies in Greek and Latin literature. A passage in the *Bellum Catilinae*² suggests that even before entering upon his political career, Sallust had literary aspirations. They certainly bore no fruit at that time.

Sallust from the first espoused the popular cause, of which Caesar was already the chief champion. It was probably during Caesar's first consulship in 59 B.C., that Sallust was elected to the quaestorship, the first step in political preferment at Rome. Since Sulla's time the office brought with it a seat in the Senate. Some years later we meet him again, as tribune of the Commons. The times were stormy; bloody street-fights between the hired bands of P. Clodius, the chief democratic ruffian, and the henchmen of T. Annius Milo, the champion of the senate, were the order of the day. Law-abiding citizens feared a catastrophe from hour to hour. At last it came. Clodius was slain by Milo. The corpse was brought to the Forum. Excited throngs hurried to gaze once more on the features of the dead leader. Everything was ready for an explosion. Patriotism made moderation and prudent counsels the duty of every citizen, especially of every leader. But Sallust obeyed party passion rather than patriotism. With the other young leaders of the popular party, Sextus Clodius, Munatius Plancus, and Pompeius Rufus, he raised his voice, not to calm, but to excite the mob. He launched forth a furious harangue against Milo. Suddenly a new impulse seized the frantic crowds. Clodius' corpse was carried into the Curia Hostilia; the benches were torn up and gathered into a heap, and the senate-house became the funeral pile of Rome's foremost ruffian. The reaction came soon. Plancus, Rufus, and Clodius, went into exile, but Sallust escaped. Not for long, however. Two years afterwards (50 B.C.) the censor Appius Claudius Pulcher struck Sallust's name, along with many others, off the official list of the Senate, on the ground that he led a scandalous life. Unluckily there is too much reason to think that the charge was not baseless; and yet it is hard to believe that the censor's action was not dictated chiefly by politics. Like many other prominent men in the popular party, Sallust took refuge in Caesar's camp. When, in the year following, Caesar entered Rome as its master, Sallust received the quaestorship as the reward of his services, and again became a senator. During the civil war he fought on Caesar's side, and Caesar seems to have had confidence in his ability and loyalty. When the legions in Campania revolted and slew the senators sent to them by the dictator, he intrusted Sallust with the delicate mission of bringing them back to their allegiance. Sallust was unsuccessful and barely escaped with his life. In fact, it took all of Caesar's magnetism and moral sway to master the revolt. When Caesar crossed into Africa to put down the Pompeian forces there, Sallust at the head of a fleet seized the island of Cercina, and its well-stored granaries, and relieved Caesar of anxiety on the subject of his supplies. In short, he rendered such service to his chief during this campaign, that after the battle of Thapsus (46 B.C.) he was rewarded with the governorship of the enlarged province of Africa. The praetorship had been conferred on him some time before. In his province Sallust seems to have been the typical Roman governor whom he denounces so eloquently in his writings. When he returned he was assailed by numerous charges of bribery and extortion. He was tried by Caesar, who acquitted him: after his acquittal Sallust retired from political life, though some passages in his writings lead us to suspect that the measure of his ambition was far from full. Sallust's acquittal by Caesar no more establishes his innocence than his condemnation by Appius Claudius Pulcher, in 50 B.C., proves his guilt of the crimes laid to his charge. So much is certain, that when Sallust retired into private life, he was a very rich man. His palace, at the foot of the Quirinal Hill, which was discovered in 1885, astounds us to-day by its size and the remains of its splendor. Only the master of great wealth could have reared it. Shortly after Sallust's retirement, Caesar met his doom; and if Sallust had still any ambitious hopes, this event must have put an end to them.

In his leisure, Sallust's active mind turned to literature. Modern critics are agreed that it was only now that he began to write the works which have immortalized his name. His history of Catiline's conspiracy was the first result of his literary activity. It was probably written in 43 B.C. and published in 42. Sallust next wrote his history of the Jugurthine war: this, as well the history of Catiline's war, has come down to us. His third, and perhaps most important, work did not meet with the same good fortune. It dealt with the history of the Roman Republic from 78 B.C. to 66 B.C., and would have shed much needed light on an interesting part of Roman history. Four speeches and two letters are all that remains of the work. Sallust was not destined to enjoy his literary leisure for a long time. In 36 B.C. — some say as early as 39 B.C. — he died, leaving his palace and his famous gardens to his sister's grandson, who had adopted his name. Sallust's mansion subsequently became one of the favorite residences of the Roman emperors.

II. SALLUST AS A HISTORIAN.

To Sallust belongs the honor of being Rome's first historian in the true sense of the term. Before him the Roman writers of history followed the annalistic method. They were chroniclers rather than historians. Sallust, instead of following in their footsteps, went to Greece for his model, and chose Thucydides. Like the Greek writer, Sallust not merely recorded facts, but strove to give a picture of a period, to trace the connection of events, and to study their causes and effects. Like Thucydides, too, he chose for his subjects periods either contemporary or near to his own times. Furthermore, he largely modelled his style upon that of the Athenian historian, and even borrowed reflections and special passages. He was an apt and successful scholar, as is shown by the fact that he, in turn, became the model of Tacitus, the greatest of Roman historians; and yet he fell below the excellence of the Greek writer. From Thucydides, also, he borrowed the practice of introducing speeches supposed to have been delivered by the actors in his historical dramas; for none of his inserted speeches are genuine. We shall more easily understand the liberty thus taken, if we recall that even so good a scholar as Cicero regarded history as a branch of rhetoric, and that the ancient historians looked upon the form of their works as at least equal in importance to their historical correctness. Their histories were, above all, works of literary art. That Sallust, however, duly felt the historian's duty to present the facts correctly, we may infer from the choice of his subjects. With the incidents of Catiline's conspiracy he must have been familiar; for he was an eyewitness. His Histories included the years of his boyhood and youth, whilst his residence in Numidia as its governor must have given him unusual opportunities for becoming acquainted with the story of Jugurtha's war. That he consulted earlier writers when necessary, we know from his quoting Sisenna, and from the charges made against him by his enemies, that he borrowed obsolete words from the elder Cato. He also sought verbal information from the actors and witnesses of the events he portrays; for instance, in ch. 48. 9 of the Bellum Catilinae he repeats statements made to him by the triumvir Crassus. It does not seem too bold to assume that he learned many important facts from his wife Terentia, who at the time of Catiline's plot was married to Cicero. Still, Sallust cannot be called a careful historian, in the modern sense of the expression. Students will infer this from his errors in the chronological order of the incidents recounted in the Bellum Catilinae, to which attention is called in the notes.

Was Sallust a truthful and impartial historian? It would be difficult to convict him of deliberate falsehood. Indeed, when we bear in mind that he was a contemporary of many of the events he narrates, and that he was the friend or enemy of some of the principal actors in his story, we must accord him no little praise for his fairness. Some critics tell us that the aim of the Bellum Catilinae, for instance, was to clear Caesar's reputation. If they are right, they must nevertheless concede that Sallust is far from being an indiscriminate advocate of Caesar. His pen-portrait of the great statesman and general, a masterpiece like all his character-painting, is not a fulsome eulogy; indeed, it might readily stand for the verdict of modern scholarship. Cicero, it is true, is relegated to the background as far as possible; and yet he is optumus consul; he is the man — upstart though he was — to whom, in Rome's crisis, her aristocrats turned to save the commonwealth;¹ he is the orator whose brilliant speech was so useful to the republic.² From party spirit, Sallust is not as free as he claims to be. His Jugurthine war is one long indictment of the senatorial party. It is hard to understand how in the Bellum Catilinae he could tax the nobility with withholding the honors of a triumph from the nobles Q. Marcius Rex and Q. Metellus Creticus,³ when it was well known that Pompey and his partisans were the real obstacles. But perhaps Sallust forgot that Pompey was not at that time the chief of the senatorial party. Perhaps the suggestion that Pompey procured the assassination of young Cn. Piso in Spain⁴ is also inspired by partisanship. So much is certain, that the Pompeians, and especially Pompey's freedman Lenæus, bore Sallust a bitter grudge, and assailed him without measure both as a man, a historian, and a writer. However, admitting that Sallust is not without blemish as a historian, his merits, it must be conceded, far outweigh his faults, and the picture he has drawn of Rome in the days of Catiline, if perhaps unfair to one or another of his characters, in the main gives us a correct impression of the last days of the Roman republic.

III. SALLUST'S STYLE.

Sallust's merits as a writer were acknowledged without stint by Roman writers and critics under the Empire. Quintilian, generally a man of sober judgment, does not hesitate to match him against Thucydides. The great historian Tacitus calls him rerum Romanarum florentissimus auctor. He paid him a still greater compliment by taking him as his model for style. And yet the ancient critics were by no means indiscriminate admirers of Sallust. Quintilian, for instance, finds fault with his introductions both to the Catiline and the Jugurtha: they have no real connection with the works to which they are prefixed. The criticism is well founded, though these prefaces are well worth reading as modes of vigorous thought vigorously expressed. It is chiefly Sallust's style, however, to which the ancients took exception. It is abrupt, they tell us; its brevity verges on obscurity; Sallust borrows too many obsolete words from the elder Cato and other ancient historians. If we study Sallust's style, we shall soon find that it differs widely from Cicero's and Caesar's. Sallust makes no attempt to write with the rhythmic flow, which is so marked a characteristic in Cicero and writers of his school. As Sallust cut loose from the old annalists and founded a new school in history, so as a stylist he struck out in a new direction. His sentences are crisp and pointed, not flowing and melodious. Modern criticism finds both styles allowable, and holds that both may be handled with great effect. That Sallust is a vigorous and impressive writer needs no demonstration, though his epigrammatic brevity is at times hurtful to the clearness of his sentences. But it must not be inferred that Sallust is a careless stylist. He not only abounds in antithesis, but he arranges the words contrasted with conscious effort to produce the greatest effect; hence the frequent occurrence of chiasmus in his writings. He is even more fond of parallel arrangement in his sentences (anaphora). Series of words he arranges in pairs, omitting conjunctions, wherever it is feasible. How painfully he strives to vary his expression, is apparent to the least observant reader, and his art here often degenerates into artificiality. To secure variety in his constructions, he perversely puts aside established rules in the use of correlatives, as when he replaces alii . . . alii by alii . . . pars; to attain the same end he avoids parallelism in construction where others would seek it; as for instance in Bellum Catilinae, IX. 3, he says: audacia in bello, ubi pax evenerat aequitate . . . rem publicam curabant, where it would have been so much more natural to write: audacia in bello, in pace aequitate, etc. It is not unlikely that to the same striving after word effects, which led him into these mannerisms, we should ascribe his fondness for archaisms. However, we must not indorse this charge of his ancient critics indiscriminately. A careful examination of Sallust's vocabulary and grammatical usage has convinced modern scholars that he uses not only many so-called archaisms, but also many words and constructions that are colloquial rather than archaic. Indeed, it is not always safe to infer that a word which occurs, let us say, in Plautus, and is missed in Caesar and Cicero, was obsolete. Who will assure us that it was not in common colloquial use, though the school of Cicero may have condemned it? Nay, when we see a word of this kind reappear immediately after Cicero, and continue to be used by many later writers, must we not conclude that this is the true explanation? If we apply this principle to Sallust, the number of his archaisms becomes comparatively small, and most of them occur in the speeches. Perhaps Sallust used them there to give the speeches an archaic coloring or to portray the speaker's peculiarities of language. As the archaisms have been carefully pointed out in the notes, the attentive student may form his own judgment on this question. He will also observe in our author many other peculiarities, such as the use of igitur, ceterum, ad hoc, at the beginning of sentences; his preference for the form in -ere rather than -erunt in the 3d pl. of the perfect indicative; his use of quippe qui with the indicative; his fondness for the verb habeo; his frequent use of the historical infinitive. Perhaps some of these also were colloquialisms. At all events, the student will find in the notes every assistance needed to study Sallust from the point of view of style.

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE.

B.C.

- 108. Catiline born.
- 106. Cicero born.
- 82. Catiline murders his brother-in-law, Q. Caecilius, and M. Marius Gratidianus.
- 73. Catiline tried for incest with the Vestal Fabia, but acquitted.
- 68. Catiline praetor.
- 67. Catiline propraetor of the province of Africa.
- 66. About Dec. 5. Catiline conspires with Autronius and Piso to murder the consuls, L. Cotta and L. Torquatus, on Jan. 1, 65 B.C. (ch. XVIII.).
The consul L. Volcatius Tullus refuses to recognize Catiline as a candidate for the consulship.
- 65. Jan. 1. The plot, becoming known, fails (ch. XVIII.).
Feb. 5. A second attempt, fixed for this day, fails (ch. XVIII.).
Catiline, prosecuted by P. Clodius for extortion, is acquitted.
- 64. About June 1. Catiline makes preparations for a second plot, and afterwards summons a meeting of the conspirators (ch. XVII.).
Catiline defeated as candidate for the consulship.
M. Tullius Cicero and C. Antonius are elected consuls.
- 63. Catiline declares himself a candidate for the consulship for the year 62 B.C.
Cicero learns of Catiline's conspiracy through Fulvia and Curius.
The consular election, after postponement, takes place probably towards the end of July. (D. Junius Silanus and L. Licinius Murena are chosen consuls for 62.)
Oct. 21. Meeting of the Senate, which passed the decree viderent consules ne quid detrimenti res publica caperet.
Oct. 27. Manlius takes up arms at Faesulae.
Nov. 6. The conspirators meet at Laeca's house.
Nov. 7. C. Cornelius and L. Vargunteius attempt to murder Cicero in his own house.
Nov. 8. Meeting of the Senate: Cicero's First Oration against Catiline.
Catiline leaves Rome.
- Nov. 9. Cicero's Second Oration against Catiline to the people.

B.C.

63. Towards the end of November the Senate declares Catiline and Manlius public enemies.
Intrigues with the Allobroges.
On the night from Dec. 2 to Dec. 3. Arrest of the Allobrogian ambassadors and T. Volturcius (ch. XLV.).
Dec. 3. Arrest of the chiefs of the conspiracy in Rome. Meeting of the Senate (ch. XLVI.). After the meeting of the Senate Cicero addresses the people in his Third Oration against Catiline.
Dec. 5. Meeting of the Senate: Speeches of Caesar, Cato, Cicero (Fourth Oration against Catiline). Condemnation of the conspirators by the Senate. They are put to death (ch. L. to LV.).
62. Battle of Pistoria. Defeat and death of Catiline (ch. LVII. to LXL.).

CHAPTERS I-IV. PREFACE: WHY SALLUST BECAME A HISTORIAN.

Man being superior to the brute should seek glory by means of his intellect, not by bodily strength. Warfare requires the use both of the mind and of the body.

¹ The student is reminded that in the present edition: 1°. Nouns and adjectives with -i stems have the acc. pl. in -is. 2°. Nouns in -ius and -ium have the gen. sing. in -i. 3°. Superlatives and ordinals end in -umus instead of in -imus. 4°. Gerunds and gerundives of the third and fourth conjugations end in -undo instead of -endo. 5°. Nouns and adjectives of the second declension whose ending (-us) is preceded by v, retain the old form in -vos, as vivos instead of vivus. 6°. Certain words retain the old u instead of later i; e.g. lubet for libet. 7°. Certain words have vo instead of later ve; e.g. vorto, voster for verto, vester.

- 4 longam efficere. Nam divitiarum et formae gloria fluxa atque fragilis est, virtus clara aeternaque habetur.
- 5 Sed diu magnum inter mortalis certamen fuit, vine corporis an virtute animi res militaris magis procederet.
- 6 Nam et prius quam incipias consulto et ubi consulu-7 eris, maturare factum opus est. Ita utrumque per se indi-gens alterum alterius auxilio eget.

History proves that success in war depends chiefly on mental excellence. Peace, which does not of necessity call into play the same mental excellence, often leads to indolence, luxury, and pride, and finally to the downfall of the degenerate and the rise of the best men. The sensualist is practically dead; he who gains fame by his achievements or his merits, really lives and enjoys life.

- II. Igitur initio reges — nam in terris nomen imperii id primum fuit — diversi pars ingenium, alii corpus exercebant: etiam tum vita hominum sine cupiditate
- 2 agitabatur, sua cuique satis placebant. Postea vero quam in Asia Cyrus, in Graecia Lacedaemonii et lubidinem dominandi causam belli habere, maximam gloriam in maximo imperio putare, tum demum periculum atque negotiis compertum est in bello plurimum

- 3 ingenium posse. Quod si regum atque imperatorum animi virtus in pace ita ut in bello valeret, aequabiliter atque constantius sese res humanae haberent, neque aliud alio ferri neque mutari ac misceri omnia cerneret.
- 4 Nam imperium facile eis artibus retinetur, quibus in-5 itio partum est. Verum ubi pro labore desidia, pro continentia et aequitate lubricum atque superbia invasere, 6 fortuna simul cum moribus immutatur. Ita imperium semper ad optimum quemque a minus bono transfertur.

Quae hominēs arant, nāvigant, aedificant, virtūti 7

Fame may be gained by serving the commonwealth or by writing history, in war and in peace. The historian's work is most difficult; for, whether he praises or censures, he is likely to be misinterpreted. As a young man I entered on a public career, but, though my ideals were high, my reputation was smirched, because of the universal corruption.

III. Sed in māgnācōpiā rērum aliud aliī nātūra iter

When I retired from public life, I resolved to return to the pursuits of my youth and to write the history of Rome in sections. I have chosen the conspiracy of Catiline as my theme, because of its novelty.

- IV. Igitur ubi animus ex multis miseriis atque periculis requiēvit et mihi reliquam aetātem ā rē publicā procul habendam dēcrēvi, nōn fuit cōsilium sōcordiā atque dēsidiā bonum ōtium conterere, neque vērō agrum colundō aut vēnandō, servilibus officiis, intentum aetātem agere, sed ā quō inceptō studiōque mē ambiō mala dētinerat, eōdē regressus statui rēs gestās populī Rōmānī carptim, ut quaeque memoriā digna vidēbantur, perscribere, eō magis, quod mihi ā spē, metū, partibus rei publicae animus liber erat.
- 3 Igitur dē Catilīnae coniūrātiōne quam vērissimē
4 poterō paucis absolvam: nam id facinus in primis ego memorābile existumō sceleris atque periculi novitāte.
5 Dē cūius hominis mōribus pauca prius explānanda sunt, quam initium nārrandi faciam.

The character of Catiline. Motives that led him to conspire.

- V. L. Catilīna, nōbili genere nātus, fuit māgnā vi et 2 animi et corporis, sed ingenio malō prāvōque. Huic ab adulescentiā bella intestina, caedēs, rapīnae, discor-

dia cīvilis grāta fuēre, ibique iuventūtem suam exercuit. Corpus patiēns inediae, algōris, vigiliae suprà 3 quam cuiquam crēdibile est. Animus audāx, subdolos, 4 varius, cūius rei lubet simulātor ac dissimulātor, aliēnī appetēns, suī profūsus, ardēns in cupiditatibus; satis 5 eloquentiae, sapientiae parum: vāstus animus immoderāta, incrēdibilia, nimis alta semper cupiēbat. Hunc post dominātiōnem L. Sullae lubidō māxuma invāserat rei pūblīcae capiundae, neque id quibus modis adsequeretur, dum sibi rēgnū parāret, quicquam pensī habebat. Agitābātur magis magisque in diēs animus ferōx 7 inopiā rei familiāris et cōnscentiā scelerum, quae utraque eis artibus auxerat, quās suprà memorāvi. Incitā- 8 bant praeterea corrupti civitātis mōrēs, quōs pessuma ac divorsa inter sē mala, lūxuria atque avāritia, vexābant.

Rēs ipsa hortārī videtur, quoniam dē mōribus civitātis 9 tempus admonuit, suprà repetere ac paucis instituta mājōrum domī militiaeque, quō modo rem pūblicam habuerint quantamque reliquerint, ut paulatim immūtata ex pulcherrumā atque optimā pessuma ac flāgitiosissima facta sit, disserere.

VI-XIII. THE STORY OF ROME'S EARLY VIRTUE AND SUBSEQUENT DEGENERACY.

The foundation of Rome. Its development till the rise of the republic.

VI. Urbem Rōmam, sicutī ego accēpi, candidēre atque habuēre initiō Trōiānī, quī Aenēā duce profugī, sēdibus incertīs, vagābantur, cumque eis Aboriginēs, genus hominum agreste, sine lēgibus, sine imperiō,

- 2 liberum atque solutum. Hi postquam in una moenia convēnere, dispari genere, dissimili lingua, alii alio more viventes, incredibile memoratum est quam facile coaluerint: ita brevi multitudō dispersa atque vaga 3 concordia civitas facta erat. Sed postquam res eorum, civibus, moribus, agris aucta, satis prospera satisque pollens videbatur, sicuti pleraque mortalium habentur, 4 invidia ex opulentiā orta est. Igitur reges populique finitimi bello temptare, pauci ex amicis auxilio esse:
5 nam ceteri metu percussi a periculis aberant. At Romani domi militiaeque intenti festinare, parare, alius alium hortari, hostibus obviam ire, libertatem, patriam, parentisque armis tegere. Post, ubi pericula virtute propulerant, sociis atque amicis auxilia portabant, magisque dandis quam accipiendis beneficiis amicitias parabant. Imperium legitimum, nomen imperi regum 6 habebant. Dilecti, quibus corpus annis infirmum, ingenium sapientiā validum erat, rei publicae consul-tabant: ei vel aetate vel cura similitudine patres 7 appellabantur. Post, ubi regum imperium, quod initio conservandae libertatis atque augendae rei publicae fuerat, in superbiam dominationemque se convertit, immutato more annua imperia binosque imperatores sibi fecere: eo modo minime posse putabant per licentiam insolescere animum humanum.

Merit, i.e. bravery, ambition, liberality, were stimulated by the new form of government.

- VII. Sed ea tempestate coepere se quisque magis
2 extollere magisque ingenium in promptu habere. Nam regibus boni quam mali suspectiores sunt, semperque

eīs aliēna virtūs formīdulōsa est. Sed civitās incrēdi- 3 bile memorātū est adeptā libertāte quantum brevī crē-verit: tanta cupidō glōriæ incēsserat. Iam primum 4 iuventūs, simul ac bellī patiēns erat, in castrīs per labōrem ūsum militiae discēbat magisque in decōris armīs et militāribus equīs quam in scortīs atque convīviīs lubīdinem habēbant. Igitur tālibus virīs nōn 5 labor insolitus, nōn locus ūllus asper aut arduus erat, nōn armātus hostis formīdulōsus: virtūs omnia domu-erat. Sed glōriæ māximum certāmen inter ipsōs erat: 6 sē quisque hostem ferīre, mūrum adscendere, cōspici, dum tāle facinus faceret, properābat: eās divitiās, eam bonam fāmam māgnamque nōbilitātem putābant. Laudis avidī, pecūniæ liberālēs erant; glōriam ingentem, divitiās honestās volēbant. Memorāre possem, quibus 7 in locīs māxumās hostium cōpiās populus Rōmānus parvā manū fūderit, quās urbīs nātūrā mūnītās pūgnandō cēperit, nī ea rēs longius nōs ab inceptō traheret.

But Rome, unlike Athens, had no writers to extol the deeds of her great men.

VIII. Sed profectō fortūna in omni rē dominātur:
 ea rēs cūctās ex lubīdine magis quam ex vērō celebrat obscuratque. Athēniēnsium rēs gestae, sicutī ego 2 aestumō, satis amplae māgnificaeque fuēre, vērū aliquantō minōres tamen quam fāmā feruntur. Sed quia 3 prōvērēre ibi scriptōrum māgna ingenia, per terrārū orbem Athēniēnsium facta prō māximīs celebrantur.
 Ita eōrum quī fēcēre virtūs tanta habētur, quantum 4 eam verbīs potuēre extollere praeclāra ingenia. At 5 populō Rōmānō numquam ea cōpia fuit, quia prudentissumus quisque m̄xumē negōtiōsus erat: ingenium nēmō sine corpore exercēbat, optumus quisque facere quam dicere, sua ab aliis bene facta laudārī quam ipse aliōrum nārrāre mālēbat.

Picture of the golden age of Roman morals.

IX. Igitur domī militiæque bonī mōrēs colēbantur, concordia m̄xuma, minuma avāritia erat: iūs bonumque apud eōs nōn lēgibus magis quam nātūrā valēbat.
2 Iūrgia, discordiās, simultātēs cum hostibus exercēbant,
3 cīvēs cum cīvibus dē virtūte certābant: in suppliciis deōrum māgnificī, domī parcī, in amicōs fidēlēs erant.
Duābus hīs artibus, audāciā in bellō, ubi pāx ēvēnerat
4 aequitāte, sēque remque pūblicam cūrābant. Quārum rērum ego m̄xuma documenta haec habeo: quod in bellō saepius vindicātum est in eōs, quī contrā impe-rium in hostem pūgnāverant quīque tardius revocātī proeliō excēsserant, quam quī signa relinquere aut 5 pulsī locō cēdere ausī erant; in pāce vērō, quod bene-ficiis magis quam metū imperium agitābant et, acceptā iniūriā, ignōscere quam persequī mālēbant.

Success, especially the overthrow of Carthage, demoralized the Romans. Imperialism and greed undermined all the virtues, and after a struggle became dominant, leading to cruel and intolerable tyranny.

X. Sed ubi labōre atque iūstitiā rēs pūblica crēvit, rēgēs māgnī bellō domitī, nātiōnēs ferae et populi ingentēs vī subāctī, Carthāgō, aemula imperī Rōmānī, ab stirpe interiit, cūncta maria terraeque patēbant: saevīre 2 fortūna ac mīscēre omnia coepit. Quī labōrēs, pericula, dubiās atque asperās rēs facile tolerāverant, eis ōtium, divitiæ, optanda aliās onerī miseriaeque fuere. Igitur 3 primō imperī, deinde pecūniæ cupidō crevit: ea quasi materiēs omnium malōrum fuere. Namque avāritia 4 fidem, probitatem, ceterāsque artīs bonās subvortit;

 prō his superbiam, crudelitatem, deos neglegere, omnia vñalia habere edocuit. Ambitiō multōs mortālis fal- 5 sōs fierī subēgit, aliud clausum in pectore, aliud in linguā prōptum habere, amicitias inimicitiasque nōn ex rē sed ex commodō aestumāre magisque voltum quam ingenium bonum habere. Haec primō paulatim 6 crescere, interdum vindicārī; post, ubi contagiō quasi pestilentia invāsīt, civitās immūtata, imperium ex iustissimō atque optimō crudēle intolerandumque factum.

At first ambition, and then greed was predominant. Character of each. After Sulla avarice ruled all things and the army became demoralized.

XI. Sed primō magis ambitio quam avāritia animōs hominum exercēbat, quod tamen vitium propius virtūtem erat. Nam glōriam, honōrem, imperium bonus et 2 ignāvos aequē sibi exoptant; sed ille vērā viā nītitur, huic quia bonæ artēs dēsunt, dolīs atque fallaciis contendit. Avāritia pecūniæ studium habet, quam nēmō 3 sapiēs concupivit: ea quasi venēnis malis imbūta corpus animumque virilem effēminat, semper infīnita, in-satiabilis est, neque cōpiā neque inopiā minuitur. Sed 4 postquam L. Sulla, armīs receptā rē publicā, bonīs initiis malōs eventūs habuit, rapere omnēs, trahere, domum alius, alius agrōs cupere, neque modum neque
 modestiam victōrēs habere, foeda crudēliaque in civīs

5 facinora facere. Hūc accēdēbat quod L. Sulla exercitum, quem in Asiā ductāverat, quō sibi fidum faceret,
 .contrā mōrem māiōrum lūxuriōsē nimisque liberāliter habuerat. Loca amoena, voluptāria facile in ōtiō ferō-6 cīs militum animōs molliverant. Ibi primum insuēvit exercitus populī Rōmānī amāre, pōtare, signa, tabulās pictās, vāsa caelāta mīrārī, ea privātīm et publicē rapere, delūbra spoliāre, sacra profānaque omnia pol-7 luere. Igitur ei militēs, postquam victōriam adepti
 8 sunt, nihil reliquī victis fēcere. Quippe secundae rēs sapientium animōs fatīgant: nē illi corruptis mōribus victōriae temperārent.

The further results of the ascendancy of the wealthy were luxury, pride, dishonesty, wastefulness, immorality, decay of religion. Contrast between the old and the new generation of Romans.

XII. Postquam divitiae honōrī esse coepere et eas glōria, imperium, potentia sequēbatur, hebescere virtūs, paupertās probrō habērī, innocentia prō malivolentiā
 2 dūcī coepit. Igitur ex divitiis iuventūtem lūxuria atque avāritia cum superbiā invāsere: rapere, cōnsū-mere, sua parvī pendere, aliēna cupere; pudōrem, pudicitiam, dīvina atque hūmāna prōmīscua, nihil 3 pēnsī neque moderātī habere. Operae pretium est, cum domōs atque villās cōgnōveris in urbium modum exaedificātās, visere templa deōrum, quae nostrī māiōres, 4 religiōsissimī mortālēs, fēcere. Vērūm illi delūbra deō-rum pietāte, domōs suās glōriā decorābant, neque vic-5 tīs quicquam praeter iniūriae licentiam ēripiēbant. At hī contrā ignāvissumī hominēs per summum scelus omnia ea sociis adimere, quae fortissimī virī victōrēs reliquerant: proinde quasi iniuriam facere id dēnum esset imperiō ūti.

Word picture of the resulting extravagance and dissipation.

XIII. Nam quid ea memorem, quae, nisi eis qui vidēre, nēminī crēdibilia sunt, ā privātis complūribus subvorsōs montis, maria cōstrāta esse? Quibus mihi 2 videntur lūdibriō fuisse divitiae: quippe, quās honestē habēre licēbat, abūtī per turpitūdinem properābant. Sed lubidō stuprī, gāneae cēterīque cultūs nōn minor 3 incēsserat: mulierēs pudicitiam in prōpatulō habēre: vescendī causā terrā marīque omnia exquirere: dormire prius quam somnī cupidō esset, nōn famem aut sitim, neque frīgus neque lassitūdinem opperīrī, sed ea omnia lūxū antecapere. Haec iuventūtem, ubi famili- 4 ārēs opēs defēceraant, ad facinora incendēbant; animus 5 imbūtus malīs artibus haud facile lubidinibus carēbat: eō profūsius omnibus modis quaestui atque sūmptui dēditus erat.

XIV-XVII. PREPARATIONS FOR THE CONSPIRACY.

Catiline gathers around him the vicious and corrupts the young.

XIV. In tantā tamque corruptā civitatē Catilina, id quod factū facillimum erat, omnium flāgitiōrum atque facinorum circum sē tamquam stipātōrum catervās habēbat. Nam quicumque impudicus, gāneō, āleō bona 2 patria lacerāverat, quīque aliēnum aes grande cōnflāverat, quō flāgitium aut facinus redimeret, praeterea 3 omnēs undique parricīdae, sacrilegī, convicti iūdicīis aut prō factis iūdicium timentēs, ad hōc quōs manus atque lingua periūriō aut sanguine civīli alēbat, pos-

- trēmō omnēs quōs flāgitium, egestās, cōnsciūs animus exagitābat, eī Catilinae proximi familiārēsque erant.
- 4 Quod sī quis etiam ā culpā vacuus in amicitiam eius
inciderat, cotidiānō ūsū atque inlecebris facile pār 5 similisque cēteris efficiēbātur. Sed māxumē adulēscentium familiāritātēs appetēbat: eōrum animi mollēs 6 etiam et fluxi dolis haud difficulter capiēbantur. Nam ut cuiusque studium ex aetate flagrābat, aliis scorta praeberē, aliis canēs atque equōs mercārī, postrēmō neque sūmptui neque modestiae suae parcere, dum 7 illōs obnoxios fidōsque sibi faceret. Sciō fuisse nōnnullōs qui ita existimārent, iuventūtem, quae domum Catilinae frequentābat, parum honestē pudicitiam ha-buisse; sed ex aliis rēbus magis, quam quod cuiquam id compertum foret, haec fama valēbat.

Catiline's career as a libertine.

- XV. Iam primum adulēscēns Catilīna multa nefanda stupra fēcerat, cum virgine nōbili, cum sacerdōte Vestae, 2 alia hūiusce modī contrā iūs fāsque. Postrēmō captus amōre Aurēliae Orestillae, cuius praeter fōrmam nihil umquam bonus laudāvit, quod ea nūbere illi dubitābat timēns prīvignum adultum aetate, prō certō crēditur necātō filiō vacuam domum scelestis nūptiis fēcisse.
- 3 Quae quidem rēs mihi in primis videtur causa fuisse
4 facinus mātūrandi. Namque animus impūrus, dīs hominibusque infestus, neque vigiliis neque quietibus sedārī poterat: ita cōnscientia mentem excitam vāstā-5 bat. Igitur colōs eī exsanguis, foedi oculi, citus modo modo tardus incēssus: prōrsus in faciē voltūque vēcordia inerat.

Catiline trains his young friends to every form of crime. Relying on these, and seeing the great number of debtors, the revolutionary spirit of Sulla's veterans, the defenseless state of Italy, and the Senate's inertness, he plans to overthrow the republic.

XVI. Sed iuventūtem, quam, ut suprà diximus, inlēxerat, multīs modīs mala facinora ēdocēbat. Ex 2 illīs tēstīs signātōrēsque falsōs commodāre; fidem, fortūnās, pericula vilia habēre, post, ubi eōrum fāmam atque pudōrem attrīverat, māiōra alia imperābat: sī 3 causa peccandī in praesēns minus suppetēbat, nihilō minus insontis sicutī sontis circumvenīre, iugulāre: scilicet nē per ōtium torpēscerent manūs aut animus, grātuitō potius malus atque crūdēlis erat. Eis amīcīs 4 sociisque cōnfisus Catilīna, simul quod aes aliēnum per omnis terrās ingēns erat, et quod plērique Sullānī milītēs, largius suō ūsī, rapīnārum et victōriae veteris memorēs cīvile bellum exoptābant, opprimundae rei pūblicae cōnsilium cēpit. In Italiā nullus exercitus, 5 Cn. Pompēius in extrēmīs terrīs bellum gerēbat; ipsī cōsulātum petentī māgna spēs; senātus nihil sānē intentus: tūtāe tranquillaeque rēs omnēs, sed ea prōsus oportūna Catilīnae.

 dominātiōnis spēs hortābātur quam inopia aut alia ne-6 cessitūdō. Cēterum iuventūs plēraque, sed māxumē nōbilitum, Catilīnae inceptis favēbat: quibus in ōtiō vel māgnificē vel molliter vīvere cōpia erat, incerta prō 7 certis, bellum quam pācem mālēbant. Fuēre item eā tempestāte quī crēderent M. Licinium Crassum nōn ignārum eius cōnsili fuisse: quia Cn. Pompēius, invī-sus ipsī, māgnū exercitum ductābat, cuiusvis opēs

 foedum hominem ā rē publicā procul esse volēbat, simul quia bonī complūrēs praesidium in eō putābant, et iam tum potentia Pompēi formīdulōsa erat. Sed is 3 Pisō in prōvinciā ab equitibus Hispānīs, quōs in exercitū ductābat, iter faciēns occisus est. Sunt quī ita 4 dicant, imperia eius iniūsta, superba, crūdēlia barbarōs nequīvisse pati; aliī autem equitēs illōs, Cn. Pompēi 5 veterēs fidōsque clientis, voluntāte eius Pisōnem adgressōs: numquam Hispānōs praeterea tāle facinus

6 fēcisse, sed imperia saeva multa antea perpersōs. Nōs eam rem in mediō relinquēmus. Dē superiōre coniūrātiōne satis dictum.

XX-XXII. MEETING OF THE NEW CONSPIRATORS.

Catiline convenes his accomplices and addresses them: Relying on your courage and loyalty, I have resolved to take advantage of the present favorable position of affairs (2-6). The sight of the tyranny, the honors, and the ill-gotten wealth of the oligarchs, contrasted with our own dangers, disgrace, and poverty, inflames me more and more (6-10). Victory is in our grasp. No man of pluck can bear this state of things when he compares their luxury and profligacy with our want (10-14). Therefore, arise; to the victors will belong the spoils. Everything urges action. That is the programme of my consulship (14-17).

XX. Catilīna, ubi eōs, quōs paulō ante memorāvī, convēnisse videt, tametsī cum singulīs multa saepe ēgerat, tamen in rem fore crēdēns ūnivorsōs appellāre et cohortārī, in abditam partem aedium sēcēdit atque ibi omnibus arbitrīs procul āmōtīs ōrātiōnem hūiusce modī habuit:

- 2 “Nī virtūs fidēsque vostra spectāta mihi forent, nēquiquam oportūna rēs cecidisset: spēs māgna, domīnātiō in manibus frūstrā fuissent; neque ego per Ignā-
- 3 vīam aut vāna ingenia incerta prō certīs captārem. Sed quia multis et māgnīs tempestātibus vōs cōgnōvī fortīs fidēsque mihi, eō animus ausus est māximum atque pulcherrimum facinus incipere, simul quia vōbīs
- 4 eadem quae mihi bona malaque esse intellēxī: nam idem velle atque idem nōlle, ea dēmum firma amīcitiā
- 5 est. Sed ego quae mente agitāvī, omnēs iam antea dīvorsī audīstis. Cēterum mihi in diēs magis animus 6 accenditur, cum cōsiderō, quae condiciō vitāe futūra sit, nisi nōsmet ipsī vindicāmus in libertātem. Nam 7 postquam rēs pūblica in paucōrum potentium iūs atque diciōnem concēssit, semper illis rēgēs, tetrarchae vecti-gālēs esse, populī, nātiōnēs stipendia pendere; cēteri omnēs, strēnuī, bonī, nōbilēs atque ignōbilēs, volgus fuimus sine grātiā, sine auctōritāte, eis obnoxii, quibus, sī rēs pūblica valeret, formīdinī essēmus. Itaque omnis 8 grātiā, potentia, honōs, dīvitiae apud illōs sunt aut ubi illi volunt: nōbīs reliquēre pericula, repulsās, iūdicia, egestātem. Quae quō ūsque tandem patiēmini, fortis- 9 sumī virī? nōnne ēmorī per virtutē praestat, quam vitā miseram atque inhonestam, ubi aliēnae superbiae lūdibriō fueris, per dēdecus āmittere? Vērū 10 enim vērō, prō deum atque hominum fidem, victōria in manū nōbīs est: viget aetās, animus valet; contrā illis annis atque dīvitīs omnia cōsensuērunt. Tantum modo inceptō opus est, cētera rēs expediet. Etenim 11 quis mortālium, cui virīle ingenium est, tolerāre potest illis dīvitias superāre, quās profundant in exstruendō marī et montibus coaequandīs, nōbīs rem familiārem etiam ad necessāria deesse? illōs bīnās aut amplius domōs continuāre, nōbīs larem familiārem nūquam ūllum esse? Cum tabulās, sīgna, toreumata emunt, 12 nova diruunt, alia aedificant, postrēmō omnibus modis pecūniam trahunt, vexant, tamen summā lubīdine dīvi-tias suās vincere nequeunt. At nōbīs est domī inopia, 13 forīs aes aliēnum: mala rēs, spēs multō asperior: dēnique, quid reliquī habēmus praeter miseram animam?

Quin igitur expergiscimini? En illa, illa quam saepe 14 optāstis libertās, praeterea dīvitiae, decus, glōria in oculis sita sunt: fortūna omnia ea victōribus praemia 15 posuit. Rēs, tempus, perīcula, egestās, bellī spolia 16 māgnifica magis quam ōrātiō mea vōs hortantur. Vel imperātōre vel mīlite mē ūtiminī: neque animus neque 17 corpus ā vōbīs aberit. Haec ipsa, ut spērō, vōbiscum ūnā cōnsul agam, nisi forte mē animus fallit et vōs servīre magis quam imperāre parātī estis."

Catiline makes known the details of his plan, his resources, and confederates. He again stirs them up to act.

XXI. Postquam accēpēre ea hominēs, quibus mala abundē omnia erant, sed neque rēs neque spēs bona ūlla, tametsī illis quiēta movēre māgna mercēs vidēbātur, tamen pōstulāvēre plērīque, ut prōpōneret, quae condiciō bellī foret, quae praemia armīs peterent, quid 2 ubīque opis aut speī habērent. Tum Catilīna pollicērī tabulās novās, prōscriptiōnem locuplētium, magistrātūs, sacerdotia, rapīnās, alia omnia, quae bellum atque lubidō
 3 victōrum fert. Praetereā esse in Hispāniā citeriōre Pisōnem, in Maurētāniā cum exercitū P. Sittium Nūcerīnum, cōnsiliī suī participēs; petere cōsulātum C.
 Antōnium, quem sibi conlēgam fore spērāret, homi-nem et familiārem et omnibus necessitudinibus circumventum; cum eō sē cōnsulem initium agundī fac-4 tūrum. Ad hōc male dictīs increpābat omnis bonōs, suōrum ūnumquemque nōmināns laudāre: admonēbat alium egestātis, alium cupiditātis suae, complūris perīculī aut ignōminiae, multōs victōriae Sullānae, quibus 5 ea praedae fuerat. Postquam omnium animōs alacris videt, cohortātus ut petitiōnem suam cūrae habērent, conventum dīmīsit.

The conspirators bind themselves to the plot by drinking wine mixed with human blood.

XXII. Fuere eā tempestāte, quī dicerent Catilinam, oratione habitā cum ad iusiurandum popularis sceleris sui adigeret, humani corporis sanguinem vino permixtum in pateris circumtulisse: inde cum post execrationem omnes degustavissent, sicut in sollemnibus sacris fieri consuevit, aperuisse consilium suum atque eā dritate effecisse, quō inter se fidi magis forent alius alii tanti facinoris consci. Nonnulli ficta et haec et multa praeterea existumabant ab eis, quī Ciceronis invidiam, quae postea orta est, leniri credebant atrocitate sceleris eorum, quī poenas dederant. Nobis ea res pro magnitudine parum comperta est.

XXIII-XXVII. THE PLOT IS CHECKED, BUT NOT GIVEN UP.

Curius tells Fulvia of Catiline's plans. She tells others. The nobility support Cicero for the consulship.

XXIII. Sed in eā coniuratione fuit Q. Curius, natus haud obscuro loco, flagitiis atque facinoribus copertus, quem censores senatui probri gratia moverant. Huic homini non minor vanitas inerat quam audacia: neque reticere quae audierat, neque suamet ipse scelera occultare, prorsus neque dicere neque facere quicquam pensi habebat. Erat ei cum Fulvia, muliere nobili, stupri 3 vetus consuetudo; cui cum minus gratus esset, quia inopia minus largiri poterat, repente glorians maria montisque polliceri coepit et minari interdum ferro, nisi sibi obnoxia foret, postrimo ferocius agitare quam solitus erat. At Fulvia insolentiae Curi causam cognitam 4 tale periculum rei publicae haud occultum habuit, sed

sublatō auctōre dē Catilinae coniūratiōne quae quōquō 5 modō audierat complūribus nārrāvit. Ea rēs in primīs studia hominum accendit ad cōsulātum mandandum 6 M. Tullio Cicerōnī. Namque antea plēraque nōbilitās invidia aestuābat et quasi pollui cōsulātum crēdebant, si eum quamvis ēgregius homō novos adeptus foret.
 Sed ubi periculum advēnit, invidia atque superbia post fuere.

*Cicero and C. Antonius elected consuls. Panic of the plotters.
 Catiline undaunted. He gathers arms, money, men; even women join the conspirators.*

XXIV. Igitur comitiis habitis, cōsulēs dēclārantur
 2 M. Tullius et C. Antōnius. Quod factum primō popu-lāris coniūratiōnis concusserat. Neque tamen Catilinae furor minuēbatur, sed in diēs plūra agitāre, arma per Italiam locis oportūnis parāre, pecūniam suā aut amī-cōrum fidē sūptam mūtūam Faesulās ad Mānlium quendam portāre, quī postea princeps fuit belli faci-3 undī. Eā tempestāte plūrumōs cuiusque generis hominēs adscivisse sibi dīcitur, mulierēs etiam ali-quot, quae primō ingentis sūptūs stuprō corporis tolerāverant, post, ubi aetās tantum modo quaestui neque lūxuriae modum fēcerat, aes aliēnum grande 4 cōflāverant. Per eas sē Catilina crēdebat posse ser-vitia urbāna sollicitāre, urbem incendere, virōs eārum vel adiungere sibi vel interficere.

Character of Sempronia.

XXV. Sed in eis erat Semprōnia, quae multa saepe
 2 virilis audāciae facinora commiserat. Haec mulier genere atque formā, praeterea virō atque liberis satis

fortūnāta fuit; lītterīs Graecīs et Latīnīs docta, psallere, saltāre ēlegantius quam necesse est probae, multa alia, quae instrūmenta lūxuriae sunt. Sed ei cārīōra semper 3 omnia quam decus atque pudicitia fuit; pecūniae an fāmae minus parceret, haud facile discernerēs. Sed ea 4 saepe antehāc fidem prōdiderat, crēditum abiūrāverat, caedis cōnschia fuerat: lūxuriā atque inopiā praeceps abierat. Vērū ingenium eius haud absurdum: posse 5 vorsūs facere, iocum movēre, sermōne ūtī vel modestō vel molli vel procācī; prōrsus multae facētiaē multusque lepōs inerat.

Catiline again a candidate for the consulship. Cicero warned by Fulvia takes precautionary measures. Catiline, again defeated at the election, determines to begin a civil war.

XXVI. Hīs rēbus comparātīs, Catilīna nihilō minus in proximum annum cōsulātum petēbat, spērāns, sī 2 dēsīgnātus foret, facile sē ex voluntāte Antōniō ūsūrum. Neque intereā quiētus erat, sed omnibus modīs insidiās 3 parābat Cicerōnī. Neque illi tamen ad cavendum dolus aut astūtiae deerant. Namque ā principiō cōsulātūs sui multa pollicendō per Fulviam effēcerat, ut Q. Curius, dē quō paulō ante memorāvi, cōsilia Catilinae sibi prōderet. Ad hōc conlēgam suum Antōnium pactiōne 4 prōvinciae perpulerat, nē contrā rem publicam sentīret; circum sē praesidia amicōrum atque clientium occultē habēbat. Postquam diēs comitiōrum vēnit et Catilinae 5 neque petitiō neque insidiae, quās cōsulibus in campō fēcerat, prōsperē cēssēre, cōstituit bellum facere et extrēma omnia experīrī, quoniam quae occultē temp-tāverat aspera foedaque ēvēnerant.

Catiline sends agents to different parts of Italy. His revolutionary attempts at Rome fail. He calls the plotters together at M. Laeca's house and announces his intention to join the army after killing Cicero.

XXVII. Igitur C. Mānlium Faesulās atque in eam partem Etrūriae, Septimium quendam Camertem in agrum Picēnum, C. Iūlium in Āpūliam dīmisit, prae-
 2 terea alium aliō, quem ubique oportūnum sibi fore
 2 crēdebāt. Interea Rōmae multa simul mōliri: cōsuli-bus insidiās tendere, parāre incendia, oportūna loca armātis hominibus obsidēre; ipse cum telō esse, item aliōs iubēre, hortārī utī semper intentī parātique essent;
 diēs noctisque fēstināre, vigilāre, neque insomniis neque
 3 labōre fatigārī. Postrēmō, ubi multa agitanti nihil prōcēdit, rursus intempestā nocte coniūratiōnis prin-4 cipēs convocat ad M. Porcium Laecam, ibique multa dē Ignāviā eōrum questus docet sē Mānlium praemi-sisse ad eam multitudinem, quam ad capiunda arma parāverat, item aliōs in alia loca oportūna, quī initium bellī facerent, sēque ad exercitum proficisci cupere, si prius Cicerōnem oppressisset: eum suis cōsiliis multum officere.

XXVIII-XXXI. THE ACTION OF THE GOVERNMENT.

Catiline's attempt to assassinate Cicero fails. Manlius in Etruria.

XXVIII. Igitur perterritis ac dubitantibus ceteris
 C. Cornēlius eques Rōmānus operam suam pollicitus et cum eō L. Varguntēius senātor cōstituēre eā nocte paulō post cum armātis hominibus sicutī salūtātum introīre ad Cicerōnem ac dē imprōvisō domū suae im-2 parātum cōfodere. Curius ubi intellegit, quantum

periculum cōsulī impendeat, properē per Fulviam Cicerōnī dolum, quī parābātur, ēnūnciat. Ita illi iānuā 3 prohibiti tantum facinus frūstrā susceperant.

Intereā Mānlius in Etrūriā plēbem sollicitāre, ege- 4 stāte simul ac dolōre iniūriae novārum rērum cupidam, quod Sullae dominātiōne agrōs bonaque omnia amiserat, praetereā latrōnēs cūiusque generis, quōrum in eā rēgiōne māgna cōpia erat, nōnnūllōs ex Sullānis colōniīs, quibus lubidō atque lūxuria ex māgnīs rapīnis nihil reliquū fēcerat.

The Senate passes the senatus consultum ultimum.

XXIX. Ea cum Cicerōnī nūntiārentur, ancipiti malō permōtus, quod neque urbem, ab insidiīs privātō cōnsiliō longius tuērī poterat, neque exercitus Mānli quantus aut quō cōnsiliō foret satis compertum habēbat, rem ad senātum refert iam antea volgi rūmōribus exagitātum. Itaque, quod plērumque in atrōci negōtiō 2 solet, senātus dēcrēvit, darent operam cōsulēs, nē quid rēs pūblica dētrimentī caperet. Ea potestās per senā- 3 tum mōre Rōmānō magistrātui māxima permittitur, exercitum parāre, bellum gerere, coercēre omnibus modīs sociōs atque civīs, domī militiaeque imperium atque iūdicium summum habēre: aliter sine populi iūssū nūllius eārum rērum cōsulī iūs est.

At a meeting of the Senate the rising of Manlius in Etruria is announced. The Senate takes vigorous measures to check the uprising.

XXX. Post paucōs diēs L. Saenius senātor in senātū litterās recitāvit, quās Faesulīs adlātās sibi dicēbat, in quibus scriptum erat C. Mānlium arma cēpisse cum

- māgnā multitudine ante diem VI. Kalendās Novem-
 2 brīs. Simul, id quod in tālī rē solet, aliī portenta atque prōdigia nūntiābant, aliī conventūs fieri, arma portārī, 3 Capuae atque in Āpūliā servile bellum movērī. Igitur
 senātī dēcrētō Q. Mārcius Rēx Faesulās, Q. Metellus 4 Crēticus in Āpūliam circumque ea loca missī — ei utri-que ad urbem imperātōrēs erant, impediti nē triumphārent calumniā paucōrum, quibus omnia honesta atque 5 inhonesta vēndere mōs erat —, sed praetōrēs Q. Pompēius Rūfus Capuam, Q. Metellus Celer in agrum Picē-num, eisque permissum, utī prō tempore atque periculō 6 exercitum comparārent. Ad hōc, sī quis indicāvisset dē coniūratiōne, quae contrā rem publicam facta erat, praemium servō libertātem et sēstertia centum, liberō 7 impunitātem eius rei et sēstertia ducenta, itemque dēcrēvere, utī gladiātōriae familiae Capuam et in cētera mūnicipia distribuerentur prō cūiusque opibus, Rōmae per tōtam urbem vigiliae habērentur eisque minōrēs magistrātūs praeeessent.

Panic in Rome. Catiline continues his plotting; he attends the meeting of the Senate at which Cicero delivers his first oration against him. Catiline's reply and threat.

- XXXI. Quibus rēbus permōta civitās atque immū-tāta urbis faciēs erat. Ex summā laetitiā atque lāsciviā, quae diuturna quies pepererat, repente omnis
 2 trīstitia invāsīt: fēstīnāre, trepidāre, neque locō neque hominī cuiquam satis crēdere, neque bellum gerere, neque pācem habēre, suō quisque metū pericula mētīrī.
 3 Ad hōc mulierēs, quibus rei publicae māgnitudine belli timor insolitus incēsserat, afflīctāre sēsē, manūs supplicēs ad caelum tendere, miserārī parvōs liberōs, rogi-

MARCUS TULLIUS CICERO.

tāre omnia, omnia pavēre, superbiā atque deliciis omissīs sibi patriaeque diffidere.

At Catilināe crudelis animus eadem illa movēbat, 4 tametsi praesidia parābantur et ipse lēge Plautiā inter-rogātus erat ab L. Paulō. Postrēmō dissimulandī causā 5 aut suī expūrgandī, si cūius iūrgiō lacessitus foret, in senātum vēnit. Tum M. Tullius cōsul, sive praesen- 6 tiam eiūs timēns sive irā commōtus, orātiōnem habuit lūculentam atque ūtilem rei publicae, quam postea scriptam ēdedit. Sed ubi ille adsēdit, Catilīna, ut erat 7 parātus ad dissimulanda omnia, dēmissō voltū, vōce supplicī pōstulāre ā patribus coepit, nē quid dē sē temerē crēderent: eā familiā ortum ita sē ab adulēscentiā vitam instituisse, ut omnia bona in spē habē-ret; nē existumārent sibi, patriciō hominī, cūius ipsius atque māiōrum plūruma beneficia in populum Rōmānum essent, perditā rē publicā opus esse, cum eam servāret M. Tullius, inquilinus cīvis urbis Rōmae. Ad 8 hōc male dicta alia cum adderet, obstrepere omnēs, hostem atque parricidam vocāre. Tum ille furibundus 9 “quoniam quidem circumventus” inquit “ab inimicis praeceps agor, incendium meum ruīnā restinguam.”

XXXII-XXXVI. EVENTS THAT IMMEDIATELY PRECEDED THE OUTBREAK OF THE WAR.

Catiline leaves Rome. Lentulus and Cethegus remain to conduct the operations in the city.

XXXII. Deinde sē ex cūriā domum prōripuit. Ibi multa ipse sēcum volvēns, quod neque insidiae cōsulī procēdēbant et ab incendiō intellegēbat urbem vigiliis mūnitam, optimum factū crēdēns exercitum augēre ac, prius quam legiōnēs scriberentur, multa antecapere

- quae bellō ūsuī forent, nocte intempestā cum paucis in 2 Mānliāna castra profectus est. Sed Cethēgō atque Len-tulō cēterisque, quōrum cōgnōverat prōptam audāciam, mandat, quibus rēbus possent, opēs factiōnis cōn-firmant, insidiās cōsuli mātūrent, caedem, incendia aliaque belli facinora parent: sēsē prope diem cum māgnō exercitū ad urbem accēssūrum.

Message of Manlius to Q. Marcius Rex: We do not mean to attack our country, but to defend our rights and lives. We seek not wealth and power, but liberty. See to it that we have our rights and do not compel us to seek revenge.

- XXXIII. Dum haec Rōmae geruntur, C. Mānlius ex suō numerō lēgātōs ad Mārcium Rēgem mittit cum 2 mandātis hūiusce modī: “Deōs hominēsque tēstāmur, imperātor, nōs arma neque contrā patriam cēpisse neque quō periculum aliīs facerēmus, sed utī corpora nostra ab iniūriā tūta forent, quī, miserī, egentēs, violentiā atque crūdēlitate faenerātōrum plērīque patriae, sed, omnēs fāmā atque fortūnis expertēs sumus; neque cuiquam nostrum licuit mōre māiōrum lēge utī neque āmissō patrimōniō liberum corpus habēre: tanta sae-3 vitia faenerātōrum atque praetōris fuit. Saepe māiōrēs vostrum miseritī plēbis Rōmānae dēcrētīs suīs inopiae ēius opitulātī sunt, ac novissumē memoriā nostrā prop-ter māgnitūdinem aeris aliēnī, volentibus omnibus 4 bonīs, argentum aere solūtum est. Saepe ipsa plēbēs, aut dominandī studiō permōta aut superbiā magistrā-5 tum, armāta ā patribus sēcēssit. At nōs nōn impe-rium neque divitiās petimus, quārum rērum causā bella atque certāmina omnia inter mortālīs sunt, sed libertātem, quam nēmō bonus nisi cum animā simul āmittit.

Tē atque senātum obtestāmur, cōsulātis miseris civibus, lēgis praesidium, quod inīquitās praetōris ēripuit, restituātis, nēve nobīs eam necessitudinem impōnātis, ut quaerāmus, quōnam modō māxumē ulī sanguinem nostrum pereāmus.”

The answer of Marcius. Catiline announces his retirement into exile at Marseilles. His letter to Catulus contradicts this announcement.

XXXIV. Ad haec Q. Mārcius respondit: sī quid ab senātū petere vellent, ab armīs discēdant, Rōmam supplicēs proficiscantur: eā mānsuetūdine atque misericordiā senātum populi Rōmānī semper fuisse, ut nēmō umquam ab eō frūstrā auxilium petīverit.

At Catilīna ex itinere plērisque cōsulārībus, praeterea optumō cuique litterās mittit, sē falsīs criminibus circumventum, quoniam factiōnī inimicōrum resistere nequiverit, fortunā cedere, Massiliam in exsilium proficisci, nōn quō sibi tantī sceleris cōscius esset, sed utī rēs pūblica quiēta foret nēve ex suā contentiōne seditiō orerētur. Ab his longē divorsās litterās Q. Catulus in senātū recitāvit, quās sibi nōmine Catilīnae redditās dicēbat. Eārum exemplum infrā scriptum est:

Catiline's letter to Catulus: Confiding in your honor, I write not to defend, but to justify my conduct. My grievance is that I have been denied the honors due me, which have been conferred on the unworthy. Threats of violence lead me to break off this letter. I commend my wife to your protection.

XXXV. “L. Catilīna Q. Catulō. Ēgregia tua fidēs rē cōgnita, grāta mihi māgnīs in meis periculīs, fiduciam commendātiōnī meae tribuit. Quam ob rem 2

- dēfēnsiōnem in novō cōnsiliō nōn statui parāre, satisfactiōnem ex nullā cōscientiā dē culpā prōponere dēcrēvi, quam, mē dñs Fidius, vērā licet cōgnōscās.
- 3 Iniūriis contumēliisq̄ue concitātus, quod frāctū laboris industriaeque meae privātus statum dignitātis nōn obtinēbam, publicam miserōrum causam prō meā cōsuetūdine suscepī, nōn quī aes aliēnum meis nōminibus ex possessionibus solvere nōn possem, — nam et aliēnis nōminibus liberālitas Orestillae suis filiaeque cōpiis persolveret —, sed quod nōn dignōs hominēs honōre honestātōs vidēbam mēque falsā sūspiciōne aliēnātum
- 4 esse sentiēbam. Hōc nōmine satis honestās prō meō cāsū spēs reliquae dignitātis cōservandae sum secūtus.
- 5 Plūra cum scribere vellem, nūntiātum est vim mihi
- 6 parārī. Nunc Orestillam commendō tuaeque fidei trādō: eam ab iniūriā dēfendās, per liberōs tuōs rogātus. Havētō.”

XXXVI-XXXIX. SALLUST'S REFLECTIONS ON THE CONDITION OF ROME.

Catiline assumes the insignia of the consulship, joins Manlius, and is declared a public enemy; other measures against the conspirators.

In spite of the outward prosperity of the commonwealth patriotism was dead.

- XXXVI. Sed ipse paucōs diēs commorātus apud C. Flāminium in agrō Arrētīnō, dum vicinitatem antea sollicitatam armīs exōrnat, cum fascibus atque aliis imperi insignibus in castra ad Mānlium contendit.
- 2 Haec ubi Rōmae comperta sunt, senātus Catilinam et Mānlium hostis iūdicat, cēterae multitudinī diem statuit, ante quam sine fraude liceret ab armīs discēdere,
- 3 praeter rerum capitalium condemnātis; praeterea dēcernit, uti cōsulēs dilēctum habeant, Antōnius cum exercitū Catilinam persequi mātūret, Cicerō urbī prae-sidiō sit.

Eā tempestāte mihi imperium populi Rōmāni multō 4 māxumē miserābile vīsum est. Cui cum ad occāsum ab ortū sōlis omnia domita armīs pārērent, domī ōtium atque dīvitiae, quae prīma mortālēs putant, adfluerent, fuēre tamen cīvēs, quī sēque remque publicam obsti-nātis animīs perditum irent. Namque duōbus senātī 5 dēcrētis ex tantā multitudine neque praemiō inductus coniūratiōnem patefēcerat neque ex castrīs Catilinae quisquam omnium discēsserat: tanta vīs morbi ac velutī tābēs plērōsque cīvium animōs invāserat.

The lower class of citizens all naturally favored Catiline. The city rabble in particular, and in fact all who were not of the senatorial party, for various reasons desired a revolution.

XXXVII. Neque solum illis aliēna mēns erat, quī cōncilī coniūratiōnis fuerant, sed omnino cūcta plēbēs novārum rērum studiō Catilinae incepta probābat. Id 2 adeō mōre suō vidēbātur facere. Nam semper in civi- 3 tāte, quibus opēs nullae sunt, bonīs invident, malōs extollunt, vetera ōdēre, nova exoptant, odiō suārum rērum mūtārī omnia student, turbā atque sēditionibus sine cūrā aluntur, quoniam egestās facile habētur sine damnō. Sed urbāna plēbēs ea vērō praeceps erat dē 4 multis causis. Primum omnium, quī ubique probrō 5 atque petulantia māxumē praestābant, item alii per dēdecora patrimonīs āmissis, postrēmō omnēs, quos flāgitium aut facinus domō expulerat, ei Rōmam sicut in sentinam cōnfluxerant. Deinde multī memorēs Sul- 6 lanae victōriae, quod ex gregariis militibus aliōs senātōres vidēbant, aliōs ita dīvitēs, ut rēgiō victū atque cultū aetātem agerent, sibi quisque, sī in armīs foret, 7 ex victoriā tālia spērābat. Praetereā iuventūs, quae in agrīs manuum mercēde inopiam tolerāverat, privātis atque publicis largitiōnibus excita urbānum ōtium in-8 grātō labōrī praetulerat. Eōs atque aliōs omnis malum publicum alēbat: quō minus mīrandum est hominēs egentis, malis mōribus, māximā spē, rei publicae iūxtā 9 ac sibi cōsuluisset. Praetereā quōrum victoriā Sullae parentēs prōscripti, bona erepta, iūs libertātis imminūtum erat, haud sānē aliō animō belli ēventum exspectā-10 bant. Ad hōc quicumque aliārum atque senātūs par-tium erant, conturbārī rem publicam quam minus valēre 11 ipsi mālēbant. Id adeō malum multōs post annōs in civitātem revorterat.

The complete restoration of the tribunate led to a struggle between the young democrats and the party of the Senate, both pursuing selfish aims, while posing as patriots.

XXXVIII. Nam postquam Cn. Pompēiō et M. Crassō cōsulibus tribūnīcia potestās restitūta est, hominēs adulescentēs summam potestātem nacti, quibus aetās animusque ferōx erat, coepēre senātum criminandō plēbem exagitāre, dein largiundō atque pollicitandō magis incendere: ita ipsi clārī potentēsque fieri.
 2 Contrā eōs summā ope nitēbātur plēraque nōbilitās senātūs speciē prō suā māgnitūdine. Namque, ut paucis vērū absolvam, post illa tempora quicumque rem publicam agitāvere, honestis nōminibus, alii sicuti populī iūra dēfenderent, pars quō senātūs auctōritās māxima foret, bonum publicum simulantes prō suā quisque potentiā certābant. Neque illis modestia neque modus contentiōnis erat: utrique victōriam crudēliter exercēbant.

XXXIX.-LV. THE STRUGGLE BETWEEN THE CONSPIRATORS AND THE GOVERNMENT IN THE CITY OF ROME.

After Pompey's departure for the East, the oligarchs became tyrannical; what would have happened if Catiline had been successful. Lentulus directs the conspirators in Rome.

XXXIX. Sed postquam Cn. Pompēius ad bellum maritimum atque Mithridaticum missus est, plēbis opēs imminūtæ, paucōrum potentia crēvit. Ei magi- 2 strātūs prōvinciās aliaque omnia tenēre: ipsi innoxii, flōrentēs sine metū aetātem agere, cēterōs, quī plēbem in magistrātū placidius trāctārent, iūdiciiis terrēre. Sed 3 ubi primum dubiis rēbus novandī spēs oblāta est, vetus certāmen animōs eōrum adrēxit. Quod si primō proeliō 4 Catilīna superior aut aequā manū discēssisset, profectō māgna clādēs atque calamitās rem publicam oppressisset; neque illis, quī victōriam adepti forent, diūtius eā ūti licuisset, quin dēfessīs et exsanguibus, quī plūs posset imperium atque libertātem extorqueret.

Fuere tamen extrā coniūratiōnem complūrēs, quī ad 5 Catilīnam initiō profecti sunt. In eis erat Fulvius senātōris filius, quem retrāctum ex itinere parēns necārī iūssit. Eisdem temporibus Rōmæ Lentulus, sicuti 6 Catilīna praecepērat, quōscumque mōribus aut fortūnā novis rēbus idōneōs crēdebāt, aut per sē aut per aliōs sollicitābat, neque solum cīvis, sed cuiusque modī genus hominum, quod modo bellō ūsuī foret.

Lentulus tries to gain the aid of the Allobroges through P. Umbrenus. They meet Umbrenus and Gabinius at the house of D. Brutus, where they learn of Catiline's plans.

- XL. Igitur P. Umbrēnō cuiādam negōtium dat, uti lēgātōs Allobrogum requirat eōsque, si possit, impellat ad societātem bellī, existumāns publicē privātimque aere aliēnō oppressōs, praetereā quod nātūrā gēns Gallica bellicōsa esset, facile eōs ad tāle cōsiliū adducī
2 posse. Umbrēnus, quod in Galliā negōtiātus erat, plērisque principibus civitātium nōtus erat atque eōs nōverat. Itaque sine morā, ubi primum lēgātōs in forō cōspexit, percontātus pauca dē statū civitātis et quasi dolēns eius cāsum requirere coepit, quem exitum 3 tantis malis sperārent. Postquam illōs videt querī dē avāritiā magistrātuum, accūsāre senātum quod in eō auxilli nihil esset, miseris suis remedium mortem exspectāre, “at ego” inquit “vōbīs, si modo viri esse voltis, ratiōnem ostendam, quā tanta ista mala effugi-4 atis.” Haec ubi dixit, Allobrogēs in māxumam spem adducti Umbrēnum orāre, ut sui miserērētur: nihil tam asperum neque tam difficile esse, quod nōn cupi-dissumē factūrī essent, dum ea rēs civitātem aere aliēnō 5 liberāret. Ille eōs in domum D. Brūtī perdūcit, quod forō propinqua erat neque aliēna cōsiliī propter Sem-6 prōniam: nam tum Brūtus ab Rōmā aberat. Praetereā Gabīnium arcessit, quō māior auctōritās sermōnī inesset. Eō praesente coniūrātiōnem aperit, nōminat sociōs, praetereā multōs cuiusque generis innoxios, quō lēgātīs animus amplior esset. Deinde eōs pollicitōs operam suam domum dīmittit.

*The Gauls consult Q. Fabius Sanga, who informs Cicero.
Cicero instructs the Gauls to pretend to accept the overture of Lentulus.*

- XLI. Sed Allobrogēs diū in incertō habuēre, quid-7 nam cōsiliī caperent: in alterā parte erat aes aliēnum, studium bellī, māgna mercēs in spē victōriæ, at in alterā māiōrēs opēs, tūta cōnsilia, prō incertā spē certa præmia. Haec illis volventibus, tandem vicit fortūna 3 rei pūblicæ. Itaque Q. Fabiō Sangæ, cūius patrōciniō 4 civitās plūrum ūtēbātur, rem omnem, utī cōgnōverant, aperiunt. Cicerō, per Sangam cōnsiliō cōgnitō, 5 lēgātis præcepit, ut studium coniūratiōnis vehementer simulent, cēterōs adeant, bene polliceantur, dentque operam utī eōs quam māxumē manifēstōs habeant.

Disturbances in Gaul and Italy. Conspirators arrested by Q. Metellus and C. Murena.

XLII. Eisdem ferē temporibus in Galliā citeriōre atque ūlteriōre, item in agrō Picēnō, Bruttiō, Āpuliā mōtus erat. Namque illi, quōs ante Catilīna dīmiserat, 2 inēcōsultē ac velutī per dēmentiam cūcta simul agēbant; nocturnis cōsiliis, armōrum atque tēlōrum portātiōnibus, fēstinandō, agitandō omnia plūs timōris quam periculī effēcerant. Ex eō numerō complūris Q. Metellus Celer prætor ex senātūs cōsultō, causā cōgnitā, in vincula coniēcerat, item in citeriōre Galliā C. Mūrēna, quī ei prōvinciæ lēgātus præerat.

At Rome Lentulus resolves to impeach Cicero, to set the city on fire, and to murder the consul and other prominent citizens. Cethegus charges his confederates with faint heartedness.

XLIII. At Rōmæ Lentulus cum cēteris, quī principēs coniūratiōnis erant, parātis ut vidēbātur māgnis cōpiis, cōstituerant, utī, cum Catilīna ex agrō Faesulānō cum exercitū vēnisset, L. Bēstia tribūnus plēbis, cōtione habitā, quererētur dē æctiōnibus Cicerōnis belliquē gravissimū invidiam optumō cōsuli impōne-ret: eō signō proximā nocte cētera multitudō coniūrā-2 tiōnis suum quisque negōtium exsequerētur. Sed ea divīsa hōc modō dicēbantur: Statilius et Gabīnius uti cum māgnā manū duodecim simul oportūna loca urbis incenderent, quō tumultū facilius aditus ad cōnsulem cēterōsque quibus insidiae parābantur fieret; Cethēgus Cicerōnis iānuam obsideret eumque vī adgrederētur, alius autem alium, sed filiī familiārum, quōrum ex nobilitāte māxima pars erat, parentis interficerent;

 simul caede et incendiō perculsis omnibus ad Catilinam 3 erumperent. Inter haec parāta atque dēcrēta Cethēgus semper querēbātur de Ignāviā sociōrum: illōs dubitandō et diēs prolātandō māgnās oportunitātēs corrumpere:
 factō, nōn cōsultō in tālī periculō opus esse sēque, sī pauci adiuvārent, languentibus aliis, impetum 4 in cūriam factūrum. Nātūrā ferōx, vehemēns, manū prōmptus erat; māximum bonum in celeritāte putābat.

Negotiations between the conspirators and the Gauls. Lentulus sends Volturcius to escort the Allobroges to Catiline, and gives him a letter.

XLIV. Sed Allobrogēs ex praeceptō Cicerōnis per Gabīnium cēterōs conveniunt; ab Lentulō, Cethēgō, Statiliō, item Cassiō pōstulant iūs iurandum, quod si-gnātum ad civīs perferant: aliter haud facile eōs ad
 2 tantum negōtium impellī posse. Cēteri nihil sūspicantēs dant, Cassius sēmet eō brevī ventūrum pollicē-
 3 tur ac paulō ante lēgātōs ex urbe proficiscitur. Lentulus cum eis T. Volturcium quendam Crotōniēsem mittit, ut Allobrogēs, prius quam domum pergerent, cum Catilina datā atque acceptā fidē societātem cōfirmārent.
 4 Ipse Volturciō litterās ad Catilinam dat, quārum exemplum inf̄ra scriptum est: "Qui sim, ex eo quem ad te mis̄i, cognoscēs. Fac cogites, in quantā calamitāte sis, 5 et memineris te virum esse: considerēs quid tuae rationēs postulent: auxilium petās ab omnibus, etiam ab infum̄is." Ad hoc mandata verbis dat: cum ab senātū 6 hostis iudicatus sit, quō consiliō servitia repudiet? in urbe parata esse quae iusserit: nē cunctetur ipse propius accēdere.

The Gauls and Volturcius are arrested when leaving the city.

XLV. His rebus ita actis, constitutā nocte quā proficiscerentur, Cicerō per legātōs cūcta edoctus L. Valeriō Flaccō et C. Pomptinō praetōribus imperat, ut in ponte Mulviō per insidiās Allobrogum comitatūs dēprehdant; rem omnem aperit, cuius grātiā mittēbantur; cētera, uti factō opus sit, ita agant, permittit. Illi, 2 hominēs militārēs, sine tumultū praesidiis conlocātis, sicuti praeceptum erat, occultē pontem obsidunt. Post- 3 quam ad id loci legātī cum Volturciō vērunt et simul utrimque clāmor exortus est, Galli, cito cognitō consiliō, sine morā praetōribus sē trādunt. Volturcius 4 primō cohortātus ceterōs gladiō sē ā multitudīne dēfendit, deinde ubi ā legātis dēsertus est, multa prius dē salutē suā Pomptinum obtēstātus, quod ei nōtus erat, postrēmō timidus ac vitāe diffidēs velut hostibus sēsē praetōribus dēdit.

Cicero's dilemma; he arrests the leading conspirators and brings them before the Senate.

XLVI. Quibus rebus confectis omnia properē per nūtiōs cōnsuli dēclārantur. At illum ingēns cūra 2

- atque laetitia simul occupāvere: nam laetābatur intellegēns coniūrātiōne patefactā civitatem periculis ereptam esse, porrō autem anxius erat dubitāns, in māxumō scelere tantis civibus dēprehēnsis quid factō opus esset: poenam illōrum sibi onerī, impūnitatem
- 3 perdundae rei publicae fore crēdebat. Igitur cōfirmātō animō vocārī ad sēsē iubet Lentulum, Cethēgum, Statilium, Gabīnium, itemque Caepārium Tarracīnēsem, qui in Āpūliam ad concitanda servitia proficisci parā-
- 4 bat. Cēteri sine morā veniunt, Caepārius, paulō ante domō ēgressus, cōgnitō indicio, ex urbe profūgerat. Cōsul Lentulum, quod praetor erat, ipse manū tenēns perdūcit, reliquōs cum cūstōdibus in aedem Concordiae
- 5 venire iubet. Eō senātum advocat māgnāque frequentia eius ordinis Volturcium cum lēgātis intrōdūcit, Flaccum praetōrem scrīnium cum litteris, quās ā lēgātis accēperat, eōdem adferre iubet.

Their examination before the Senate. Testimony of Volturcius and the Allobrogian envoys. The conspirators committed to custody.

- XLVII. Volturcius interrogātus dē itinere, dē litteris, postrēmō quid aut quā dē causā cōsili habuisset, primō fingere alia, dissimulāre dē coniūrātiōne: post, ubi fidē publicā dicere iūssus est, omnia, utī gesta erant, aperit, docetque sē paucis ante diebus ā Gabīniō et Caepariō socium adsectum nihil amplius scire quam lēgātōs; tantum modo audire solitum ex Gabīniō P. Autrōnium, Ser. Sullam, L. Varguntēium, multōs praetereā in eā coniūrātiōne esse. Eadem Galli fatentur ac Lentulum dissimulantem coarguunt praeter litterās sermōnibus, quōs ille habere solitus erat: ex libris Sibyllinis rēgnū Rōmae tribus Cornēliis portendi:

Cinnam atque Sullam antea, se tertium esse, cui fatum foret urbis potiri; praeterea ab incenso Capitolio illum esse vigesimum annum, quem saepe ex prodigiis haruspices respondissent bello civili cruentum fore. Igitur 3 perlectis litteris, cum prius omnes signa sua cognovissent, senatus decernit, uti, abdicato magistratu, Lentulus itemque ceteri in liberis custodiis habeantur. Ita 4 que Lentulus P. Lentulo Spithæri, qui tum aedilis erat, Cethegus Q. Cornificio, Statilius C. Caesari, Gabinius M. Crasso, Caeparius — nam is paulo ante ex fuga retractus erat — Cn. Terentio senatori traduntur.

Change of feeling in Rome. L. Tarquinius turns informer and accuses M. Crassus. The Senate orders Tarquinius to be imprisoned. Autronius and Cicero charged with suborning Tarquinius.

XLVIII. Interea plebs, coniuratione patefacta, quae primo cupida rerum novarum nimis bello favēbat, mutata mente Catilinae consilia exsecrari, Ciceronem ad caelum tollere: veluti ex servitute erepta gaudium atque laetitiam agitabat: namque alia belli facinora praedae 2 magis quam detrimento fore, incendium vero crudele, immoderatum ac sibi maxime calamitosum putabat, quippe cui omnes copiae in usu cotidianō et cultu corporis erant.

Post eum diem quidam L. Tarquinius ad senatum 3 adductus erat, quem ad Catilinam proficiscentem ex itinere retractum aiebant. Is cum se diceret indicaturum de coniuratione, si fides publica data esset, iussus a consule quae sciret edicere, eadem fere quae Volturcius, de paratis incendiis, de caede bonorum, de itinere hostium, senatum docet: praeterea se missum a M.

Crassō, qui Catilinae nūntiāret, nē eum Lentulus et Cethēgus alique ex coniūratiōne dēprehēnsi terrerent, eoque magis properāret ad urbem accēdere, quō et ceterorum animōs reficeret et illi facilius ē periculō ēriperentur. Sed ubi Tarquinius Crassum nōmināvit, hominem nobilem mārūmīs dīvitīs, summā potentīā, alii rem incredibilem ratī, pars tametsi vērū existumābant, tamen quia in tāli tempore tanta vīs hominis magis lēniunda quam exagitanda vidēbatur, plērique Crassō ex negōtiīs privātis obnoxii, conclāmant indicem falsum esse, dēque eā rē pōstulant uti referātur. Itaque, cōsulente Cicerōne, frequēns senātus dēcernit, Tarquinī indicium falsum vidērī eumque in vīculīs retinendum, neque amplius potestātem faciundam, nisi dē eō indicāret, cūius cōsiliō tantam rem esset mentitus. Erant eō tempore qui existumārent indicium illud ā P. Autrōniō māchinātum, quō facilius appellātō Crassō per societātem periculī reliquōs illius potentia tegeret. Alii Tarquinium ā Cicerōne immissum aiēbant, nē Crassus mōre suō susceptō malōrum patrōciniō rem pūblicam conturbāret. Ipsum Crassum ego postea praedicantem audīvī, tantam illam contumēliam sibi ab Cicerōne impositam.

Catulus and Piso in vain ask Cicero to impeach Caesar. They accuse Caesar privately. Threats against Caesar.

XLIX. Sed eisdem temporibus Q. Catulus et C. Piso neque pretiō neque grātiā Cicerōnem impellere quivēre, uti per Allobrogēs aut alium indicem C. Caesar falsō nōminārētur. Nam uterque cum illō gravīs inimicitias exercēbant: Pīsō oppugnātus in iūdicīō pecūniārum repetundārum propter cūiusdam Trānspadāni supplicium iniustum, Catulus ex petitione pontificatus odio incensus, quod extremam aetate, maximis honoribus usus, ab adolescentulo Caesare victus discesserat. Res 3 autem opportuna videbatur, quod is privatim egregiam liberalitate, publice maximis muneribus grandem pecuniam debebat. Sed ubi consulem ad tantum facinus 4 impellere nequeunt, ipsi singillatim circumeundo atque ementiundo, quae se ex Volturcio aut Allobrogibus audisse dicerent, magnam illi invidiam conflaverant, usque eo, ut nonnulli equites Romani, qui praesidi causa cum telis erant circum aedem Concordiae, seu periculi magnitudine seu animi mobilitate impuls, quo studium suum in rem publicam clarius esset, egredienti ex senatu Caesari gladio minitarentur.

Plot to liberate Lentulus and Cethegus. Cicero convenes the Senate. Silanus proposes capital punishment.

L. Dum haec in senatu aguntur et dum legatis Allobrogum et T. Volturcio, comprobato eorum indicio, praemia decernuntur, liberti et pauci ex clientibus Lentuli diversis itineribus opifices atque servitia in vicis ad eum eripiendum sollicitabant, partim exquirebant ducēs multitudinum, qui pretio rem publicam vexare soliti erant; Cethegus autem per nuntios fami- 2 liam atque libertos suos, lectos et exercitatos, orabat ut grege facto cum telis ad sese irrumperent. Consul 3 ubi ea parari cognovit, dispositis praesidiis ut res atque tempus monēbat, convocato senatu refert, quid de eis fieri placeat, qui in custodiam traditi erant. — Sed eos 4 paulo ante frequens senatus iudicaverat contra rem publicam fecisse. — Tum D. Iunius Silanus, primus sententiam rogatus, quod eo tempore consul designatus erat, dē eis, qui in cūstōdiis tenēbantur, et praeterea dē L. Cassiō, P. Furiō, P. Umbrōnō, Q. Anniō, si dēprehēnsi forent, supplicium sūmundum dēcrēverat; isque postea, permōtus orātiōne C. Caesaris, pedibus in sententiam Ti. Nerōnis itūrum sē dixerat, qui dē eā rē 5 praesidiis additis referendum cēnsuerat. Sed Caesar, ubi ad eum ventum est, rogātus sententiam ā cōsule huiusce modī verba locūtus est:

Caesar's speech: Judges should be free from prejudice (1-4). Rome has always regarded her own dignity rather than the guilt of those who wronged her (4-7). Follow this tradition now (7-9). Be not carried away by inflammatory harangues (9-12). A great responsibility rests upon you (12). Do not expose yourself to the charge of cruelty, though the accused deserve the sternest punishment (13-16).

Silanus's motion is unwise (16-18). It is inspired either by fear or by a sense of wrong. Fear is out of the question, for Cicero has provided ample means of defense (18-20). As a punishment the death penalty is objectionable, 1st, because it is no punishment (25); 2d, because it is illegal (21-25); 3d, because you will set a bad precedent for the future, as proved by the example of the Thirty Tyrants at Athens and by Sulla's proscription at home (25-35). Cicero will not abuse his power, but who will guarantee the future (35-37)?

Our ancestors were wise and practical men; they allowed exile as an alternative to the condemned. That is my strongest argument against novel proceedings now (37-43).

My motion is to confiscate the property of the accused, to imprison them in the Italian towns, and to forbid any reopening of their case (43).

LI. "Omnis hominēs, patrēs cōscripti, qui dē rēbus dubiis cōsultant, ab odiō, amicitia, irā atque misericordiâ vacuôs esse decet. Haud facile animus vĕrum 2 prōvidet, ubi illa officiant, neque quisquam omnium lubidini simul et t̄sui p̄ruit. Ubi intenderis inge- 3 nium, valet: sī lubidō possidet, ea dominātur, animus nihil valet. Māgna mihi cōpia est memorandi, patrēs 4 cōscripti, qui rēgēs atque populi irā aut misericordiā impulsi male cōsuluerint: sed ea malō dicere, quae māiōrēs nostri contrā lubidinem animi sui rēctē atque ōrdine fēcēre. Bellō Macedonicō, quod cum rēge Persē 5 gessimus. Rhodiōrum civitās māgna atque māgnifica, quae populi Rōmāni opibus crēverat, infida et adversa nōbis fuit; sed postquam, bellō cōfectō, dē Rhodiis cōsultum est, māiōrēs nostri, nē quis dīvitiarum magis quam iniūriæ causā bellum inceptum diceret, impūni-tōs eōs dīmiserē. Item bellis Pūnicis omnibus, cum 6 saepe Carthāginiēnsēs et in pāce et per indūtias multa nefāria facinora fēcissent, numquam ipsi per occāsio-nem tālia fēcēre: magis quid sē dīgnum foret, quam quid in illōs iūre fieri posset quaerēbant.

Hōc item vōbis prōvidendum est, patrēs cōscripti, 7 nē plūs apud vōs valeat P. Lentuli et cēterōrum scelus quam vostrā dignitās, neu magis irae vostrae quam fāmae cōsulātis. Nam sī dīgna poena prō factis 8 eōrum reperitur, novom cōsiliū approbō: sīn māgnitūdō sceleris omnium ingenia exsuperat, eis ūtendum cēseō, quae lēgibus comparāta sunt. Plērique eōrum, 9 qui ante mē sententiās dīxērunt, compositē atque māg-nicō cāsum rei publicae miserātī sunt: quae belli saevitia esset; quae victis acciderent, ēnumerāvēre:
rapi virginēs puerōs, divelli liberōs ā parentum com-plexū, matrēs familiārum pati quae victōribus conlubu-issent, fāna atque domōs spoliārī, caedem, incendia

fieri, postremō armīs, cadāveribus, crudēre atque luctū 10 omnia complēri. Sed, per deōs immortālīs, quō illa orātiō pertinuit? An uti vōs infestōs coniūrātiōni faceret? scilicet quem rēs tanta et tam atrōx nōn per-11 mōvit, eum orātiō accendat. Nōn ita est, neque cuiquam mortālīum iniūriā suā parvā videntur: multi 12 eās gravius aequō habuēre. Sed alia aliīs licentia est, patrēs cōscriptī. Quī dēmissi in obscurō vitā habent, sī quid irācundiā deliquēre, pauci sciunt; fāma atque fortūna eōrum parēs sunt: quī māgnō imperiō praediti
in excelsō aetātem agunt, eōrum facta cūcti mortālēs 13 nōvēre. Ita in māximā fortūnā minūma licentia est;
neque studēre neque odisse, sed minūm irāsci decet:
14 quae apud aliōs irācundia dicitur, ea in imperiō super-15 bia atque crudelitās appellātur. Equidem ego sic existumō, patrēs cōscriptī, omnis cruciātūs minōrēs quam facinora illōrum esse: sed plērique mortālēs po-strēma meminēre et in hominibus impiīs sceleris eōrum obliti dē poenā disserunt, sī ea paulō sevērior fuit.

16 D. Silānum, virum fortem atque strēnuum, certō sciō quae dixerit studiō rei publicae dixisse, neque illum in tantā rē grātiā aut inimicitias exercēre: eōs 17 mōrēs eamque modestiā viri cōgnōvi. Vērū senti-entia eius mihi nōn crudelis—quid enim in tālis hominēs crudēle fieri potest?—sed aliēna ā rē pū-18 blicā nostrā videtur. Nam profectō aut metus aut iniūria tē subēgit, Silāne, cōsulem dēsīgnātum genus 19 poenae novom dēcernere. Dē timōre supervacāneum est disserere, cum praesertim diligentiā clāriissimī viri 20 cōsulis tanta praesidia sint in armīs. Dē poenā possum equidem dicere, id quod rēs habet, in luctū atque miseriis mortem aerumnārum requiem, nōn cruciātum

esse, eam cuncta mortalium mala dissolvere, ultra neque curae neque gaudii locum esse. Sed, per deos 21 immortalis, quam ob rem in sententiam non addidisti, uti prius verberibus in eos animadvorteretur? An 22 quia lex Porcia vetat? At aliae leges item condemnatis civibus non animam eripi, sed exilium permitti iubent. An quia gravius est verberari quam necari? 23 Quid autem acerbum aut nimis grave est in homines tanti facinoris convictos? Sin quia levius est, qui 24 convenit in minore negotio legem timere, cum eam in maiore neglexeris?

At enim quis reprehendet, quod in parricidas rei 25 publicae decretum erit? Tempus, dies, fortuna, cuius lubrico gentibus moderatur. Illis merito accidet, quic 26 quid evenerit: ceterum vos, patres conscripti, quid in alios statuatis considerate. Omnia mala exempla ex 27 bonis orta sunt; sed ubi imperium ad ignaros eius aut minus bonos pervenit, novum illud exemplum ab dignis et idoneis ad indignos et non idoneos transfertur. Lacedaemonii devictis Atheniensibus triginta viros imposuere, qui rem publicam eorum tractarent. Ei primo 29 coepere pessimum quemque et omnibus visum indemnatum necare: ea populus laetari et merito dicere fieri. Post, ubi paulatim licentia crevit, iuxta bonos 30 et malos lubricinos interficere, ceteros metu terrere: ita civitas servitute oppressa stultae laetitiae gravis 31 poenas dedit. Nostra memoria victor Sulla cum Damsippum et alios eius modi, qui malo rei publicae creverant, iugulari iussit, quis non factum eius laudabat? homines scelestos et factiosos, qui seditionibus rem publicam exagitaverant, merito necatos aiebant. Sed ea res magnae initium cladis fuit. Nam uti quisque 33

domum aut villam, postrēmō vās aut vestimentum alitius concupiverat, dabat operam, ut is in prōscriptō-34 rum numerō esset. Ita illi, quibus Damasippi mors laetitiae fuerat, paulō post ipsi trahēbantur, neque prius finis iugulandī fuit, quam Sulla omnis suōs dīvitiis 35 explēvit. Atque ego haec nōn in M. Tulliō neque his temporibus vereor: sed in māgnā civitāte multa et 36 varia ingenia sunt. Potest aliō tempore, aliō cōsule, cui item exercitus in manū sit, falsum aliquid prō vērō crēdi: ubi hōc exemplō per senātūs dēcrētum cōsul gladium edūxerit, quis illi finem statuet aut quis moderābitur?

37 Māiōrēs nostri, patrēs cōscripti, neque cōsili neque audāciae umquam eguēre, neque illis superbia obstābat, quō minus aliēna institūta, si modo proba erant, imitā-
38 rentur. Arma atque tela militāria ab Samnītibus, insignia magistrātuum ab Tūscis plēraque sūmpsērunt; postrēmō quod ubique apud sociōs aut hostīs idōneum videbātur, cum summō studiō domi exsequebantur:
39 imitari quam invidēre bonis mālēbant. Sed eōdem illō tempore Graeciae mōrem imitāti verberibus animadvortēbant in civis, dē condemnātis summum supplicium
40 sūmēbant. Postquam rēs pūblica adolēvit et multitudine civium factionēs valuēre, circumveniri innocentēs alia huiusce modi fieri coepēre, tum lēx Porcia aliaque lēgēs parātae sunt, quibus lēgibus exsilium damnātis
41 permissum est. Hanc ego causam, patrēs cōscripti, quō minus novom cōsiliū capiāmus, in primis mā-42 gnam putō. Profectō virtūs atque sapientia māior illis fuit, qui ex parvis opibus tantum imperium fēcēre, quam in nobis, qui ea bene parta vix retinēmus.
43 Placet igitur eos dimitti et augēri exercitum Cati-linae? Minumē. Sed ita cēseō: pūblicandās eōrum pecūniās, ipsōs in vinculis habendōs per mūnicipia, quae māxumē opibus valent: neu quis dē eis postea ad senātum referat, nēve cum populō agat: qui aliter fēcerit, senātum existumāre eum contrā rem pūblicam et salūtem omnium factūrum."

Cato's speech: The question before us is not a question of punishment, but of necessity, which knows no law (2-7).

I have warned you in the past, but times were not then critical.

Now the question is, Will you preserve your own, or shall the public enemy seize it? (7-11). Mercy is out of place when, to save a few scoundrels, you will destroy all good citizens (11-13).

Caesar has made an eloquent speech. He proposes to imprison the conspirators in the towns of Italy. But they will be more dangerous there than in Rome. If Caesar fears these men, his plan is useless; if he does not, so much the worse for us. In deciding the fate of the defendants, you decide the fate of Catiline and his army (13-18).

Not by war, but by their virtues, have our forefathers achieved Rome's greatness. We have lost their virtues because of our selfishness (18-24).

These men have plotted to destroy their native country, and made a league with Rome's bitterest enemies; do you hesitate? do you speak of pity? (24-27). Beware lest your mercy ruin you (27). Affairs are critical, but you are undismayed. Nay, you are cowards, and trust to the gods. But the gods help not the poltroon, but the wise, the watchful, and the brave (28-30). Manlius put to death his son for excessive bravery; you hesitate to punish traitors (30-32). Do the past lives of the defendants speak for them? They are hardened fools and criminals (32-35). Lastly, you have no choice; you must either crush Catiline or perish yourselves (35). Therefore, I move that they be put to death, according to the laws of our forefathers (36).

LII. Postquam Caesar dicundī finem fecit, cēteri verbō alius alii variē adsentiēbantur. At M. Porcius Catō, rogātus sententiam, huiusce modī orātiōnem habuit:

- 2 “Longē mihi alia mēns est, patrēs cōscriptī, cum rēs atque perīcula nostra cōsiderō, et cum sententiās 3 nōnnullōrum ipse mēcum reputō. Illi mihi disseruisse videntur dē poenā eōrum, quī patriae, parentibus, arīs atque focis suis bellum parāvēre: rēs autem monet cavēre ab illis magis quam quid in illōs statuāmus 4 cōsultāre. Nam cētera maleficia tum persequāre, ubi facta sunt; hōc nisi prōvideris nē accidat, ubi ēvēnit, frustrā iūdicia implōrēs: captā urbe nihil fit reliquū
5 victis. Sed, per deōs immortalis, vōs ego appellō, quī semper domōs, villās, signa, tabulās vostrās plūris quam rem publicam fecistis: sī ista, cūiuscumque modī sunt quae amplexāminī, retinēre, sī voluptātibus vostris otium praebēre voltis, expergisciminī aliquandō 6 et capessite rem publicam. Nōn agitur dē vectigālibus neque dē sociōrum iniuriis: libertās et anima nostra in dubiō est.
- 7 Saepenumērō, patrēs cōscriptī, multa verba in hōc
ordine feci, saepe dē lūxuriā atque avāritiā nostrōrum civium questus sum, multōsque mortālis eā causā ad-8 vorsōs habeo: quī mihi atque animō meō nullius umquam delictī grātiā fecissem, haud facile alterius 9 libidini male facta condōnābam. Sed ea tametsi vōs parvī pendebātis, tamen rēs publica firma erat: opu-10 lentia negligentiam tolerābat. Nunc vērō nōn id agitur, bonisne an malis mōribus vivāmus, neque quantum aut quam magnificum imperium populi Rōmānī sit, sed
haec cūiuscumque modī videntur, nostra an nobiscum

tinā hostium futura sint. Hic mihi quisquam mānsuē- 11 tūdinem et misericordiam nōminat? Iam pridem equi-dem nōs vērā vocābula rerum amīsimus: quia bona aliēna largiri liberalitās, malārum rerum audācia forti-tūdō vocatur, eō res pūblica in extrēmō sita est. Sint 12 sānē, quoniam ita sē mōrēs habent, liberalēs ex sociō-rum fortūnis, sint misericordēs in fūribus aerārī: nē illi sanguinem nostrum largiantur et, dum paucis scelerātis parcunt, bonōs omnis perditum eant.

Bene et compositē C. Caesar paulō ante in hōc ordine 13
dē vitā et morte disseruit, crēdō falsa existumāns ea, quae dē inferis memorantur, divorsō itinere malōs &
bonis loca taetra, inculta, foeda atque formidulōsa habēre. Itaque cēnsuit pecūniās eōrum publicandās, 14 ipsōs per mūnicipia in cūstōdiis habendōs, videlicet timēns, nē, si Rōmae sint, aut & populāribus coniūrā-tiōnis aut & multitudine conductā per vim ēripiantur.
Quasi vērō mali atque scelesti tantum modo in urbe et 15
nōn per tōtam Italiā sint, aut nōn ibi plūs possit audācia, ubi ad dēfendundum opēs minōrēs sunt. Quā 16
rē vānum equidem hōc cōnsilium est, si periculum ex illis metuit: si in tantō omnium metū sōlus nōn timet, eō magis rēfert mē mihi atque vōbīs timēre. Quā rē 17 cum dē P. Lentulō cēterisque statuētis, prō certō habē-tōte vōs simul dē exercitū Catilinae et dē omnibus con-iūrātis dēcernere. Quantō vōs attentius ea agētis, tantō 18 illis animus infirmior erit: si paulum modo vōs languēre viderint, iam omnēs ferōcēs aderunt.

Nōlite existumāre māiōrēs nostrōs armīs rem pūbli-cam ex parvā māgnam fēcisse. Si ita res esset, multō 19 pulcherrumam eam nōs habērēmus: quippe sociōrum 20
atque civium, praetereā armōrum atque equōrum māior

- 21 cōpia nobīs quam illis est. Sed alia fuēre, quae illōs māgnōs fecēre, quae nobīs nūlla sunt: domī industria, foris iustum imperium, animus in cōsulundō liber, 22 neque dēlictō neque lubidinī obnoxius. Prō his nōs habēmus lūxuriam atque avāritiam, publicē egestatē, privātim opulentiam: laudāmus divitiās, sequimur inertiam: inter bonōs et malōs discrīmen nūllum, omnia 23 virtūtis praemia ambitio possidet. Neque mirum: ubi vōs sēparātīm sibi quisque cōnsilium capitis, ubi domī voluptātibus, hic pecūniae aut grātiae servītis, eō fit, ut impetus fiat in vacuam rem publicam.
- 24 Sed ego haec omittō. Coniūrāvēre nobilissimī civēs patriam incendere; Gallōrum gentem infēstissimam nōminī Rōmānō ad bellum arcessunt, dux hostium cum 25 exercitū suprā caput est: vōs cunctāminī etiam nunc et dubitātis, quid intrā moenia dēprehēnsīs hostibus 26 faciātis? Misereāminī, cēnseō — dēliquēre hominēs adulēscētulī per ambiōnem — atque etiam armātōs 27 dīmittātis. Nē ista vōbīs mānsuetūdō et misericordia, 28 sī illi arma cēperint, in miseriam convortat. Scīlicet rēs ipsa aspera est, sed vōs nōn timētis eam. Immō vērō māxumē: sed inertīā et mollitiā animī alius alium expectantēs cunctāminī, videlicet dīs immortālibus confisi, quī hanc rem publicam saepe in māximīs periculis 29 servāvēre. Nōn vōtis neque supplicīis muliebribus auxilia deōrum parantur: vigilandō, agundō, bene cōn-sulundō prōspēra omnia cēdunt: ubi sōcordiae tē atque ignāviae tradideris, nēquiquam deōs implōrēs: frātī 30 infēstique sunt. Apud māiōrēs nostrōs A. Mānlius Torquātus bellō Gallicō filium suum, quod is contrā imperium in hostem pūgnāverat, necārī iussit, atque ille ēgregius adulēscēns immoderātae fortitudinis morte poenās dedit: vōs dē crūdēlissimīs parrioidīs quid sta- 31 tuātis cunctāmini? Vidēlicet cētera vīta eōrum huic 32 scelerī obstat. Vērūm parcite dignitātī Lentulī, si ipse pudicitiae, si fāmae suae, si dīs aut hominibus umquam ūllis peperoit: Ignōscite Cethēgī adulēscen- 33 tiae, nisi iterum patriae bellum fēcit. Nam quid ego 34

 dē Gabiniō, Statiliō, Caepariō loquar? quibus si quicquam umquam pēnsi fuisset, nōn ea cōnsilia dē rē pūblica habuissent. Postrēmō, patrēs cōscriptī, si 35 mehercule peccātō locus esset, facile paterer vōs ipsā rē corrigi, quoniam verba contemnitis: sed undique circumventi sumus. Catilina cum exercitū faucibus urget, aliī intrā moenia atque in sinū urbis sunt hostēs, neque parārī neque cōnsulī quicquam potest occultē:
 quō magis properandum est.

Quā rē ego ita cēnseō: cum nefariō cōnsiliō scelerā- 36
 tōrum civium rēs pūblica in māxuma pericula vēnerit, eiūque indicio T. Volturē et lēgātōrum Allobrogum con-victi cōfessique sint, caedem, incendia aliaque sē foeda atque crūdēlia facinora in civis patriamque parāvisse, dē cōfessīs, sicutī dē manifēstīs rērum capitālium, mōre māiōrum supplicium sūmundum."

Cato's speech approved. Rome's greatness is due to a few men of distinguished merits. In my time M. Cato and C. Caesar were such men.

LIII. Postquam Catō adsēdit, cōsulārēs omnēs itemque senātūs māgna pars sententiam eiūs laudant, virtutem animī ad caelum ferunt: aliī aliōs increpantēs timidōs vocant, Catō clārus atque māgnus habētur: senātī dēcrētum fit, sicutī ille cēnsuerat.

Sed mihi multa legentī, multa audientī, quae popu- 2

lus Rōmānus domi militiaeque, marī atque terrā praeclāra facinora fēcit, forte lubuit attendere, quae rēs 3 māxumē tanta negōtia sustinuisset. Sciēbam saepenumerō parvā manū cum māgnīs legiōnibus hostium contendisse, cōgnōveram parvīs cōpiīs bella gesta cum opulentīs rēgibus, ad hōc saepe fortūnae violentiam tolerāvisse, fācundiā Graecōs, glōriā belli Gallōs ante 4 Rōmānōs fuisse. Ac mihi multa agitantī cōnstābat paucōrum cīvium ēgregiam virtūtem cūcta patrāvisse, eōque factum utī divitiās paupertās, multitudinem pau-5 citās superāret. Sed postquam lūxū atque dēsidiā cīvītās corrupta est, rūsus rēs pūblica māgnitūdine suā imperātōrum atque magistrātuum vitia sustentābat, ac sicutī effētā parente multīs tempestātibus haud 6 sālē quisquam Rōmae virtūte māgnus fuit. Sed memoriā meā ingentī virtūte, dīvorsis mōribus fuēre viri duo, M. Catō et C. Caesar. Quōs quoniam rēs obtu-lerat, silentiō praeterire nōn fuit cōnsilium, quīn utriusque nātūram et mōrēs, quantum ingeniō possem, aperirem.

The characters of Caesar and Cato compared.

LIV. Igitur eis genus, aetās, eloquentia prope
 aequālia fuēre, māgnitūdō animī pār, item glōria, sed
 2 alia aliī. Caesar beneficiīs ac mūnificentiā māgnus habebātur, integritāte vītae Catō. Ille mānsuētudine et misericordiā clārus factus, huic sevērītās dignitātem 3 addiderat. Caesar dandō, sublevando, Ignōscundō, Catō nihil largiundō glōriam adeptus est. In alterō miseris perfugium erat, in alterō malis perniciēs: illius facili-4 tās, hūius cōstantia laudābātur. Postrēmō Caesar in animum indūxerat labōrāre, vigilāre; negōtiis amīcō-

rum intentus sua negligere, nihil dēnegāre quod dōnō dignum esset: sibi māgnū imperium, exercitum, bellum novom exoptābat, ubi virtūs enitēscere posset. At Catōnī studium modestiæ, decoris, sed māxumē 5 severitātis erat: nōn dīvitīs cum dīvite neque factiōne cum factiōsō, sed cum strēnuō virtūte, cum modestō pudōre, cum innocente abstinentiā certābat; esse quam vidēri, bonus malēbat: ita, quō minus petēbat glōriam, eō magis illum sequēbātur.

Cicero orders the immediate execution of the conspirators.

LV. Postquam, ut dixi, senātus in Catōnis sententiam discēssit, cōsul, optimum factū ratū noctem quæ instābat antecapere, nē quid eō spatiō novārētur, trēs virōs, quæ supplicium pōstulābat, parāre iubet; ipse, praesidiīs dispositis, Lentulum in carcerem dē- 2 dūcit; idem fit cēteris per praetōrēs. Est in carcere 3 locus, quod Tullianum appellātur, ubi paululum adscenderis ad laevam, circiter duodecim pedēs humi dēpressus. Eum mūniunt undique parietēs atque insuper 4 camera lapideis fornicibus iūcta, sed incultū, tenebris, odōre foeda atque terribilis eius faciēs est. In 5 eum locum postquam dēmissus est Lentulus, vindicēs rerū capitalium quibus praeceptum erat, laqueō gulam frēgere. Ita ille patricius ex gente clārissimā Cornē- 6 liōrum, quī cōsulāre imperium Rōmae habuerat, dignum mōribus factisque suis exitium vītæ invēnit. Dē Cethēgō, Statiliō, Gabiniō, Caepāriō eōdem modō supplicium sūmptum est.

LVI.-LXI. THE WAR IN THE FIELD.

Catiline, having organized his forces, marches and countermarches, awaiting developments in Rome.

- LVI. Dum ea Rōmae geruntur, Catilīna ex omnī cōpiā, quam et ipse addūxerat et Mānlius habuerat, duās legiōnēs instituit, cohortis prō numerō militum
 2 complet. Deinde, ut quisque voluntārius aut ex sociis in castra vēnerat, aequālīter distribuerat, ac brevī spatiō legiōnēs numerō hominum explēverat, cum initiō nōn
 3 ampliūs duōbus milibus habuisset. Sed ex omnī cōpiā circiter pars quārta erat militāribus armīs instrūcta, cēteri, ut quemque cāsus armāverat, sparōs aut lanceās,
 4 alii praeacūtās sudīs portābant. Sed postquam Antōnius cum exercitū adventābat, Catilīna per montis iter facere, modo ad urbem modo in Galliam vorsus castra movēre, hostibus occāsiōnem pūgnandī nōn dare: spē-
 5 rābat prope diem māgnās cōpiās sēsē habitūrum, si Rōmae socii incepta patrāvissent. Intereā servitia repudiābat, cūius initiō ad eum māgnae cōpiae concurrēbant, opibus coniūrātiōnis frētus, simul aliēnum suis ratiōnibus existumāns, vidērī causam civium cum servis fugitivis communicāvisse.

After the execution of Lentulus, Catiline retreats toward Gaul. Metellus bars his way. Catiline resolves to engage Antonius.

- LVII. Sed postquam in castra nūntius pervēnit Rōmae coniūrātiōnem patefactam, dē Lentulō et Cethēgō ceterisque quōs suprā memorāvi, supplicium sūmptum, plērique, quōs ad bellum spēs rapinārum aut novārum rerum studium inlēxerat, dilābuntur, reliquōs Catilīna per montis asperōs māgnis itineribus in agrum Pistōriēsem abdūcit eō cōnsiliō, uti per trāmitēs occultē perfugeret in Galliam Trānsalpīnam.
 2 At Q. Metellus Celer cum tribus legiōnibus in agrō

Picēnō praesidēbat, ex difficultate rerum eadem illa existimans, quae supra diximus, Catilinam agitare. Igitur ubi iter eius ex perfugis cognovit, castra pro- 3 perē movit ac sub ipsis radicibus montium consedit, quā illi descensus erat in Galliam properanti. Neque 4 tamen Antōnius procul aberat, utpote quī magnō exercitū locis aequioribus expeditus tardatos in fugā sequeretur. Sed Catilina postquam videt montibus atque 5 copiis hostium sese clausum, in urbe res adversas, neque fugae neque praesidi ullam spem, optimum factū ratus in tali re fortunam belli temptare, statuit cum Antōniō quam primum configere. Itaque cōntiōne advocatā huiusce modi orationem habuit:

Catiline's address to his soldiers: I do not address you to infuse courage into you. You understand the position as well as I. We have no choice; we must fight. You fight for all that is dear to you, the enemy for the power of a few; now is the time for daring. When I review your ranks, I think our position is not desperate. But should fortune be adverse, do not die unrevenge.

LVIII. "Compertum ego habeo, milites, verba virtutem non addere, neque ex Ignāvō strēnuum neque fortem ex timido exercitū oratione imperatoris fieri. Quanta cuiusque animo audacia naturā aut moribus 2 inest, tanta in bello patere solet. Quem neque gloria neque pericula excitant, nequiquam hortare: timor animi auribus officit. Sed ego vos, quō pauca monē- 3 rem, advocavi, simul uti causam mei cōsili aperirem.

Scitis, equidem, milites, sōcordia atque Ignāvia Len- 4 tuli quantam ipsi nobisque cladem attulerit, quōque modo, dum ex urbe praesidia opperior, in Galliam pro-

5 fideiſci nequiverim. Nunc vērō quō locō rēs noſtræ
6 ſint, iūxtā mēcum omnēs intellegitis. Exercitūs ho-ſtium duo, ūnus ab urbe, alter ā Galliā obſtant: diū-7 tius in hiſ lociſ eſſe, ſi māxumē animō ferat, frūmenti
8 placet, ferrō iter aperiundum eſt. Quāpropter vōs moneō, uti fortī atque parātō animō ſitiſ et cum proe-lium inſitiſ, memineritiſ vōſ dīvitiāſ, decuſ, glōriam, praetereā libertātem atque patriam in dextrīſ voſtriſ 9 portāre. Si vincimur, omnia nobīſ tūta erunt, commeātūſ abundē, mūnicipia atque colōniae patēbunt: ſin 10 metū cēſſerimur, eadem illa advorſa fient; neque locuſ neque amīcuſ quiſquam teget, quem arma nōn tēxerint.
11 Praetereā, militēſ, nōn eadem nobīſ et illiſ neceſſitūdō impendet: nōſ prō patriā, prō libertāte, prō vitā certā-muſ, illiſ ſupervacāneuū eſt prō potentiā paucōrum pūgnāre.
12 Quō audāciuſ adgrediāmini, memorēſ priſtinae vir-13 tūtiſ. Licuit vōbiſ cum ſummā turpitūdine in exſiliō aetātem agere, potuiſtiſ nōnnūlli Rōmae, amiſſiſ boniſ, 14 aliēnāſ opēſ exſpectāre: quia illa foeda atque intole-15 randa viriſ vidēbantur, haec ſequi dēcrēviſtiſ. Si haec relinquere vultīſ, audāciā opuſ eſt: nēmō niſi victor 16 pāce bellum mūtāvit. Nam in fugā ſalūtem ſpērāre, cum arma, quibuſ corpū tegitur, ab hoſtibuſ avorterīſ, 17 ea vērō dēmentia eſt. Semper in proeliō eiſ māxumū eſt periculū, qui māxumē timent: audācia prō mūrō habētur.
18 Cum vōſ cōſiderō, militēſ, et cum facta voſtra 19 aeſtumō, māgna mē ſpēſ victōriae tenet. Animuſ, aetāſ, virtūſ voſtra mē hortantur, praetereā neceſſi-20 tūdō, quae etiam timidōſ fortīſ facit. Nam multitudō

hostium nē circumvenīre queat, prohibent angustiae loci. Quod si virtūti vestrae fortuna inviderit, cavete 21 inulti animam amittātis, neu capti potius sicuti pecora trucidēmini, quam virōrum mōre pūgnantēs cruentam atque luctuosam victōriam hostibus relinqūtis."

Disposition of Catiline's and Antonius's armies on the battle-field.

LIX. Haec ubi dixit, paululum commoratus signa canere iubet atque instructos ordinēs in locum aequom dēducit. Dein remōtis omnium equis, quō militibus exaequātō periculō animus amplior esset, ipse pedes exercitum prō locō atque cōpiis instruit. Nam uti 2 plānitēs erat inter sinistrōs montis et ab dextrā rūpe aspera, octō cohortis in fronte cōstituit, reliquarum signa in subsidio artius conlocat: ab eis centuriōnēs 3 omnis, lēctōs et ēvocātōs, praeterea ex gregariis militibus optimum quemque armatum in primam aciem subducit. C. Manlium in dextrā, Faesulanum quandam in sinistrā parte cūrāre iubet: ipse cum libertis et cālōnibus propter aquilam adsistit, quam bello Cimbrico C. Marius in exercitū habuisse dicēbatur.

At ex alterā parte C. Antonius, pedibus aeger quod 4 proelio adesse nequibat, M. Petreio lēgātō exercitum permittit. Ille cohortis veteranās, quās tumultus causā 5 cōscripserat, in fronte, post eas cēterum exercitum in subsidiis locat: ipse equō circumiens unumquemque nōminans appellat, hortatur, rogat, ut meminerint se contrā latrōnēs inermōs, prō patriā, prō liberis, prō aris atque focis suis certāre. Homō militāris, quod 6 plus annōs trigintā tribūnus aut praefectus aut lēgātus aut praetor cum māgnā glōriā in exercitū fuerat, plērōsque ipsōs factaque eōrum fortia nōverat: ea commemorandō militum animōs accendēbat.

The battle. Catiline's death.

- LX. Sed ubi, omnibus rēbus explorātis, Petrēius tubā sīgnum dat, cohortis paulatim incēdere iubet;
 2 idem facit hostium exercitus. Postquam eō ventum est, unde ā ferentāriis proelium committī posset, māxumō clāmōre cum infestis signis concurrunt: pila omit-
 3 tunt, gladiis rēs geritur. Veterānī, pristinae virtūtis memorēs, cominus ācritē instāre, illi haud timidi
 4 resistunt: māxumā vī certātur. Intereā Catilīna cum expeditis in primā aciē vorsārī, laborantibus succurrere, integrōs prō sauciis arcessere, omnia prōvidēre, multum ipse pūgnāre, saepe hostem ferire: strēnuī militis et bonī imperātōris officia simul exsequēbātur.
 5 Petrēius ubi videt Catilīnam, contrā ac ratus erat, māgnā vī tendere, cohortem praetōriam in mediōs hostis inducit eōsque perturbātōs atque aliōs alibi resistētis interficit, deinde utrimque ex lateribus cēterōs
 6 adgreditur. Mānlius et Faesulānus in primis pūgnantēs cadunt. Catilīna postquam fūsās cōpiās sēque cum paucis relictum videt, memor generis atque pristinae suae dignitātis, in cōnfertissimōs hostis incurrit ibique pūgnāns cōnfoditur.

Appearance of the battle-field after the fight. Severe losses of the victorious army.

- LXI. Sed cōnfectō proeliō tum vērō cernerēs, quanta audācia quantaque animī vīs fuisset in exercitū Catilinae. Nam ferē quem quisque vivos pūgnandō locum 2 cōperat, eum āmissā animā corpore tegēbat. Pauci

autem, quōs mediōs cohors praetōria disiēcerat, paulō divorsius, sed omnēs tamen advorsīs vulneribus conciderant. Catilīna vērō longē ā suīs inter hostium cadā- 4 vera repertus est, paululum etiam spirāns ferōciamque animī, quam habuerat vīvos, in voltū retinēns. Po- 5 strēmō ex omnī cōpiā neque in proeliō neque in fugā quisquam cīvis ingenuus captus est: ita cūctī suae 6 hostiumque vitae iūxtā pepercerant. Neque tamen 7 exercitus populī Rōmānī laetam aut incruentam victō-riam adeptus erat: nam strēnuissimus quisque aut occiderat in proeliō, aut graviter vulnerātus discēsserat.
Multī autem, quī ē castrīs yīsundī aut spoliandī grātiā 8 prōcēsserant, volventēs hostilia cadāvera amicum aliī, pars hospitem aut cōgnātum reperiēbant; fuēre item quī inimicōs suos cōgnōscerent. Ita variē per omnem 9 exercitum laetitia, maeror, lūctus atque gaudia agitā-bantur.

NOTES.

I. 1. Omnis: acc. plur. In Sallust and his contemporaries all i stems, i.e. all substantives and adjectives of the 3d declension with the gen. plur. in -ium, have the acc. plur. in -is. — homines: is the subject of niti, whilst the clause omnis homines summa ope niti is the subject of deceat. — sese: Sallust uses the acc. c. inf. after studeo, even when the subject is the same as that of studeo, — an archaic and colloquial construction seldom found in Cicero. — attentio: i.e. without doing anything worthy of being spoken of: ablative of accompaniment. — vitam transeant: implies a life of idleness; vitam agere, an active life. For the mood see A. & G. 331, e, 1; B. 295, 5; G. 546; H. 498, II.

2. nostra: expressed, because emphatic, being in antithesis to pecora. — vis, activity. — animi imperio . . . utimur, the mind we use chiefly to rule us, the body to serve us. — alterum: refers to animus. Sallust often uses neuter pronouns to refer to masculine or feminine substantives denoting things.

3. ingeni: Sallust, like all pre-Augustan writers, formed the gen. sing. of substantives ending in -ius and -um in -i, not in -ii. — virium, bodily force; note how the meaning of this word is changed as compared with vis in I. 2. — opibus, resources. — nostri: A. & G. 194, b; B. 242, 2; G. 362; H. 446, n. 3. — quam maxime: A. & G. 93, b; B. 240, 3; G. 317; H. 170, 2, (2). — efficere: like facere, is often used with two accusatives; e.g. fortuna eos efficit caecos (Cic. Lael. XV. 54).

4. forma, beauty. — virtus . . . habetur, intellectual and moral excellence is a glorious and lasting possession. As generally in Sallust, habeo is here used in its primitive meaning, to have, to possess.

5. mortalis: is freely used by Sallust instead of homines. Cicero uses mortales only when accompanied by omnes, cuncti, or multi. — vine . . . an: instead of -ne . . . an Sallust sometimes used an alone in double questions.

6. priusquam : with a verb is often best translated by before and a participle in -ing, as here, before beginning. — incipias, consulueris : the second person sing. is used indefinitely. A. & G. 309, a ; B. 356, 3 ; G. 267 ; H. 518, 2. — consulto, facto : A. & G. 292, b ; B. 218, 2, c ; G. 390 ; H. 414, n. 3. Sallust always uses this construction when what is necessary is expressed by a verb. In English the verb depending on opus est is put in the infinitive. — consulto : refers to animi in the preceding sentence ; facto, to corporis : the position is therefore inverted or chiasitic. A. & G. 344, f ; B. 350, 1, c ; G. 684 ; H. 562.

7. utrumque : i.e. vis corporis and virtus animi ; for the neuter gender, see note on alterum, I. 2. — per se indigens, incomplete in itself. — alterum : is in distributive apposition to utrumque ; “each of the two,” &c.

II. 1. Igitur : contrary to the usage of Cicero and Caesar, Sallust always places igitur first in the declarative sentence. — nam : introduces the reason why Sallust has used the word reges. Translate : I say kings, for, &c. — imperi, government ; in Homer and the Greek historians, as well as in Roman history, the earliest rulers are called kings. Sallust makes the statement general. — diversi, in various ways. — pars . . . alii : used as correlatives instead of alii . . . alii, are in distributive apposition with reges. When Sallust says pars . . . exercebant, he probably thought of the kings in the Homeric poems. — etiam tum : Homer's kings do not fight for conquests, but for honor and fame. — vita agitabatur : colloquial Latin for vita agebatur. Sallust often uses the colloquial frequentatives instead of their primitives. — placebant : alicui placet often means somebody is satisfied with.

2. Cyrus, king of Persia (b.c. 559), was the first great conqueror, whose exploits are set forth at length in the Greek historians. — Lacedaemonii et Athenienses : the Spartans began their conquests about b.c. 724, when they conquered the Messenians ; Athens began its conquests after the Persian Wars (b.c. 490–479). — urbis, independent cities, like those of Greece ; nationes, when opposed to urbs or populus, means uncivilized tribes ; urbis subigere, refers to the Lacedaemonians and Athenians ; nationes subigere, to Cyrus : the arrangement is therefore chiasitic. — habere, made, not considered. — putare : with in and the abl. generally means to see, to find. — plurimum posse, accom- plishes most. — periculo atque negotiis: by perilous experience; hendiadys. Sallust often puts negotium = res.

3. regum atque imperatorum: of kings and other heads of government: imperator is he who has the imperium, controls the government, whatever his title; the word is therefore more general than rex. — aliud alio ferri, power pass from one to the other. As Sallust often uses ubi, ibi, unde of persons, so here alio is used for ad alium. — mutari ac misceri: are used of political changes and disorders. Mark the alliteration which Sallust favors in such couplets. — cerneres: is the ideal second person sing.

4. artibus, qualities; viz. labor, continentia, aequitas.

5. ubi . . . invasere, when sloth has taken the place of industry. — fortuna: i.e. regum et imperatorum.

6. transfertur, passes; the Latin passive is sometimes best translated by an intransitive verb in English.

7. Sallust now extends to the occupations of private life what he has just said of public functions. In his day wealthy Romans carried on agriculture, foreign trade, and building on a grand scale; hence these are taken as examples. — quae homines arant, &c.: short for quae homines agunt, cum arant, &c.; translate, men's undertakings in the line of agriculture, maritime enterprise, and building, all depend on moral and mental excellence.

8. indocti: has reference to culture of the mind; inculti, to culture of the heart; untaught in mind and heart. — sicuti peregrinantes: travellers generally pass through foreign countries without taking a deep, intelligent interest in them; so the sensualist passes through life without understanding its real significance.

— voluptati . . . oneri: final datives, a construction which Sallust uses oftener than any other writer. A. & G. 233; B. 191, 2, a; G. 360; H. 390. — contra naturam, contrary to nature's intention. — anima: to the sensualist, Sallust gives an anima (principle of animal life) only, while before he had said that man consists of animus (soul) and corpus. — iuxta aestumo, I consider of equal importance. Sallust is the only writer that joins iuxta with aestumo; Caesar, however, says gravius aestumare (B. G. VII. 14) and levius aestumare (B. C. III. 26). — silletur: is used impersonally; why?

9. Verum enim vero, doubtless however: a formula of transition found often in the historians, but rare in Cicero. — intentus: is a favorite word of Sallust; he uses it either with an ablative of means or of cause, as here, or with a dative to denote the aim of the effort. — ars, when the context does not determine whether it is used in a good or in a bad meaning, always takes a qualifier.

III. 1. in magna copia rerum: as the world is full of work. — Pulchrum . . . absurdum est: chiasmus. — haud absurdum est, no mean thing; litotes. Sallust uses haud only with adjectives and adverbs, the only exception being Bell. Jug. CX. 8, haud repulsus abibis. — pace and bello: are ablatives of means. — et qui fecere, &c., both those who have themselves done great deeds, &c.

2. quidem: emphasizes mihi; to me at least. — tametsi . . . tamen: such redundancies are found throughout the Catiline and in the first part of the Jugurtha. — arduum: not only difficult, but also unpleasant. — res gestas scribere, to write history. — facta . . . exaequanda sunt, the narrative must be up to the level of the deeds. — dehinc, for deinde, is not used by any writer before Sallust. — quae . . . reprehenderis, your censure of faults; the second person sing. is ideal and the clause is conditional. — ubi: an adversative conjunction has been omitted here; asyndeton. — quisque: is to be translated as the subject of accipit, ducit; in Latin quisque by preference goes into the relative clause; in English it must be placed in the antecedent clause. — supra ea: short for quae supra ea sunt. This expression is used as a substantive and the direct object of ducit; a harsh construction: but cf. Cic. Or. I. 4: in poetis non Homero soli locus est aut Archilocho . . . sed horum vel secundis vel etiam infra secundos; i.e. eis qui infra secundos sunt.

3. studio, by party feeling. Sallust when quite young joined the popular party, whose chief was Julius Caesar. — ad rem publicam, to a political career. — ibique, but in that; as neque is often adversative, so here -que. — pudore, &c.: whilst to pudore corresponds audacia, avaritia corresponds to abstinentia, and largitio to virtute; a combination of parallelism and chiasmus.

4. tametsi . . . tamen: see on III. 2. — animus, I; as repeatedly below. — malarum artium, wrongful practices; they include avaritia, audacia, largitio, just mentioned. — imbecilla aetas: means either youth or old age; here the former. — corrupta, is to be taken with aetas. — corrupta tenebatur: i.e. corrupta est et corrupta manebat.

5. cupido: a poetic word, instead of the classical cupiditas. Sallust was the first to use it in prose. — eadem: qualifies fama et invidia and is in the ablative. Censure and envy pursued Sallust as well as other public men of his day, though, apart from ambition, he was free from their wickedness. Compare this self-portrait of Sallust with his life.

IV. 1. animus, I. — ubi . . . requievit: after his return from the governorship of Numidia, in B.C. 45. — miseris atque periculis: in III. 3, he calls them multa adversa. — bonum otium, my precious leisure. — colundo, &c.: may be either datives or ablatives; see on intentus, II. 9. — servilibus officiis: the old Romans looked upon farming as a most honorable occupation. Perhaps Sallust means to say that a man of education should not devote himself to farming exclusively, which may be as well carried on by the ignorant slave.

2. a quo incepto, &c.: we know nothing further of these early literary attempts of our author. — ambitio mala: mala, because it brought such evil consequences upon him. — eodem: for ad idem inceptum, as often in Sallust the substantive antecedent is replaced by an adverb. — carptim, piecemeal. Sallust proposes to treat selected parts of Roman history, such as Catiline's conspiracy, the war with Jugurtha, the period from Sulla's death to the rise of Pompey (his lost work). — spe, metu, partibus: an active politician might be led by the hope of gain, the fear of loss, or party spirit to distort historical truth.

3. paucis: sc. verbis; some, however, take it for an adjective used as a substantive. The expression was colloquial; compare paucis te volo, I wish to say a few words to you, which is often met with in the comic writers. — facinus: without an adjective always has a bad meaning in Sallust. — novitate: what has never happened before is novum; Rome had never seen a crime like Catiline's and had never been in so critical a position.

V. 1. L. Catilina: he was of the gens Sergia, a patrician gens that had lost its wealth. The oldest Sergius mentioned in Roman history was one of the decemvirs deprived of power in 449 B.C.

Catiline's grandfather distinguished himself in the second Punic War, in which he lost an arm. He was praetor urbanus in 197 B.C. Catiline himself was born about 108 B.C. His house stood on the Palatine Hill, the fashionable quarter of Rome.—ingenio malo pravoque: his natural disposition was bad and perverse (pravus = crooked).

2. bella intestina: the civil war between Sulla and Marius and the revolt of Lepidus took place when Catiline was a young man.—caedes, rapinae: opportunities therefor were plentiful during Sulla's domination. Catiline murdered his brother, his sister's husband (Q. Caecilius), and M. Marius Gratidianus, a relative of Marius and according to Cicero and Sallust his own grown-up son.—ibique: for in iis rebus, meaning bellis, caedibus, &c.—iuventutem exercuit, he trained himself whilst a young man; for iuvēnis se exercuit. Sallust often turns adjective or adverbial qualifiers into abstract nouns.

3. Observe that in the following sketch of Catiline's character, the copula and the conjunctions are omitted: to insert them would have weakened the word-picture.—Corpus . . . Animus: in accordance with the proposition, laid down in I. 2, nostra omnis vis in animo et corpore sita est, Sallust treats Catiline's character from these two points of view.—vigiliae: instead of vigiliarum in the plural is used to secure parallelism with inediae, algoris.—supra quam: a rare construction found again in Bell. Jug. XXIV. 5; it occurs at least once in Cicero.—cuiquam: is used here because the thought is negative; his power to bear hunger, &c., was almost incredible.

4. varius: = ποικίλος, πολύτροπος, versatile; it is often coupled with multiplex, as in Cicero's portrait of Catiline, pro Caelio, VI. 14: hac ille tam varia multiplicique natura.—cuius rei lubet: the tmesis of cuiuslubet is less harsh, because we distinctly feel that lubet is a verb.—simulator et dissimulator: verbal substantives in -tor and -sor are sometimes used as adjectives with the names of persons, rarely of things, and then express a lasting quality: simulo, to pretend to be what one is not; dissimulo, to pretend not to be what one is.—sui, his own, his property; the gen. of suum. This is perhaps the only passage where profusus is construed with a genitive. The construction is explained by the influence of the parallel constructions preceding it. — satis, parum: are used substantively; supply ei erat.

6. post . . . L. Sullae: Sulla abdicated in 80 B.C. — modis: in the plural modus often signifies means. — quicquam pensi habebat, he did not care at all; the phrase quicquam pensi habere occurs neither in Caesar nor in Cicero. — pensi: is the partitive genitive of the neuter participle pensum, from pendo.

7. quae utraque: are neuter, though their antecedents (inopia, conscientia) are both feminine: A. & G. 187, c; B. 235, B, 2, a; H. 445, N. 1, and 439, 3). — utraque: is used in the plural though each of the antecedents is singular. This use is rare though found in Cicero and Caesar. — quas supra memoravi: the artes referred to are mentioned in V. 4; paulo ante would be more correct than supra.

8. pessuma ac divorsa: we look for divorsissima, as superlative is coupled only with superlative in good prose. Livy, XXXIV. 4. 1, ascribes the same thought to the elder Cato, from whom Sallust probably borrowed it.

9. supra repetere: to go farther back; the infinitive after hortor instead of the usual ut with the subjunctive is rare. With adverbs repeto is sometimes used absolutely (i.e. without object). — instituta: in Cicero dissero usually has a pronoun as object; to secure variety Sallust couples various kinds of objects; this is characteristic of our author. — quo modo: with ablatives and adverbs of manner habeo means to treat, to manage.

VI. 1. Urbem . . . condidere: to retain the author's order of words, which brings out their relative importance, it is sometimes well to change the voice of the verb: The city of Rome was built. — Troiani: Sallust makes Aeneas, not Romulus, the founder of Rome, though according to the traditional chronology of the Trojan War, Aeneas lived several centuries before the building of Rome. Who was Aeneas? — sedibus incertis, without fixed homes; abl. abs. — vagabantur: is the consequence of sedibus incertis. — Aborigines: according to the Roman annalists an indigenous people of Italy, who combined with the Trojans to form the Latins; perhaps these writers turned a common into a proper name. — sine legibus . . . solutum: in grouping these four qualifiers, Sallust, as often elsewhere, omits the conjunction between the first pair and inserts it between the second. Observe also the chiasitic arrangement; for he is free who has no political lord over him, whilst he is unrestrained who is bound by no law.

2. una: the plural form is used, because moenia has only the plural form. A. & G. 94, a; H. 175, 1 — moenia: walls of defence, city walls, here means the city itself. — dispari genere: they were partly Trojans, partly Aborigines; ablative of quality and equivalent to a concessive clause. — ita: not to be taken with brevi; why not? — dispersa et vaga: i.e. quae dispersa et vaga fuerat: dispersa refers to the Aborigines, vaga to the Trojans.

3. res eorum: i.e. res publica eorum. — civibus, moribus, agris: Rome grew in the three essential factors of a state; viz. population, order, territory. — aucta: see on II. 6. — satis prospera, very flourishing. See on VIII. 2. — videbatur: the imperfect indicative after postquam, which is rare in Cicero, is common in Sallust and expresses state in the past. — mortalium: masculine, not neuter. — sicuti . . . habentur: as human affairs for the most part go: habentur is used for se habent.

4. bello temptare: sc. populum Romanum. — pauci, few; not "a few." — aberant, withheld their aid.

5. parare, made preparations; Sallust is the chief writer who uses paro absolutely. — auxilia portabant: colloquial instead of the literary a. ferebant. — legitimum, based on law.

6. consultabant: instead of consulebant. Sallust favors the use of frequentatives instead of their primitives, a usage characteristic of popular as opposed to literary Latin.

7. conservandae libertatis atque augendae reipublicae: are genitives of quality: which at first had been a government that preserved liberty, &c. Sallust repeatedly uses the genitive of the gerundive so. — superbiam dominationemque: i.e. superbam dominationem; hendiadys. — imperatores, heads of the government. Their original title was praetor; but the later title consul is found in inscriptions of the fifth century A.U.C. — eo modo: i.e. si annum sibi esset imperium et bini imperatores. — inolescere, to usurp power.

VII. 1. ea tempestate: for the classical eo tempore. Tempestatas used to denote a definite time is archaic.

2. aliena virtus, the merits of others. As meus is regularly used for mei, so alienus replaces the genitive of alius. — formidulosa: in Sallust is always active in meaning.

3. adepta libertate: the perf. part. adepta is used in the passive sense. It is not found so in Cicero, though after Sallust the usage becomes common. — quantum . . . creverit: as a matter of fact, Rome's power seriously declined for a time after the expulsion of the kings.

4. in castris: not in the camp, but in warfare. Cf. Caes. B. G. I. 39. 5, qui magnum in castris usum habebant, who had much experience in war; Vell. II. 125. 5, in castris . . . in toga, in war . . . in peace. — per laborem, laboriously. Sallust often uses per with the accusative to express manner. — habebant: observe this plural after the singulars discebat, erat; similar cases of synesis occur in Cicero.

5. asper aut arduus: alliteration.

6. gloriae: mark the emphatic position of this word, which is the most important in the sentence; in translating it is better to take some freedom, in order to keep it in the leading place, glory was the chief object of rivalry among them. — se ferire properabat: like studeo (see on I. 1) propereo takes the infinitive with a subject accusative in Sallust, though the principal and the dependent verbs have the same subject. The construction is unusual. — facinus faceret: in imitation of the old writers Sallust sometimes uses alliterative combinations of words derived from the same primitive (figura etymologica). — eas, eam: for the attraction see A. & G. 195, d; B. 246, 5; G. 202, 5; H. 445, 4. — ingentem . . . honestas: the position of these adjectives shows that they are predicates.

7. possem . . . fuderit . . . cepirit . . . traheret: the imperfects possem and traheret are required by the unreal condition, though they denote present time; hence the primary tenses fuderit, cepirit. — pugnando: for expugnando or oppugnando; the simple verb is used for its compound, as not unfrequently in our author. — ni: in Cicero and Caesar ni occurs chiefly in formulas or proverbial expressions. Sallust and later writers use it more freely.

VIII. 1. Sed profecto, but in my opinion: it introduces Sallust's reflexions on what precedes. — ex vero: according to merit; i.e. according to a standard based on truth and fairness.

2. satis, very: often found in Sallust, Caesar, and Cicero's Letters.

3. scriptorum . . . ingenia: we say writers of great ability. — pro maximis: i.e. quasi maxima essent.

4. qui fecere, who performed great deeds; as the sentence is general, qui fecere is not said of the Athenians only; fecere is used absolutely.

5. ea copia, i.e. copia eorum; namely, clarorum ingeniorum: an abundance of able writers. Livy calls Fabius Pictor, who lived during the second Punic War, the most ancient of Roman historians, though Fabius himself speaks of others who preceded him. — negotiosus: the old practical Romans regarded literary activity as idleness; hence Scipio's saying, se nunquam minus otiosum esse, quam cum otiosus esset; i.e. he was intellectually most active when his body rested.

IX. 1. Igitur: resumes the narrative interrupted at VII. 7. — concordia, avaritia: Sallust naturally lays most stress on the virtues least practised in his own day, a time of civil dissensions and dishonest greed. — non legibus . . . natura: Sallust does not mean that the older Romans had no laws to enforce right, but that their virtue was due to their natural morality rather than to the influence of the laws.

2. cives cum civibus: expresses the reciprocal relation, citizens vied with one another. — suppliciis: archaic for supplicationibus. In Caesar and Cicero, supplicium always means torture or the death penalty.

3. audacia . . . aequitate: chiasmic arrangement of words. Observe also how Sallust strives to heighten the effect by changing from in bello to ubi pax evernerat, though he might have said in pace; in English we generally avoid such changes, antithesis being heightened by parallelism of expression. — seque remque publicam: Sallust like Tacitus uses -que . . . -que only when the first member is a personal pronoun. Jug. C. 5 is an exception to this usage.

4. in bello . . . in pace: correspond to in bello . . . ubi pax evernerat of § 3. — qui . . . pugnaverant: alludes to the story of young Manlius, who was put to death by his father, T. Manlius Torquatus, for fighting contrary to orders against the Gauls, as Sallust says in ch. 52, though Livy says (VIII. 7) against the

Latins, B.C. 340. — vindicatum est, punishment was inflicted. — tardius: is not to be taken with revocati. — quam qui: i.e. quam in eos qui — signa relinquere: among the Romans nothing was more disgraceful than to desert the standard; for this reason Roman generals sometimes ordered the standards to be thrown into the midst of the enemy.

5. beneficiis magis quam metu: for as the poet Ennius says, quem metuunt oderunt; quem quisque odit peritisse expetit. — ignoscere . . . persequi: what objects must be supplied with these verbs?

X. 1. reges magni: for instance Pyrrhus, Philip V. of Macedon, Antiochus the Great, and Perseus. — nationes ferae: e.g. some Spanish and North African tribes. — populi, as opposed to reges and nationes ferae, designates civilized peoples living under the republican form of government, such as the free Italian and Greek states. — ab stirpe interit: B.C. 146. That Carthage might never rise again, the soil on which it stood was solemnly cursed. — patebant: this imperfect describes a state of things, while all the preceding perfects, from crevit to interit, relate historical facts.

2. otium . . . oneri fuere: men accustomed to activity find idleness a burden, and to those accustomed to live in moderate circumstances great wealth is often a curse.

3. ea: i.e. ambition and greed; for the neuter gender, see on I. 2.

4. edocuit: has four objects, two nouns, and two clauses, arranged so as to make a climax.

5. subegit: coegit would be more usual, but Sallust and Tacitus often substitute one compound for another. — non ex re: not in accordance with their intrinsic worth; res in opposition to species, oratio, &c., signifies the "essence" of a thing. — magisque . . . habere: a fitting climax to Sallust's picture of Roman degeneracy. Socrates, as reported by Cicero (De Off. II. 43) said, true fame is to be acquired si quis id agit ut, qualis haberi velit, talis sit.

6. Haec: these evils. — contagio, moral infection; pestilentia, physical infection, the plague, which can change the entire face of a city in a short time.

XI. 1. Sed . . . exercebat: a repetition of X. 3. — ambitio: emphatic; to bring out the emphasis in English, we may sometimes find the phrases "it is," "it was," &c., useful: But at first it was ambition, rather than greed, that, &c. — propius virtutem: not only prope, but also its comparative and superlative are sometimes followed by the accusative. The clause quod . . . erat is equivalent to quod, quamquam erat vitium, tamen propius virtutem erat.

2. ille: the former; i.e. bonus; huic: the latter, ignavos. — vera via, the path of honesty, in opposition to dolis atque fallaciis, the way of trickery and deception. — huic: we expect hic as antithesis to ille, but in Latin relative and demonstrative pronouns are often attracted into the dependent clause. Translate as if you had hic.

3. Avaritia . . . habet, avarice includes or implies, &c. — quam . . . concupivit, which no wise man has ever desired, and (we may infer) no wise man will ever desire. In using the perfect thus Sallust imitates the Greek gnomic aorist. — venenis malis: is not pleonastic, for venenum signifies "drugs," and may mean remedies as well as poison. — neque . . . minuitur: hence Horace compares the miser to the dropsical man, who grows worse the more he drinks, and suffers from thirst, if he does not drink. Hor. Odes, II. 2. 13.

4. bonis initiis: like sedibus incertis in VI. 1, is an abl. abs. — malos eventus habuit: Cicero in his speech for Roscius of America acquits Sulla of blame for this; but Cicero, a young lawyer at the time, was hardly in a position to beard the old lion. — domum . . . cupere: the owners of fine houses and estates were accused of trumped-up crimes and thus became the victims of foeda facinora. — neque modum neque modestiam: an alliterative combination instead of the usual neque finem neque modum.

5. ductaverat: the frequentative for the usual duxerat. Sulla had led the Roman army against Mithradates, king of Pontus (B.C. 87-84). — morem maiorum: described in VII. 4, and the following paragraphs. — luxuriose habuerat: had allowed it too much luxury and freedom. Sulla relaxed the old-fashioned discipline.

6. Ibi: that is to say, in Asia. — primum insuevit: the corruption had begun long before, during the wars against Antiochus, against the Macedonians, and against Greece. — vasa caelata, embossed vessels; i.e. silver vessels with figures in relief. — privatim et publice, refer to the original owners. One of the worst of these robbers was the notorious Verres.

7. nihil reliqui fecere, left nothing; reliqui is a partitive genitive. Compare nihil pensi habere, in V. 6.

8. sapientium: is emphatic, being in antithesis to the following illi; i.e. Sulla's soldiers. — fatigant, impair. — ne: equivalent to nedum; a use of ne that occurs only five times in all the Latin writers from Plautus to Tacitus. In these cases ne like nedum is followed by the subj. A. & G. 317, c, R.; G. 484, R.; H. 483, 3, N. — corruptis moribus: ablative of description or quality.

XII. 1. coeperere, sequebatur: for the change of tense, cf. X. 1. — imperium: military command, sovereign power (including military command). — potentia: political power. — paupertas: not want (egestas), but the absence of wealth. — innocentia . . . duci coepit: regularly coeptus sum is used with passive infinitives; but here duci means 'to pass for' and is used in the middle sense; besides, Sallust uses coeptus sum only in a single passage (Jug. XXVII. 1). Where nearly all are greedy and dishonest, honesty is felt to be a criticism on the general corruption rather than a virtue.

2. iuventutem invasere: Cicero always says invadere in aliquem. — sua parvi pendere: the opposite of sua cuique satis placebant in II. 1. — pudor: honor; pudicitia: modesty (moral self-respect). Observe that throughout this sentence the words are used in couplets. — divina atque humana: the laws of the gods and of man. — promiscua: is to be taken with habere, and is a predicate adjective; it means primarily mixed, not distinguished, not discriminated; now what is not even distinguished from its surroundings is made little of, hence promiscua habere = to make little of, to scorn, to despise. — nihil moderati habere, knew no measure in anything; it is a phrase like nihil pensi habere; see on V. 6. Translate: honor, modesty, all things human and divine they held cheap; they practised neither reverence nor self-control.

3. cum . . . cognoveris, visere: after studying our houses, to visit, &c. Sometimes cum with a past tense is best Englished by "after" and a participial noun. — templa: the temples of old Rome, though large (the temple of Jupiter on the Capitoline Hill was one-sixth of a mile in circumference), were small compared with the palaces of the Roman nabobs in Sallust's time. Sallust's own house, partly at the foot of the Quirinal, partly on the hill itself, was discovered in 1885 and proved to be a palace of gigantic proportions, some of its ruins still measuring seventy feet in height, whilst its length and breadth were truly palatial.

4. gloria: Cicero says of Aemilius Paullus (Off. II. 76), omni Macedonum gaze potius nihil domum suam intulit praeter memoriam nominis sempiternam. — iniuriae licentiam, the power to do harm.

5. hi, the Romans of to-day, in antithesis to maiores nostri. — socii: in Sallust and Cicero, are the inhabitants of the conquered provinces in opposition to cives. — id demum: merely repeats iniuriam facere; a colloquial way of putting the thought strongly.

XIII. 1. Nam, here is not a causal conjunction, introducing the proof of what precedes, but emphasizes what follows as especially worthy of note. — memorem: is in the subjunctive because the question is deliberative. A. & G. 268; G. 468; B. 277; H. 484, V. — privatis: Sallust uses this word because he mentally compares them with King Xerxes, of whom another writer relates, subvertit montes (Mt. Athos) et maria constravit (he bridged the Hellespont). Pompey called Lucullus Xerxes togatus (Vell. II. 33). By subvertit montes Sallust alludes to Lucullus' cutting through the hills between his fish-ponds at Bauli and the sea, to supply them with salt water. By constravit maria he refers to the great buildings erected in the sea by the Roman grandees.

2. quibus . . . divitiae: they seem to me to have made sport of their wealth. — quippe, for nam, as often in the historians. — abuti: its object is eis, the antecedent (understood) of quas.

3. ceterique cultus, and of other vicious refinements. — terra . . . exquirere: terra marique quaerere was a proverbial Latin phrase expressing extreme effort to find something. Here the expression is almost literally true; for the Romans imported honey from Attica, nuts from Thasos, peacocks from Samos, fish from Spain, figs from Egypt, spices and perfumes from Syria, Arabia, and India. — dormire . . . esset: i.e. they brought on sleep artificially, especially by frequent baths. — non famem, &c.: they used artificial appetizers, and even took emetics to enable them to eat unnatural quantities of food. — neque frigus, &c.: they cooled and tired themselves by frequent baths.

4. haec: resumes all the abuses enumerated above.

5. animus imbutus: Horace expresses the same thought poetically, quo semel est imbuta recens servabit odorem testa diu. The object of the preceding chapters is to show that Catiline's conspiracy was the natural and ultimate outcome of Roman degeneracy.

XIV. 1. flagitiorum et facinorum, profligates and scoundrels. As scelus is often used for sceleratus, so flagitium and facinus are taken concretely here.

2. aleo: colloquial for aleator. Observe the numerous asyndeta in this chapter. — quo . . . redimerit, to purchase indemnity for, &c. This was done sometimes by paying the injured party to make no charge, sometimes by bribing the jurors (iudices).

3. ad hoc, moreover; a favorite phrase with Sallust. — manus . . . sanguine: chiasmic arrangement. — conscius animus, conscience; in the same way gratus animus is gratitude, and ingratus animus is ingratitude.

4. par similisque: of these words, par is the stronger; par implies equality both in quantity and quality, similis in quality only. — efficebatur: why is the imperfect used here?

5. etiam, still; a meaning mostly confined to colloquial language. — molles, soft; therefore, easily impressed, plastic. — fluxi, flowing; therefore, unstable, changeable.

6. Nam ut . . . flagrabat, for according as they were inflamed with various fancies. — canes, equos: a passion for dogs and horses proved the ruin of many young men both in Rome and at Athens. Aristophanes at the beginning of his Clouds ridicules a young Athenian horse fancier. — neque . . . parcere: to gain his ends Catiline spared neither his fortune nor his character.

7. quam quod . . . foret: this was felt by Sallust to be equivalent to non quod cuiquam id compertum foret; sed ex aliis rebus haec fama magis valebat; hence 1st, the use of cuiquam in a clause felt as negative; 2d, the subjunctive compertum foret in a clause felt to be a denied reason. The use of foret as an auxiliary when a real past is expressed is not found in Cicero and Caesar.

XV. 1. cum sacerdote Vestae: Fabia, the sister of Cicero's wife, Terentia, is meant. They were tried, defended by Q. Catulus, and acquitted (73 B.C.). Who were the Vestals? — ius fasque: a current expression including all law, for ius means human, fas divine law.

2. Aureliae Orestillae: cf. ch. XXXV. 3-6. — pro certo creditur: owing to the use of the modifier pro certo, the personal use of creditur appears harsh; Cicero would probably have used the acc. c. inf.

4. dis hominibusque infestus, hating both gods and men. In Sallust infestus is always active in meaning. Phrases like the present are common in Latin and Greek; cf. Cicero, Phil. II. 26, where he uses dis hominibusque hostis to express the climax of human wickedness. — quietibus, sleep, as the antithesis to vigiliis proves. The plural of quies, otherwise rare, is used partly to strengthen the antithesis by its parallelism to vigiliis, partly to indicate its repetition every night. — vastabat: compare the expression vastus animus, attributed to Catiline in V. 5.

5. colos: archaic for color. Sallust also uses labos, honos, odos, and lepos. He uses them chiefly in the speeches to give these an archaic coloring. — citus . . . tardus: the typical Roman affected a dignified, even gait, as well as a serious, even stern expression of countenance. The Emperor Claudius was criticised for his jerky walk. — prorsus: in fine, often introduces the last in a series of words or clauses. — facie voltuque: features and expression.

XVI. 2. illis: refers to iuventutem; synesis. — falsos: belongs both to testis and signatores; signator means the witness to a will. — commodare: is a colloquial word; it is in the historical infinitive, whilst habere, as well as maiora alia, is the object of imperabat, which Sallust construes with the infinitive like moneo, hortor, &c.; cf. X. 4.

3. insontis sicuti sontis, those who had not offended him as well as those who had. — gratuito, without hope of gain; frustra, on the contrary, means without the hoped-for gain. The above stories must be received with some scepticism.

4. aes . . . erat: owing to the general extravagance, many Romans throughout the empire sank deeply into debt, a circumstance that favored Catiline's designs.

5. In Italia, &c.: supply erat. — in extremis terris: Pompey was just then conducting the war against Mithradates, king of Pontus. This led him from Asia Minor to the easternmost countries at that time known to the Romans. — petenti: Catiline's second candidature for the consulship (64 B.C.) is referred to. He had been a candidate in 66 B.C.; cf. ch. XVIII. — senatus . . . intentus: as Catiline was of noble family, he was watched less closely by the senate. — sed ea: of what gender is ea? why? See on I. 2.

XVII. 1. L. Caesare et C. Figulo coss.: this was the year 64 B.C. The sister of L. Julius Caesar was the mother of Mark Antony, the triumvir. — Kalendas: A. & G. 376, a; B. 371, 2; G. App.; H. 642. — magna praemia: the great advantages his plans would secure for them.

2. explorata, certain, reliable. It is an adjective; for if explorata sunt were a perf. ind., voluit ought to be voluerat. — necessitudo, want. Cicero uses necessitas in this sense as he uses claritas for Sallust's claritudo. In Cicero necessitudo means 'intimacy.' — quibus . . . inerat: Cicero would have written in quibus with inerat. With necessitudo supply erat from inerat; for Cicero would have written necessitas est alicui, not inest in aliquo.

3. senatorii ordinis: a genitive of quality, to be taken with the proper names that follow. — P. Cornelius Lentulus Sura: had been praetor in 74 and consul in 71 B.C., but in 70 he was expelled from the senate for disgraceful conduct. To secure his return to the senate, he stood for the praetorship again in 64 and was elected. — P. Autronius Paetus: was Cicero's schoolmate and colleague in the quaestorship. Cicero characterizes him as a shameless, licentious, dishonest, and violent man. His election to the consulship for 65 had been declared null and void on account of bribery. — L. Cassius: praetor in 66 B.C. One of Cicero's competitors for the consulship. — C. Cornelius Cethegus: like Lentulus he belonged to the old and noble gens Cornelia. Cethegus was a daring desperado, as he proved by his attempt to murder Q. Metellus Pius during the Sertorian War. — P. et Ser. Sullae: also of the Cornelian gens, were nephews of the great dictator Sulla. — L. Vargunteius: an athletic fellow, who had been tried for bribery; according to ch. XXVII. he attempted to assassinate Cicero. — M. Porcius Laeca: at his house the conspirators met a few days before the exposure of the plot. — L. Calpurnius Bestia: was the grandson of the Bestia who was consul in 111 B.C., and was bribed by Jugurtha. — Q. Curtius: of whom a fuller account is given in ch. XXIII., turned informer.

4. C. Cornelius: according to ch. XXVII., was connected with L. Vargunteius in the attempt to murder Cicero. The other conspirators named are comparatively unknown. — multi ex colonis et municipiis: many of Sulla's veterans had been settled in the various colonies and municipal towns of Italy. — domi, in their own town.

5. complures nobiles: is the subject of erant.

6. pleraque: in Cicero only the plural of this word is found. Sallust has the singular forms pleraque, plerumque, with collective nouns; cf. XXIII. 6, XXXVIII. 2. The form plerusque, like ceterus, is not used because the Latin language rejects -us after r. — copia erat = licebat; hence the infinitive.

7. M. Licinius Crassus: the triumvir, famous for his great wealth. He defeated Spartacus in 71 B.C., though Pompey reaped the chief glory; hence their enmity. He joined Pompey and Caesar in the first triumvirate (60 B.C.), and fell at Carrhae in Mesopotamia, defeated by the Parthians (53 B.C.). — invisus ipsi: translate by a relative clause. — cuiusvis: any one except Pompey; hence his sympathy with Catiline. — apud illos: i.e. coniuratos, as plainly suggested by si coniuratio valuisset. Crassus' relations to the conspiracy are discussed more at length in XLVIII.

XVIII. 1. de qua: the relative refers to coniuratio, suggested by the verb coniurare in the preceding sentence; this synesis is unparalleled and extremely harsh.

2. L. Tullo et M'. Lepido coss.: 66 B.C. — ambitus interrogati: Cicero and Caesar do not construe interrogo as a verb of accusing (verbum iudiciale). — P. Sulla: another relative of the great Sulla, an avaricious but insignificant man. He was defended in 62 B.C. by Cicero; Sulla on that occasion was tried for being privy to both of Catiline's plots, but acquitted. — poenas dederant: the Lex Calpurnia of 67 B.C. punished bribery with exclusion from office and pecuniary fines.

3. Post paulo: paulo post is the regular order. — pecuniarum . . . reus, charged with extortion. He was repetundarum reus, from whom the provincials demanded the property belonging to them of right, for repeto means I demand what belongs to me. Sallust, however, is wrong here. Catiline was not indicted till 65 B.C. nor tried till after the election of the consuls for the year 64 B.C. The reason why he did not stand for the consulship was the refusal of the consul Tullus, on the advice of men of distinction, to recognize Catiline as a candidate. The reason of this refusal was that the people of Africa, of which province Catiline had been governor in 67 B.C., had lodged complaints of extortion against him in the Senate.—legitimos dies: one trinundinum, or seventeen days before the day of election, persons intending to stand for the consulship were bound to declare their purpose to the consul who had charge of the election.—proflteri: i.e. proflteri petere se consulatum, the technical form of this declaration.—nequiverat: the law forbade any citizen, while charges were pending against him, to be a candidate.

5. Kal. Ianuarias: Jan. 1, 65 B.C. Since 153 B.C. the consuls were inaugurated on the 1st of January by a solemn procession to the Capitol.—duas Hispanias: Hispania citerior, which included the east coast and interior; and H. ulterior, which embraced the south of Spain and Portugal.—ipsi fascibus correptis: that is to say, parabant ipsi fasces corripere et fascibus correptis Pisonem . . . mittere. In other words, ipsi, the logical subject of the verb in the abl. abs., is retained in the nominative,—a construction of ipse and quisque which occurs repeatedly.

6. ea re cognita: this plot being known to the people of Rome, the conspirators had &c. Remark that whilst regularly the logical subject of the abl. abs. (here, the people of Rome) is the same as that of the principal clause (here, the conspirators), this is not the case in the present instance.—transtulerant: Sallust uses the pluperfect, because he had already in mind the statement which follows.

8. maturasset . . . dare, had given the signal too soon. Suetonius ascribes the failure of the plot to Crassus' non-appearance, which led Caesar not to give the signal. But the story is probably an invention of Caesar's enemies.—curia: the Curia Hostilia, just north of the Forum is meant.—patratum: an archaic word not found in Caesar and rarely in Cicero. Livy uses it freely.—frequentes: is a predicate adjective.

XIX. 1. quaestor pro praetore: though only a quaestor, he was sent to Spain by the Senate with the powers of praetor; that is to say, as governor.

2. tamen: notwithstanding Piso's antecedents and his enmity to the Senate, yet the Senate, &c; cf. XVIII. 4-7.—boni, as the name of a political party in Rome designates the conservatives.—etiam tum . . . erat: unfolds the meaning of boni . . . putabant.

5. clientes: it would appear from this that Pompey had maintained close relations with some Spanish chiefs since the close of the Sertorian War, which Pompey finished in 72 B.C. Observe that the words Cnaei Pompei veteres fidosque clientis happen to make a dactylic hexameter. — praeterea, either before or after. L. Calpurnius Piso Frugi, however, had been murdered there by a wild Spanish tribe at the time of the Cimbric War (101 B.C.).

6. Nōs . . . relinquemus: statements like this impress the reader with Sallust's caution as a historian; compare the end of XXII.

XX. 1. paulo ante, a little while ago. He refers to XVII. — in rem fore, to be advantageous. — universos: is in antithesis to cum singulis. — hufusce modi: these words show that Sallust reports only the substance of Catiline's speech.

2. ni: colloquial for nisi. See on VII. 7. — spectata: neuter, though both subjects are feminine; the regular usage in Sallust. — mihi: A. & G. 232, a; B. 189, 2; G. 352; H. 388, 1. This dative is not found in Caesar. — nequiquam . . . cecidisset, affairs would in vain have taken a favorable turn. — oportuna: is a predicate adjective when it is used with cado, accido, evenio, &c. — in manibus: qualifies dominatio as its epithet; the supremacy which is in your hands, would have been, &c. The use of a preposition with its object as an attribute is uncommon in Cicero and Caesar; cum and sine are most frequently used so. — frustra fuissent: esse with a predicate adverb is mostly colloquial. — per ignaviam: i.e. per homines ignavos: the abstract for the concrete; ignaviam points back to virtus in the antecedent clause, as vana ingenia points back to fides; vana ingenia = homines vani ingenii. — incerta pro certis: found also XVII. 6.

3. quia . . . eo: the eo simply repeats the clause with quia; but Sallust is fond of conversational turns, and in conversation repetitions of this kind are common. — tempestatibus: as Cicero uses the plural of tempus in the sense of crisis, so Sallust uses the plural of tempestas. — animus: I; see on III. 4. — fortis fidosque: an alliterative combination found in all periods of Roman literature.

4. ea demum: see on XII. 5. Why is ea feminine?

5. divorsi: separately.

6. Ceterum, as for the rest. This is the original meaning of the word. Cicero and Caesar do not use it as an adversative conjunction. — animus: to be translated as in § 3. — nosmet ipsi: observe the strong emphasis.

7. paucorum potentium: characterizes the men in power as oligarchs. — ius atque diclonem, the legal control: hendiadys. — tetrarchae: the ruler of a fourth part of a country, a title often found in the East, where the Romans, to destroy the feeling of nationality in a people, sometimes divided a country among four princes. This was the case in Galatia and Thessaly, for instance. What is the difference between populi and nationes? See on II. 2. — strenui, boni: are to be translated as concessive clauses. — nobiles atque ignobiles: are in partitive apposition to ceteri. The nobiles were those whose ancestors had held one of the three highest offices (consul, praetor, curule aedile), whether of patrician or plebeian extraction. — volgus: often denotes the politically powerless rabble.

8. ubi: i.e. apud eos, apud quos; see on II. 3. — repulsas, defeats at an election: it is in antithesis to honos, as divitiae is to egestas, gratia to pericula, and potentia to iudicia.

9. per virtutem, manfully, like men. — ubi: i.e. in qua; fuertis is the ideal second person. The clause is a relative clause of characteristic; hence the subjunctive. A. & G. 320; B. 283, 1; G. 633; H. 503, 1. Catiline calls their life misera on account of its pericula and egestas, inhonesta on account of its iudicia and repulsas.

10. pro: is an interjection. — deum: old form of the gen. plural, not a contraction of deorum. Ancient forms are longest retained in religious and legal formulas. — fidem: this accusative depends on some verb like testor, understood. — in manu nobis est, is in our grasp; in manu for in manibus is unusual. — illis: dative of reference. A. & G. 235, a; G. 343, 2; H. 384, 4, n. 3. — divitiis: not only their age, but their wealth also is the cause of their weakness. — cetera is the object of expediet. — res, the course of events.

11. superare: i.e. superesse, in which sense Cicero uses the word repeatedly; hence the dative illis. Aulus Gellius, a Latin writer (125–175 A.D.), draws attention to Sallust's using superare in this sense. — profundant: subjunctive of purpose. — in exstruendo mari: exstruere mare means to cover the sea with buildings as exstruere mensam means to cover the table with dishes; see on XIII. 1. — nobis deesse, whilst we are in want. — lar familiaris: the lar familiaris was the deified spirit of the founder of the family, and was worshipped on the family altar, i.e. the hearth; hence lar f. is sometimes put for hearth, home.

12. toreumata, vases worked in relief: a Greek word for the Latin vasa caelata. As we sometimes use the French words for delicacies imported from France, so the Romans used the Greek terms. — postremo, lastly, in short; it is often used like prorsus to introduce the last of a series. — trahunt, waste; for the more usual compound distrahunt. — summa lubidine, in spite of the greatest dissipation. — divitias suas vincere, to get the better of their wealth. Remark that traho, vexo, vinco are all metaphors taken from war.

13. mala res, slim resources. — spes, outlook. The two words are often used in antithesis, — partly because they rhyme.

14. quin . . . expergiscimini: a question, which is in reality an exhortation; visne is often similarly used to express desire. — decus, honor. — in oculis sita sunt, are in sight. — praemia posuit: cf. ἄλλα θέσθαι; praemia proponere is the common expression.

16. milite, a private soldier, as appears from its antithesis to imperatore. — neque animus . . . aberit, I shall be with you, soul and body. — neque aberit: litotes.

17. consul: Catiline expected to be consul in 63 B.C. — me animus fallit, I am mistaken. — servire, to be slaves. — imperare, to be masters.

XXI. 1. abunde: like frustra in XX. 2, is a predicate adverb. — quieta . . . videbatur: they looked upon civil commotions as good sport, apart from the gains they might bring them. — condictio belli is explained in detail by the two clauses that follow. — quae praemia, &c., what were the advantages, &c.; by translating so we may reproduce in English the emphasis placed on praemia. — opis et spei = res et spes in the first part of the sentence. — ubique, in the several parts of the republic. In meaning ubique corresponds to quisque, and like the latter it is often connected with interrogative and relative pronouns.

2. tabulas novas: the Romans mostly kept their accounts on wax tablets; when an account was settled, the tablet was renewed: hence tabulas novas means a settlement of their debts; Catiline meant to pass a law like the Lex Valeria of 86 B.C., remitting a certain proportion of all debts. — proscriptionem: this word, properly speaking, means a bill announcing the sale of property; during Sulla's first civil war it took the meaning of a list of persons con- demned to death, whose property was confiscated. Catiline uses it in the latter meaning. — fert, bring with them.

3. This paragraph gives the answer to the question quid ubique . . . haberent. — Pisonem: see XIX. The acc. c. inf. depends on the verb of saying implied in polliceri. — P. Sittium: he was a large speculator, born at Nuceria in Campania. Forced to leave Italy on account of financial complications, he had gathered bands of soldiers both in Morocco and Spain. Cicero in his speech for P. Sulla declared that Sittius was not connected with Catiline's conspiracy. He fought on Caesar's side during the civil war in Africa, where Sallust also fought and rendered important services to Caesar. — C. Antonius Hybrida: was a younger son of the great orator, M. Antonius, and a brother of M. Antonius Creticus, the father of Mark Antony, the triumvir. He had been expelled from the Senate, 70 B.C., for plundering the provincials, but was soon restored. He was Cicero's colleague in the praetorship in 66 B.C. C. Antonius was a friend of Catiline and shared his views, but lacked both brains and pluck.

4. nominans: Caesar uses nominatim to express the same idea. — cupiditatis, passions. — suae, does not, as required by rule, refer to the subject of the clause. — pericula: a reference to XIV 3. shows that by periculum iudicium is meant, by ignominia the consequences of a conviction. — quibus ea praedae fuerat, to whom that victory had brought booty.

5. videt: the historical present after postquam, especially with verbs of perceiving, is characteristic of Sallust. — curae: a final dative. Cicero often uses curae esse, but not curae habere.

XXII. 1. popularis, partners, accomplices. In this sense popularis seems to have been a colloquial word; in the latter part of the Bellum Catilinae and in the Jugurtha Sallust prefers the classical terms socii, conscii. — humani corporis sanguinem: human blood.

2. inde: i.e. ex pateris; see note on ibique, V. 2. — post execrationem; that is to say, after an imprecation on themselves, if they should betray the conspiracy. — consuevit, is customary: the verb is used impersonally here; a rare usage. — quo = ut eo, as in LVIII. 3. The horror consisted in carrying around and drinking human blood. — alius . . . conscii, because they would be, &c.: to avoid the repetition of inter se, S. uses the reciprocal alius alii.

3. Ciceronis: objective genitive. Cicero was charged with putting Roman citizens to death without trial; namely, the five conspirators spoken of in LV. — postea: this odium was already manifested on the last day of Cicero's consulship when the tribune Q. Metellus Nepos forbade him to address the people, because he had put Roman citizens to death without trial.

4. ea res: in none of Cicero's writings that have come down to us, do we find any allusion to this tale. — pro magnitudine, considering its importance.

XXIII. 1. haud obscuro: litotes. — loco, with natus means stock, ancestry; otherwise condition, station, — copertus: Aulus Gellius tells us that Sallust wrote so instead of coopertus. — probris gratia: the character of Curius' misconduct is unknown. Though many men of that period, including Sallust himself, were so punished by the censors, Curius is the only one of whom Sallust reports this fact; gratia here introduces the cause, not the purpose.

2. non minor . . . audacia, was no less fickle than daring. — reticere and the following infinitives depend on quicquam pensi habebat. — suamet ipse: see note on XX. 6. — prorsus, as in XX. 12, introduces the last of a series.

3. Fulvia is otherwise unknown. — inopia: ablative of cause. — maria montisque: a proverbial expression which the Italian language has preserved to this day, promettere mari e monti. — agitare is often used by Sallust instead of agere; with an adverb it means to behave in a certain way.

4. insolentiae, the unusual behavior: as appears from the expression quam solitus erat. — haud occultum habuit, did not keep concealed: from this use of habeo developed its use as an auxiliary. — sublato auctore, without giving her authority. — quoquo modo: Fulvia got information from Curius repeatedly and in various ways.

5. Ea res: i.e. the fact that Catiline's plans became known. The optimates were not ambitious to face the dangers the new consuls must be exposed to.

6. pleraque: singular; see note on XVII. 6. — invidia: the nobility disliked Cicero partly because he was an upstart, partly because he had prosecuted Verres and supported the Manilian law. Among his opponents were Hortensius, Crassus, Caesar. — aestua-

bat et . . . credebant: see note on VII. 4. — homo novus, an upstart; a man whose ancestors had never held a curule office (curule aedileship, praetorship, consulship). — post fuere, became secondary considerations. Sallust first uses post to denote rank; post is a predicate adverb.

XXIV. 1. Igitur, so it happened that. — declarantur: Cicero was elected by a large majority, whilst Antonius had only a slim plurality over Catiline. L. Cassius Longinus (see XVII. 3) was one of the other defeated candidates.

2. Quod factum, this result. — furor: his frenzy was intensified by the charge of murder brought against him by L. Luccaeus on account of his misdeeds during the proscriptions. Catilinae furor is the subject of agitare, and as such may be translated: Catiline in his frenzy. — Faesulas, now Fiesole, was a fortified town a few miles north of Florence, in Northern Etruria, which had been the headquarters of M. Aemilius Lepidus during his insurrection (78–77 B.C.). Many of Sulla's veterans had been settled there, and the town contained much disorderly material. — Manlius was one of Sulla's old captains, a colonist of Faesulae, and a man sunk in debt. — belli faciundi: colloquial for bellandi; facere with a noun was often used in conversation instead of a verb.

3. etiam, even, not also; for in view of the position of women at Rome this was astonishing.

4. servitia, for servi, as often.

XXV. 1. virilis audaciae facinora, deeds demanding a man's boldness: audaciae is a genitive of quality.

2. genere: the gens Sempronia was famous in Roman history, and besides others included the two Gracchi and their father, one of the conquerors of Spain. — viro: Sempronia was the wife of D. Junius Brutus, consul of 77 B.C., and the mother of D. Brutus, one of Caesar's lieutenants in Gaul and afterwards one of Caesar's assassins. Her husband was not connected with Catiline's conspiracy. — docta: mark the triple construction of this word: with litteris (abl. of specification) it is construed as an adjective; with the infinitives psallere, saltare and the accusative multa alia it has the construction of verbs of teaching, taking as the secondary accusative in the one case two infinitives, in the other an adjective used substantively. — psallere: the Greek word indicates a foreign kind of music. — saltare: Cicero pro Mur. VI. 13 says: nemo enim fere saltat sobrius, nisi forte insant. He seems to express the opinion of the Romans generally.

3. omnia . . . fuit: in comparative sentences after quam, quantum, nisi, &c., the verb often agrees with the subject of the subordinate clause. Here decus atque pudicitia express one compound idea, which is more important than the colorless omnia. — pecuniae . . . parceret: cf. XIV. 6. — discerneret: potential subjunctive with the ideal second person.

4. creditum abiuraverat, had denied on oath loans made to her. — praeceps abierat, had gone headlong to destruction: a favorite expression with Sallust.

5. ingenium eius haud absurdum, she was by no means dull: ingenium like animus is sometimes best translated by the personal pronoun. — vel . . . vel . . . vel, as she chose either . . . or . . . or: inerat agrees with the last subject, as fuit does in XXV. 3.

XXVI. 1. His rebus comparatis: refers back to XXIV.; in fact, XXV. seems to be dragged in, probably to throw odium on Caesar's assassins; it has no essential connection with what precedes or follows. — nihilo minus: the concessive antecedent is contained in His rebus comparatis. — in proximum annum: the year 62 B.C. His competitors were D. Junius Silanus, Ser. Sulpicius Rufus, and L. Licinius Murena.

4. pactione provinciae: on throwing lots for Macedonia and Cisalpine Gaul, the former, a rich province, had fallen to Cicero. He resigned it to Antonius, who was eager to repair his ruined fortunes. Gaul Cicero afterwards resigned to the praetor Q. Metellus Celer. — Sentiret: sentio is the regular term used for 'to hold political or party opinions.' — amicorum: they were mostly Roman Knights.

5. dies comitiorum: the election took place probably in July. — petitio: both Catiline and Murena had had recourse to such corrupt means that Cicero carried a new law against bribery. — insidiae: Cicero makes the same charge (Cat. I. 11). Cicero came to the election clad in a coat of mail. — campo: the Campus Martius, where the elections were held at this time. — consultibus: i.e. the government. Cicero is meant, for Antonius took no active part in opposing Catiline. — extrema omnia experiri: Caesar says ad extrema omnia descendere (De Bello Civ. I. 9).

XXVII. 1. in eam partem Etruriae: the part near Faesulae, i.e. the north of Etruria. The pronoun eam stands for prope Fae- sulas: such turns of expression for the sake of brevity are not unfrequent. — Camertem: of Camerinum, the most important town of Eastern Umbria, now Camerino. Of Septimius and Julius nothing else is known. — Picenum: A district on the coast of the Adriatic. — Apuliam: in the southeast of Italy. — ubique is joined to the relative; a common usage; translate: wherever he thought that each would be, &c.

2. tendere: the figure is taken from the spreading of nets or the setting of traps. — parare incendia: who were entrusted with this task, is related in XXIV. 4. — cum telo esse, carried a dagger; the phrase is a legal technical term. It was forbidden by law to carry weapons in Rome. — item: i.e. cum telo esse.

3. multa agitant: is equivalent to a concessive clause; multa is in antithesis to nihil. — intempesta nocte, in the depth of night; i.e. that part of night when it was untimely (intempestivum) to transact business. It was the night of November 6 according to the faulty Roman calendar. In reality, it was towards the middle of January. Sallust gives no dates, and relates some of the incidents out of their proper order, for the meeting at Laeeae's house should come in before XXX. 5. — ad M. Laecam, to M. Laeca's house.

4. paraverat: being a finite verb in a subordinate clause of the indirect discourse, should be in the subjunctive mood; but this is not the only case where Sallust puts such verbs in the indicative.

XXVIII. 1. C. Cornelius: Cicero also, in his speech for Sulla, accuses Cornelius of this attempt; but against Vargunteius he makes no such charge. — salutat: clients and sometimes other citizens seeking favors paid their respects to distinguished Romans even before sunrise. — domui, for domi, the more common form of the locative. — suae, as often, refers to the object, not to the subject of the sentence.

2. intellegit: may be either present or perfect, for besides the classical form intellexi, Sallust also uses the archaic intellegi. — enuntiat: specially denotes the disclosing of a secret.

3. ianua prohibiti, not admitted: exclusi is more commonly used in this sense; in fact, it is often best to translate a Latin verb by a negative phrase in English; e.g. miror, I do not understand.

4. dolore iniuriae: as the Etrurians had sympathized with Marius, Sulla confiscated their property and settled a part of his

120,000 veterans there; hence their dolor, which denotes mingled grief and indignation. — nonnullos . . . colonis: Manlius himself was one of these. Most of them had squandered their wealth. It is worth remarking that in the Catilinarian war the robbed made common cause with those who had robbed them.

XXIX. 1. privato consilio: hitherto Cicero had taken his measures without formal authorization from the Senate; i.e. sine publico consilio. — longius: of time Sallust uses longius only in this passage; elsewhere he has diutius. Caesar repeatedly uses longius as it is used here. — quo consilio: ablative of quality or description. A. & G. 251; B. 244, 1; G. 402; H. 419, II. — rem ad senatum referre: the technical term for 'submitting a question to the Senate.' The meeting of the Senate here spoken of took place on October 21.

2. quod solet: sc. decernere, to be supplied from decrevit following. — decrevit: technical term for a resolution of the Senate. — darent operam, etc.: the regular formula by which the Senate invested the consuls with unlimited powers (senatus consultum ultimum); it was analogous to the proclamation of martial law in modern times. Here the formula is expressed in indirect discourse.

3. Ea potestas, the power so conferred. — maxima permittitur, is the greatest which is granted; literally, is granted as the greatest. The infinitive clauses exercitum parare, &c., are appositives explaining ea potestas. — imperium, military and executive power; iudicium judicial authority. As the imperium and iudicium were summa (unlimited), there was no other authority to restrain or limit them; there was no appeal from the consuls. — aliter, is equivalent to a conditional clause. — fussu: the technical term for an enactment of the people. — consuli: the singular, because it denotes the office, not the man.

XXX. 1. ante diem . . . Novembres: what date was this? — id quod . . . solet: see on XXIX. 2. — portenta atque prodigia: a frequent combination favored by the alliteration. In Livy are found many and often amusing records of these portenta. — arma portari: that arms were being transported to the points where the uprisings were to take place. — Capuae . . . Apulia: there were great slave depots at Capua and in Apulia.

3. senati: an old form of the genitive found often in inscriptions. Sallust uses it only in combination with decretum and verba. — Q. Marcius Rex: consul in 68 B.C., and afterwards proconsul in Cilicia, had there commanded against the pirates, before Pompey took charge of the war against them. — Q. Metellus Creticus: consul in 69 B.C.; after his term of office he carried on and finished the war against the Cretans. Pompey held that both Marcius and Metellus were his subordinates, and as such not entitled to a triumph.

4. utrique: plural, though only two are meant; see on V. 7. — ad urbem, near the city. Generals (imperatores) claiming a triumph forfeited their rights to this distinction by entering the city, for by doing so they lost their command (imperium). Hence the Senate generally met outside the city limits, in the temple of Apollo or that of Bellona, near the Porta Carmentalis, to decide on their claims. — imperatores: is the predicate of the clause. — paucorum, the aristocrats; as before, Sallust here accuses them unjustly. The objections were made by the friends of Pompey, who at this time was not on good terms with the optimates. Metellus triumphed in 62 B.C. — vendere: in Cicero mos est is generally followed by ut and the subjunctive.

5. Q. Pompeius Rufus: was governor of Africa in 61 B.C.; he is otherwise unknown. — Q. Metellus Celer: had served under Pompey in Asia, was governor of Gaul in 62, and consul in 60 B.C. — pro tempore atque periculo, in accordance with the needs of the crisis; hendiadys.

6. praemium: supply decrevere from the next clause. — sestertia centum: the neuter sestertium = 1000 sestertii = $42.93, generally takes the distributive numeral with it; here it has the cardinal, contrary to rule.

7. gladiatoriae familiae: bands of gladiators, who were under the instruction of a lanista, to prepare themselves for the gladiatorial shows. They were desperate men who, having nothing to lose, were ready for any undertaking. Here the gladiators in Rome are meant. — minores magistratus: aediles, quaestors, and tresviri nocturni or capitales are meant.

XXXI. 1. rebus, measures. — ex summa, immediately after; ex often has this meaning. — quae: neuter, and refers to laetitia atque

lascivia; see on I. 2.—omnis: Cicero always says invadere in aliquem; see on XII. 2.

2. cuiquam: belongs to loco as well as to homini; quisquam, when used as an adjective, regularly qualifies only substantives denoting persons. The expression is colloquial, and the separation of cuiquam from loco makes it less harsh.

3. magnitudine: ablative of cause to be taken with insolitus.—adficere sese: Cicero (Tusc. III. 82) tells us that women expressed their grief by tearing the cheeks and breast and beating the head.—rogitare omnia, omnia pavere: by this chiasmus omnia is emphasized; rogitare is colloquial for rogare.—delictis: means everything that contributes to the enjoyment of life.

4. lege Plautia: enacted by the tribune Plautius or (vulgar) Plotius in 78 B.C.; it provided severe penalties against disturbers of the public peace. The charge was based on the rising in Etruria.—interrogatus est: cf. XVIII. 2.—L. Paulo: L. Aemilius Paulus was the brother of the triumvir Lepidus. As consul in 50 B.C. he still sided with the senatorial party, but afterwards he joined Caesar. The trial never took place.

5. Postremo: on November 8, two days after the meeting at Laeca's house, and the day after the attempt to assassinate Cicero at his own house was made.—expurgandi: Cicero everywhere says sui purgandi causa; but Sallust, in accordance with the usage of the popular language, often uses the compound, where Cicero and Caesar use the primitive.—senatum: the meeting took place in the temple of Jupiter Stator on the Palatine hill.

6. quam . . . edidit: the first oration against Catiline is meant. Cicero published it in 60 B.C. along with the other speeches delivered by him as consul. Hence it was unnecessary for Sallust to report it here.

7. ut erat paratus, being prepared.—ortum: qualifies se, the subject of instituisse; it is therefore unnecessary to supply anything: see on V. 1.—inquilinus civis: Cicero was a native of Arpinum, a Volscan town, which had, however, been granted the full Roman citizenship since 188 B.C. Sallust, imitating Cato, often uses nouns as qualifiers of other nouns, as inquilinus is used with civis here.

8. hostem atque parricidam: they called him hostis (originally stranger), because he had forfeited his rights as a citizen, and,

moreover (atque), parricida, because he attempted to destroy his country, the common mother of all Romans.

9. Tum ille, &c. : the remark here quoted was not made at this session of the Senate, but at a meeting held before the election, in reply to Cato's threat to prosecute him. — incendium : the Latins were fond of using metaphorically words meaning 'to burn.' Here incendium means Catiline's ruin. He will put it out, not with water, but by tearing down everything about him ; the conflagration intended to destroy me I shall put out by, &c.

XXXII. 1. ex curia : as stated above, the Senate met not in the Curia Hostilia, but in the Temple of Jupiter Stator. Here curia means meeting of the Senate. — volvens : volvo in the sense of to consider carefully, is a favorite word with Sallust. — insidiae consuli : is felt by Sallust as equivalent to insidiae quas parabat consuli ; hence the dative consuli. — nocte : the night from the 8th to the 9th of November.

2. mandat, quibus . . . possent, opes . . . confirmat : here, as often, Sallust mixes up two constructions, construing mandat both according to its form, as a primary, and according to its meaning, as a secondary tense.

XXXIII. 1. ex suo numero : i.e. ex numero suorum.

2. neque contra patriam . . . neque quo, &c. : a good instance of Sallust's fondness for varying constructions. — neque quo . . . faceremus, nor by their means to, &c. ; the conjunction quo here retains its old force as an ablative. — corpora nostra qui : in Latin the relative often refers to a person denoted by the possessive. — faeneratorum : at this time the usual rate of interest was twelve per cent, but often a much higher rate of interest was exacted ; e.g. M. Brutus, Caesar's slayer, demanded forty-eight per cent from the Salaminians. There were laws against usury, but they were not always enforced. The laws against debtors were still very severe ; the creditor might proceed not only against the debtor's property, but also against his person. — patriae . . . fama : both words depend on expertes ; again Sallust varies the construction. Expertes with the ablative is archaic and poetic. The men spoken of had probably left Rome to avoid the consequences of their bankruptcy, and seem to have lost some of their rights as citizens. — more . . . uti : what is referred to by these words is not known ; it would seem as if there were laws for the protection of debtors. — liberum corpus : even at this time delinquent debtors might legally be imprisoned and sold as slaves. — saevitia . . . praetoris : the praetors had a large discretion in the interpretation of the laws, which they might exercise for the protection of the debtor. To do so, however, was dangerous, for in 89 B.C. a praetor was murdered by the usurers for being humane to debtors.

3. maiores vostrum : rostrum, usually a partitive genitive, was sometimes, though rarely, used as a possessive genitive ; in the classical writers usually when accompanied by omnium. — opitulati sunt : partly by legislation, partly by the free distribution of corn. — novissimum : by the Lex Valeria of 86 B.C., which allowed debtors to settle with their creditors by the payment of twenty-five per cent ; in other words, by paying an as (a copper coin = one cent) for a sesterc (a silver coin = four cents) ; novissimum, a superlative avoided by Cicero, who uses it only once, is freely used by Sallust and Caesar.

4. Saepe : three times. The first time was only sixteen years after the establishment of the republic (494 B.C.), when the plebs seceded to the Mons Sacer. The tribuneship of the people was established on that occasion. The second secession occurred in 449 B.C., and led to the abolition of the decemvirate. The plebs seceded for the third time in 287 B.C. to the Janiculus. This secession resulted in the enactment of the Lex Hortensia, giving the force of laws to resolutions of the plebs (plebiscita).

5. nemo bonus, no honorable man.

6. consulatis . . . restituitis : these clauses are treated as co-ordinate, not as subordinate ; hence the omission of ut. — maximum ult . . . pereamus, how we shall best avenge ourselves before we perish.

XXXIV. 1. si vellent . . . discedant : the same irregular sequence of tenses as in XXXII. 2 ; but whilst the principal verb is in the historical present there, it is in the historical perfect here. Sallust writes discedant, because discederent would suggest that the clause is conditional.

2. optimo cuique, the most prominent of the aristocratic party. — litteras mittit : is often followed by the acc. c. inf., giving the contents of the letters. — criminibus, slandorous charges ; in classical Latin crimen does not mean "crime." — Massiliam . . . proficisci: Catiline had spread this report in Rome on the day of his flight. Marseilles was a favorite refuge for exiles; e.g. Milo, after his conviction for the murder of Clodius, went there (52 B.C.). — nequiverit . . . esset . . . oreretur: for the sequence of tenses compare XXXII. 2 and XXXIV. 1; oreretur is archaic for oriretur. — ex sua contentione: from a struggle on his part; sua is emphatic. — foret: not = esset; it retains its archaic meaning to become.

3. nomine Catilinae, at the request of Catiline. — exemplum infra scriptum est: the regular formula when a writer cites a document word for word.

XXXV. 1. I. Catilina Q. Catulo: in Latin all letters begin with the names of the writer and of the person addressed. The dative depends on the words salutem dicit, generally written 'S. D.,' or salutem dicit plurimam, written 'S. D. P.' Q. Lutatius Catulus was the son of the Catulus who was Marius' colleague in the consulship (101 B.C.) when they defeated the Cimbri at Vercellae. The younger Catulus was consul in 78 B.C., and defeated his rebellious colleague, Lepidus, in a pitched battle that was fought in the Campus Martius. Since then he had been one of the most trusted leaders of the optimates. — cognita: qualifies fides, not re. Catulus had defended Catiline and the vestal Fabia against the charge mentioned in ch. XV. — grata, appreciated; a favorite word in letters. — fiduciam tribuit, justifies my confidence; fidem facit is the usual expression. But the letter is full of odd turns of phrase, pointing to its authenticity. — commendationi: i.e. of Catiline's wife Orestilla and of her children.

2. in novo consilio: his departure for Manlius' camp. — satisfactionem, a satisfactory explanation; it stands in antithesis to defensio; for as we defend ourselves against an enemy, we strive to justify our conduct to a friend, which Catiline supposed Catulus to be. — ex nulla conscientia de culpa, not because of consciousness of guilt. — me dius Fidius, so help me the god of truth; short for me dius Fidius iuvet; an oath.

3. statum . . . non obtinebam: a euphemistic statement of the fact that by Catiline's repeated defeats at election, he had become politically discredited. — publicam . . . causam: he assumed the role of protector of the poor, as Peisistratos had done in Athens, to cover up his schemes. — meis nominibus: nomen is a technical term in book-keeping, and signifies a ledger account, which was headed by the name of the person dealt with. Here meis nominibus is an ablative of description going with aes alienum, debts with my names, i.e. in this creditor's account-books, and therefore debts of my own. — alienis nominibus: qualifies aes alienum, to be repeated from above; debts of others, i.e. of his friends. — persolveret: the potential of the past (A. & G. 311, a; G. 252; H. 485). — non dignos homines: these words point especially at Cicero and Murena. — honore honestatos: the so-called etymological figure, very common in early Latin, but antiquated in Sallust's time.

4. Hoc nomine: nomen with a pronoun instead of causa often occurs in letters. — pro meo casu, considering my losses; he spoke above of his loss of standing, as well as of his losing the fruits of his exertions. — spes, prospects.

5. Plura . . . vellem: these words prove that Catiline wrote this letter before leaving Rome; vellem is an epistolary past (A. & G. 282; B. 265; G. 244; H. 472, 1).

6. tuaeque fidei: belongs to commendo as well as to trado. Its omission with commendo is harsh, but the whole letter is written in a harsh style. — Haveto: the usual formula of greeting at the end of letters is vale. The future imperative was much used in popular Latin.

XXXVI. 1. agro Arretino: Arretium, now Arezzo, on the Arno, some thirty miles southeast of Florence, was an important town in Etruria. — exornat, furnishes. Instead of exorno, Cicero uses its primitive, orno, which means, not to adorn, but to fit out, as navem ornare, to fit out a ship. — imperi, i.e. consularis. Catiline acted as if he were a consul.

2. diem statuit, fixed a day; these and the following words are quoted from the decree, as appears from their technical language. — sine fraude, without penalty or damage; its original meaning, which survived longest in the technical language of the jurists. — praeter, is an adverb. Sallust first uses it so in prose.

4. multo maxume miserabile: Sallust uses the superlative with maxume, because miserabilissimum was not yet regarded as correct. To strengthen the superlative, Cicero uses longe, Sallust the antiquated multo. — remque publicam: when res publica is to be joined to another word by an enclitic (-que, -ve, etc.), the enclitic is always placed between res and publica. — obstinatis animis, obstinately. — perditum irent: Sallust, in imitation of the old writers, often uses ire with the supine of a verb, instead of the verb alone.

5. duobus senati decretis, in spite of two decrees of the senate; a concessive ablative absolute. — inductus . . . patefecerat, was led to betray. — quisquam omnium: is the subject both of patefecerat and discesserat.

XXXVII. 1. allena: sc. a vero rectoque, blinded. The word continues the medical metaphor used at the end of the preceding chapter. — cuncta plebes: the student must not forget that the Roman rabble in Catiline's time, a body of idle, lounging, penniless lazzaroni, freed slaves, and proletarians, were very different from the plebeians of old, who were the soundest part of the commonwealth.

2. id adeo, precisely this. Before Sallust, Caesar uses adeo in this way to emphasize a pronoun or a numeral (cf. B. G., V. 54): idque adeo haud scio mirandumne sit. — more suo: are to be translated as the emphatic words of the sentence.

3. quibus: supply the antecedent ii. — mutari omnia student: for this construction of student cf. I. 1. — sine cura, without having any reason for anxiety. — quoniam egestas . . . damno: for what a beggar has is readily kept without loss.

4. ea vero: colloquial repetition of the subject (see on XII. 5). — praeceps erat: see on XXV. 4.

5. qui ubique, whoever anywhere; observe that ubique, as often, is coupled with a relative. — probrio, by his wicked life. — patrimonii amissis: this is an ablative absolute, which at the same time describes alii. — sicuti in sentinam, as if into a sewer.

6. Deinde: is the correlative of primum omnium in § 5. The last member of the series is introduced by praeterea in § 7. — senatores: the senate having been decimated in the civil war, Sulla filled the vacancies with veterans who had rendered him conspicuous service. — victu atque cultu: together include the whole manner of living; victus referring to meat and drink, cultus to dress, surroundings, enjoyments, &c., lived eating and drinking like kings.

7. manuum mercede, by the earnings of their hands. — publicis largitionibus: such as the banquets, games, and gladiatorial shows of the aediles. Though forbidden by law, candidates gave similar largesses, here referred to as privatis. — urbanum otium, idleness in the city. — ingrato labori: their toil was irksome, because the rabble, led astray by the largesses of the demagogues, no longer recognized the blessings of labor.

8. malum publicum, the general misery; publicum, i.e. populicum, includes everything relating to the people. — malis moribus, maxima spe: ablatives of quality, equivalent to adjectives, and, therefore, coupled with egentis. — iuxta consuluisse, had equally little regard for (see on II. 8).

9. quorum: supply the antecedent ii; quorum depends on parentes. — ius libertatis imminutum erat: a lex Cornelia of 81 B.C. deprived the descendants of those proscribed by Sulla of the right to vote and to be voted for. This law was in force till 49 B.C., when Julius Caesar caused its repeal. Cicero (63 B.C.) opposed a motion to repeal it.

10. rem publicam . . . ipsi: on malebant depend both an acc. c. inf. and a nom. c. inf., as often occurs in Greek; an illustration of Sallust's fondness for variety of construction.

11. Id adeo malum: i.e. the spirit of aggrandizement, which did not hesitate to disturb even the peace of the commonwealth. This spirit had been paralyzed by the practical suppression of the tribuneship. — multos post annos: eleven years, from 82–70 B.C., when the tribunate was restored.

XXXVIII. 1. Cn. Pompeio et M. Crasso cons.: the year 70 B.C. — tribunicia potestas restituta est: Sulla, in 82 B.C., had deprived the tribunes of many rights, among them that of proposing laws. — summam potestatem: the tribunes of the plebs never had any military or executive power (imperium), but by their intercession they could stop the action of any other magistrate; and although no one could interfere with them, they had the right to seize even the consuls. — adulescentes: there was no legal age for the tribuneship, but as a rule it followed the quaestorship. — coepere agitare incendere: equivalent to agitabant, incendebant for incendere: in colloquial language coepi with the infinitive often replaces the past tense. — fieri: historical infinitive.

2. senatus specie, on pretence of working for the senate; the ablative specie is used with the genitive, like causa.

3. post illa tempora: after the restoration of the tribuneship, 70 B.C. — nominibus: is explained by the clauses beginning by alii and pars. Observe that, for variety's sake, Sallust writes alii . . . pars instead of the regular alii . . . alii; alii, pars and quisque are in distributive apposition to quicumque. — bonum publicum, the general good; see note on malum publicum in XXXVII. 8.

4. modestia, moderation of view; modus, measure, self-restraint; modus is the consequence of modestia.

XXXIX. 1. ad bellum maritimum: by the Gabinian law (67 B.C.), Pompey was entrusted with the conduct of the war against the pirates, which he finished in eighty days. In 66 B.C. the war against Mithradates was confided to him by the Manilian Law, and he had not yet returned when Catiline's conspiracy was discovered. — imminutae: supply sunt. — paucorum: here, as above, pauci means the optimates or aristocrats.

2. innoxii, unharmed. The word is found in the passive sense only in Sallust and the poets. — ceteros, qui . . . tractarent: the nobles who did not approve the extreme measures of their party, were prosecuted.

3. dubis rebus: ablative absolute. — novandi spes, the hope of effecting a revolution. Sallust is the first writer to use novare in this sense. When used without object novare always means to effect a political change. — eorum: i.e. plebis (cf. § 2): synesis.

4. aut, or at least; the so-called aut diminutivum. — neque, but not; a common meaning. — illis: i.e. the Catilinarians. — qui forent i.e. si forent. Sallust now puts aside the second alternative stated above. — defessis et exsanguibus: qualify illis (the Catilinarians). — qui plus posset: a covert manner of designating Pompey, who had just conquered the East, and was at the head of a powerful and victorious army that would surely have crushed Catiline, even if the latter had at first gained some successes.

5. Fuere tamen: here Sallust resumes the thread of his story, interrupted at XXXVI. 3. — retractum . . . iussit: according to Roman law, a father had the right of life and death over his children. Translate as if the text read: quem parens ex itinere retraxit et necari iussit.

6. cuiusque modi genus hominum, men of every station in life; a singular pleonasm for cuiusque generis homines.

XL. 1. P. Umbrenus: was a freedman. According to Cicero he was aided in his attempt to gain over the Allobroges for Catiline's undertaking, by P. Furius, a colonist from Faesulae, and by Q. Annius Chilo. — Allobrogum: a Gallic tribe dwelling between the Rhone and the Isère. They were conquered by Q. Fabius Maximus in 121 B.C., but not formally incorporated into the Roman Province until Caesar's time. They had sent ambassadors to Rome to complain of the oppressions of the Roman officials and merchants. — publice . . . oppressos: both the Allobrogian government and the private citizens were overburdened with debt. The reasons for Lentulus' belief, it will be remarked, are expressed, 1° by a participial clause (publice . . . oppressos); 2° by a quod clause: another, but by no means commendable instance of Sallust's craving after variety.

2. negotiatius erat: Cicero, in his speech for Fonteius, informs us that Gaul was full of Roman merchants, who controlled all its business. — tantīs malis: dative; supply futurum esse.

3. miseris: at at the beginning of the speaker's remarks, like ἀλλὰ in Greek, indicates that the speaker combats the views just expressed. — rationem . . . effugiatis: ostendam here has two objects, rationem and the indirect question qua ista mala effugiatis. In Cicero and Caesar the noun object is always inserted in the indirect question: ostendam qua ratione ista mala effugiatis. The subjunctive may also be explained as a subjunctive in a characteristic relative clause.

4. ea res: expresses affirmatively what is denied by the preceding nihil.

5. D. Bruti: see on XXV. 1. — aliena consili: the only place in Sallust where aliena is construed with the genitive. But non aliena, it should be observed, is used by litotes for particeps, which would govern the genitive. D. Brutus himself was not connected with the conspiracy. — nam: assigns the reason why it was safe for Umbrenus to take the Gauls there, an idea easily supplied by the reader. — ab Roma: popular speech, which prefers clearness to grammatical correctness, regularly employed prepositions with names of towns.

6. maior auctoritas: as Umbrenus was only a freedman, he called in the eques Gabinius to give additional weight to his words. — innocuos, innocent persons; from in and noxa, crime. — operam suam: they were to raise a revolt in their own country and assist Catiline with a body of horse.

XL. 2. in altera parte . . . victoriae: in favor of taking sides with Catiline. — studium belli: in XL. 1, Sallust tells us natura gens Gallica bellicosa est. — at in altera: in favor of not taking sides with Catiline. — maiores opes: the greater resources of the senate and government are meant. — tuta consilia: the result of every war being uncertain, it was safest to take no part in the coming struggle.

3. fortuna rei publicae: the Romans worshipped Fortuna publica on the Capitoline, and their historians ascribed Roman success to two factors, virtus and Fortuna populi Romani.

4. Q. Fabio Sangae: he is otherwise unknown. — patrocinio: like clients, each subject state had its patron in Rome, usually a member of the family of its conqueror; e.g. the Marcelli were the patrons of the Sicilians, and Fabius Sanga belonged to the family of Q. Fabius Maximus Allobrogicus, who conquered the Allobroges in 121 B.C.

5. praecepit: instead of praecipit; here, as often elsewhere, Sallust affects the archaic form. — ceteros: the other conspirators, besides Umbrenus and Gabinius: as the latter have not been mentioned for a long time, their names should have been mentioned here, to secure clearness. — bene polliceantur, make liberal promises. — quam maxime . . . habeant, should get as clear proof of guilt as possible. manifestus, used of persons, is colloquial.

XLII. 1. agro Piceno: south of Umbria on the Adriatic; its chief town was Ancona. — Bruttio: is an adjective to be taken with agro. The ager Bruttius was at the southwest extremity of Italy. — Apulia: in the southeast of Italy, just above the heel of the boot.

2. quos . . . dimiserat: before Catiline left Rome; see ch. XXVII. 4. — armorum: defensive arms; tela, weapons used to attack; the two words are often used together and then mean the complete armor of a soldier.

3. ex eo numero, i.e. ex numero eorum; see on XXXIII. 1. — ex senatus consulto: its terms are given in XXXVI. 2. The days of grace allowed therein had now elapsed. — causa cognita, after a regular trial; cognoscere causam is a legal technical term, meaning to try a case. — in citeriore Gallia: according to Cicero (pro Mur. 89) C. Murena was temporary governor (legatus) of Farther Gaul for his brother Lucius, after the latter went to Rome to push his election as consul for the year 62 B.C.

XLIII. 1. cum ceteris qui . . . erant, with the other chiefs of the, etc. — constituerant: construed as if the subject were Lentulus et ceteri (synesis). In similar cases Cicero regularly uses the singular, the historians the plural. — ex agro Faesulano: the manuscripts have in agrum Faesulanum; but this cannot be right, as Catiline, according to XXXVI. 1-3, had already arrived at Faesulae, where Manlius' camp was. At all events, he must have arrived there long before Dec. 10, when Bestia's term as tribune began. Besides, both Sallust elsewhere and Cicero say that the rising in Rome was to take place when Catiline's army from Etruria would approach the city. — actionibus, the official conduct; the Latin has the concrete, where the English uses the abstract. — optumo consuli: Brutus, Cicero's friend, praised him in the very same terms, as Sallust his enemy. Cicero in a letter to Atticus (XII. 21, 1) thinks the eulogy faint praise: Brutus se etiam tribuere multum mihi putat, quod scripserit 'optimum consulem'; quis enim ieiunius dixit inimicus? — eo signo: abl. abs. — proxima nocte: according to Cicero (Cat. III. 10) the uprising was fixed for the Saturnalia (Dec. 17). — coniurationis: i.e. coniuratorum; translate: the rest of the conspirators.

2. ea . . . dicebantur: ea stands for multitudo, a collective noun; synesis. — divisa: sc. esse. — quo tumultu, etc.: i.e. ut tumultu inde orto facilius . . . fieret. — fili familiarum: in general the Romans said not only pater, mater, filius familias, but also patres familias, etc. In using the plural familiarum, as in other points, Sallust imitates the historian Sisenna. — quorum, etc.: construe: quorum maxuma pars erat ex nobilitate. — ad Catilinam: who was expected near the city.

3. parata atque decreta: translate these participles by abstract nouns. — dies prolatando, by putting off the day of action; the expression is a legal technical term. — magnas oportunitates: observe that the Latins said magna oportunitas, occasio, not bona. — aliis : is used incorrectly for ceteris or reliquis ; the ablative absolute is equivalent to a concessive clause. — in curiam, upon the senate ; not upon the Curia Hostilia, see XXXII. 1.

4. manu promptus : quick with the hand, or quick to come to blows ; i.e. inclined to violent measures.

XLIV. 1. ius iurandum, a sworn document. — signatum : sealed with their seals. — aliter : nisi ius iurandum signatum ad civis pertulissent.

2. eo : i.e. ad eos.

3. Crotoniensem, of Crotona : a town on the coast of Bruttium, founded by the Greeks ; it became a Roman colony in 194 B.C. — data atque accepta fide : the regular formula.

4. quarum exemplum, etc. : see on XXXIV. 3. — qui sim : as quis refers to the name, qui to the character of the person inquired about, we should here look for quis sim. But popular language often slighted such niceties. Cicero's version of the letter of Lentulus, as given in his third oration against Catiline, § 12, is as follows : Quis sim, scies ex eo, quem ad te misi. Cura, ut vir sis, et cogita, quem in locum sis progressus, et vide quid tibi iam sit necesse, et cura ut omnium tibi auxilia adiungas, etiam infimorum.

5. Fac cogites : i.e. cogita ; in letters the imperative is often replaced by fac, with the 2 sing. of the pres. subj. — rationes, interests ; strictly speaking accounts. — infimis : the slaves are meant. Catiline had hitherto refused to enroll them in his army (see on LVI. 5).

6. verbis, by word of mouth. — quo consilio : are the most important words in the sentence ; to bring out their importance, translate : what were his views in refusing, etc.

XLV. 1. nocte qua proficiscerentur : it was the night from the 2d to the 3d of December. — L. Valerius Flaccus : was the son of the Valerius who in 86, as consul, passed the law remitting seventy-five per cent of all debts. The son had fought in Cilicia, Spain, and Crete. In 62 he was governor of Asia, and, being accused of extortion on his return, was defended by Cicero in 59 B.C. — C. Pomptinus : as propraetor of Gallia Narbonensis in 61, defeated the Allobroges, and in 51 B.C. was Cicero's legatus in Cilicia. — ponte Mulvio : now Ponte Molle, was the northernmost of the bridges over the Tiber ; the Via Flaminia passed over it. —

Allobrogum comitatus: the ambassadors and all their company: the plural comitatus indicates that the company was large.

2. homines militares: this appositive takes the place of a causal clause with cum; the Greeks would connect it with the subject by ὅτι. It states the reason of sine tumultu praeiudici conlocatis.

3. ad id loci: for ad eum locum. Though Cicero and Caesar avoid such combinations, Sallust is fond of the partitive genitive dependent on adverbs and on neuter pronouns, even when these are the objects of prepositions.

4. vitae diffidens: diffido has the force of despero; being deserted by the Gauls, he saw that to fight was to court death. — velut hostibus: there was a formal surrender, as if to an enemy. — dedit: pres. ind.

XLVI. 2. ingens cura, great anxiety. The rhetorical tendencies of the Romans led them to use exaggerated expressions, as in this case, the word ingens for magna. Vergil and Livy also are fond of the word ingens. — laetabatur, anxius erat: S. explains cura and laetitia, in chiasmic arrangement. — porro, on the other hand; in Sallust and later writers it expresses antithesis. — civibus deprehensis: may be explained either as an ablative absolute, or as a dative or ablative with facto. — poenam illorum, their punishment; i.e. the fact that they were punished. — sibi oneri fore: Cicero foresaw that it would bring trouble upon him, as it eventually did. — perdundae rei publicae: a genitive of quality, like conservandae libertatis in VI. 7.

3. Lentulus, etc.: see on XVII. 3. — confirmato animo: having recovered his self-possession. Of Caeparius nothing further is known. His birthplace, Tarracina, or Anxur (now Terracina), was on the coast of Latium, some fifty miles southeast of Rome.

4. cognito indicio: i.e. cum indicium factum esse cognovit. — perduci: i.e. in aedem Concordiae. This temple stood at the northeast extremity of the Capitoline Hill, facing the Roman Forum.

5. magna frequentia: ablative absolute. — ordinis: i.e. senatorii; besides the ordo senatorius, there was the ordo equester and the plebs. The details of the senate's proceedings are given in Cicero's third oration against Catiline, ch. 4-6.

XLVII. 1. quid . . . habuisset: construe quid consili habuisset aut qua de causa id habuisset. — dissimulare de coniuratione:

Sallust is almost the only writer that construes dissimulo with de and the ablative; it is regularly construed with the accusative or the acc. c. inf. — fide publica: ablative of cause. In consideration of his turning informer, he was guaranteed impunity: fides, promise of safety; publica, on the part of the people, the sovereign. — audire solitum: had repeatedly heard; with solitum, supply esse.

2. fatentur, testify. The words ex libris to cruentum fore give the substance of Lentulus' talk to the Gauls. The Sybilline books, bought by King Tarquin from the Cumæan Sybil, were kept till 83 B.C. in a shrine in the Capitol and were supposed to be prophecies relating to the destinies of Rome. — L. Cornelius Cinna: leader of the Marian party after Marius' death, was consul 87–84 B.C.; he was slain by his own soldiers in his fourth consulship. — L. Cornelius Sulla: the opponent of Marius, dictator (83 B.C.) and leader of the aristocratic party. — antea: fuisse must be supplied, as appears from the following esse. — urbis: Sallust, like Caesar, uses either the genitive or the ablative with potior. — ab incendio Capitolio: the Capitol had been burnt on July 6, 83 B.C., during the Sullan civil war. — illum: is used here, because of the oratio obliqua; in direct discourse hic would be used. — respondissent: respondere and responsum dare are regular technical terms for the answers of augurs, priests, and lawyers. — bello: ablative of cause.

3. perlectis: observe the force of per. — signa sua: when the Romans had closed their letters, they tied a string around them and sealed the knot with sealing-wax. To prove the authenticity of the letters, Cicero had carefully preserved the seals unbroken. — abdicato magistratu: it was illegal to imprison a Roman magistrate. — in liberis custodiis: they were to be kept, not in prison, but in the houses of certain distinguished citizens, who agreed to answer for their appearance.

4. P. Cornelius Lentulus Spinther: was consul in 57 B.C., and worked hard for Cicero's recall from exile. — Q. Cornificius: had been one of Cicero's rivals when a candidate for the consulship. — Cn. Terentius: of him we have no further information.

XLVIII. 1. coniuratione patefacta: by Cicero in his third Catilinarian oration delivered after the meeting of the senate on the evening of Dec. 3. — cupida rerum novarum: states the reason of favebat, — mutata . . . exsecrari: translate: mutavit mentem et . . . exsecrata est; after exsecrari the adversative conjunction is omitted; asyndeton. — gaudium, joy, as an inward feeling; laetitiam includes its outward manifestation, and is, therefore, stronger than gaudium.

2. praedae . . . fore, would bring them booty rather than loss. — quippe qui: in Sallust takes the indicative, in Cicero and Caesar the subjunctive. — in usu et cultu: on victus et cultus, see on XXXVII. 6. As the poor live from hand to mouth, they have nothing to lose except their food and clothes: usus means food.

3. Post eum diem: i.e. Dec. 4; Caesar would have said postridie eius diei. — quidam L. Tarquinius: as a rule quidam follows the proper name.

4. praeterea: sc. docet. — Lentulus et . . . deprehensi, the arrest of Lentulus, etc. In English and the modern languages generally, the verbal noun (abstract construction) is often used where the Latin uses the passive participle (concrete construction). — eoque: -que is adversative, and means but. — quo: i.e. ut eo.

5. conclamant: the subject is alii, pars, plerique, taken together; in other words, the senators. The reasons, it will be remarked, are given by means of different constructions, by a participial clause (rati, etc.), by quia, and by an adjective clause (plerique . . . obnoxii), according to Sallust's characteristic way of varying his construction. In English, parallel constructions must be used. — in tali tempore, in such a crisis; this phrase in the historians always refers to the critical point of an event. — tanta vis hominis, a man of such influence; cf. scriptorum magna ingenia in VIII. 3, and tanta vis morbi in XXXVI. 5; such expressions remind us of the Homeric λεπὸν μένος Ἀλκινόωιο, βίη Ἡρακλεΐτη. Here it emphasizes Crassus as the possessor of millions, in antithesis to Crassus the man. — plerique . . . obnoxii: Crassus, according to the testimony of his contemporaries, used his money both legitimately and illegitimately, to increase his political power. — uti . . . referatur: sc. a consule ad senatum; referre is the technical term for laying a question before the senate.

6. consulente Cicerone, when Cicero put the question. In the senate the consul's duty was referre and consulere (to ask the opinion and take the vote of the senate), rather than to advocate his own views. — potestatem: sc. indicandi.

7. machinatum: used in the passive sense. Sallust often uses deponent verbs so. — appellato Crasso, if Crassus were named, i.e. as a conspirator. Instead of joining the participle appellati to illius (sc. Crassi) (participium coniunctum), Sallust uses the ablative absolute. The ablative absolute is often used so, when the participle should qualify a possessive genitive or a personal pronoun. By its use the subordinate clause is emphasized.

9. ipsum Crassum: it is unlikely that Crassus, who had everything to lose by Catiline's anarchical undertaking, was connected with the conspiracy. Cicero's stern refusal to implicate Caesar makes Crassus' suspicions improbable.

XLIX. 1. C. Calpurnius Piso: consul in 67, proconsul of Gallia Narbonensis in 66 and 65, was in 63 accused of extortion (repetundarum) by the Allobroges. — neque pretio neque gratia, neither by money nor by personal influence; the two most effective means of controlling the action of a dishonest politician. Sallust is fond of combining the two words. — C. Caesar: when in 62 Caesar was accused of complicity in Catiline's schemes, Cicero testified in his favor.

2. uterque . . . exercebant: a synesis that occurs only here, in Asinius Pollio (Ep. 33, 3) and B. Alexandrinum, 60, 5. — oppugnatus: sc. a Caesare, who was patron of the Galli Transpadani. — repetundarum: the explanatory words, propter . . . supplicium iniustum, show that repetundarum has considerably changed its original meaning. Originally iudicium repetundarum meant a suit to recover money; here it means 'maladministration.' — ex petitione pontificatus: the election took place in March, 63. — ab adulescentulo Caesare: Caesar, who was born in 100 B.C., was then in his thirty-seventh year, and Catulus was some twenty years older. Perhaps Catulus himself had styled Caesar adulescentulus.

3. Res: the scheme to accuse Caesar of being Catiline's accomplice. — oportuna: credible. — privatim . . . publice: do not modify debebat, but must be taken with the verbs suggested by the words liberalitate and muneribus; the construction is not regular. — muneribus: refers to the games given by him as aedile. — grandem pecuniam: before holding any office, Caesar's debts, it is said, amounted to 1300 talents (about $1,500,000).

4. quae se . . . audisse dicerent: quae, ut dicebant, audissent.

When in indirect discourse it is not clear whether the infinitive takes the place of an indicative or subjunctive in the direct discourse, the verb of declaring itself is put into the subjunctive, if the infinitive stands for a subjunctive, as in the present case. This is not an uncommon kind of attraction. — praesidi: gen. sing. — animi mobilitate, by excitement. The English in such expressions usually omits the limiting word, while animi is required in Latin. These knights, Cicero's warm friends, were probably angry because of Caesar's attempt to save Lentulus, &c. — egredienti ex senatu . . . minitarentur: this happened after Caesar made the speech reported in LI.

L. 1. haec: the transactions reported XLVIII 3-6. — comprobato . . . indicio, in recognition of their testimony. — praemia decernuntur: this action was taken on Dec. 4. The Allobroges, however, did not obtain the objects of their mission; hence the revolt of the Allobroges after Catiline's defeat. — divorsis itineribus: they scattered in different directions. — opifices atque servitia: remark the coupling of the two classes. As, a matter of fact, in popular estimation at Rome, the working man did not rank much above the slave. — duces multitudinum: at this time Rome was much disturbed by bands of political ruffians, led by such men as P. Clodius and T. Annius Milo. These did not shrink from violence in order to achieve their ends; for money they were ready to undertake any scheme, however desperate.

2. familiam, his household slaves. — libertos: the word libertus always connects the freedman with his former master. If attention is not to be called to this connexion, libertinus is used. — grege facto, forming a company; grex is used of military formation, as the expression miles gregarius for common soldier shows.

3. ea parari: translate by an abstract noun. — convocato senatu: this meeting took place in the Temple of Concord on Dec. 5. — traditi erant: mark the indicative in a subordinate clause of the oratio obliqua. Several examples of the kind are found in Sallust.

4. paulo ante: the day before. — contra . . . fecisse: this condemned the Catilinarians as men who had acted against the laws and constitution. The sentence is a parenthesis expressing Sallust's opinion that the senate had already answered Cicero's question. — Tum : continues the narrative interrupted by the parenthesis. — D. Junius Silanus : was the husband of Cato's step-sister Servilia, the mother, by a former husband, of M. Brutus, who slew Caesar. — primus . . . rogatus : great stress was laid by the senators upon the order in which their opinions were asked by the consul. If the yearly elections had already been held, the consuls elect were asked first, then the ex-consuls, praetors, etc. — decreverat, had proposed ; this is the meaning of the word, if the subject is a single senator. — pedibus . . . iturum : senators either expressed their own views (sententiam dicere), or declared that they agreed with some one who had spoken before (verbo assentiri alicui), or voted with one or other side on a division of the house, (in alienam sententiam pedibus ire). — Ti. Claudius Nero : was the father of the first husband of the Empress Livia and grandfather of the Emperor Tiberius. — praesidiis additis : this is the reading of the mss. Cicero, it is true, had placed on the Capitoline a guard of Roman knights under the command of his friend T. Pomponius Atticus. But even while Cicero was delivering his speech (IV, Cat. 7, 14), senators suggested that he was not strong enough to carry out extreme measures. Nero, according to Sallust, voiced this view in his motion to postpone. According to Suetonius, Nero moved to postpone action till Catiline should be defeated in the field and a closer investigation held.

5. Caesar . at this time was praetor elect. He spoke after the ex-consuls. — rogatus sententiam : the form of doing this was : dic C. Caesar. The following speech is not a verbatim report, but it agrees in the main with Cicero's report of Caesar's speech.

LI. 1. Omnia homines : if we compare this opening with the opening of this history, I. 1, the similarity in the language strongly suggests that the present speech is Sallust's composition as far as style goes. — rebus dubiis, critical measures.

2. animus : stands for the indefinite we. — neque quisquam omnium, no one whatsoever ; omnium is inserted for emphasis. — paruit : gnomic perfect ; see on concupivit, XI. 3. — usui, his real interest ; just as tempus is the right time and locus the right place.

3. dominatur, lords it over us ; mark the force of the word.

4. magna copia, plentiful material. — male consulerint : the equivalent of κακῶς ἐβουλεύσαντο in Herod. VII. 10, 4, where illus trations of the principle here laid down may be found. — Contra lubricum animi sui, contrary to their own inclinations. — recte atque ordine: as was right and proper; a common combination.

5. Bello Macedonico: the third Macedonian War, 171–168 B.C. — Perse: Sallust has the ablative Perse and the accusative Persem of the name of King Perseus. These forms suppose a nominative Perse of the first declension. — opibus creverat, owed its growth to the aid; opibus is an ablative of cause. The Romans had been aided by the Rhodians in their war against Antiochus, king of Syria, and after the victory of Magnesia (189 B.C.) ceded Lycia and Caria to the Rhodians. — infida . . . fuit: they took no active part in the war with Perseus, but were suspected by Rome. — impunitos . . . dimisere: the proposal to make war on the Rhodians was defeated by the elder Cato; still Lycia and Caria were taken away from them. — divitiarum: the Rhodians had grown very wealthy by their commerce.

6. bellis Punicis omnibus: the first Punic War lasted from 264 to 241 B.C.; the second or Hannibalic War, from 218 to 201 B.C.; the third (149 to 146) resulted in the destruction of Carthage. — nunquam . . . fecere: the facts of history do not bear out this statement. — per occasionem, when occasion offered.

7. scelus, your indignation at the crime. — dignitas, your self-respect.

8. digna pro factis, commensurate with their crimes; dignus followed by pro and the ablative is rare. — novom consilium: Caesar calls the proposal to inflict capital punishment on the conspirators a new measure, because both some older laws and a Lex Sempronia of C. Gracchus made it illegal to punish a citizen with death, except by order of the people. — omnium ingenia, any punishment man's ingenuity can devise; the cause is used for the effect; metonymy.

9. composite atque magnifice, with all the graces of composition and rhetoric. To compliment them for using the casum rei publicae, to air their rhetorical skill, savors of bitter irony. rapi and the infinitives that follow are the items of the enumeratio, and therefore in apposition with quae victis acciderent. — matres familiarum: for familiarum, see on XLIII. 2. — collubisset: used personally; so very rare. — cruore atque luctu: observe that Sallust couples the abstract noun luctu with a number of concrete substantives; a combination to be avoided.

10. quo illa oratio pertinuit, what was the purpose of their discourse? illa oratio for illorum oratio, as ex eo numero for ex eorum numero; see on XLII. 3. — scilicet: as usual, introduces an ironical remark. — res and oratio are in antithesis as deeds and words.

11. iniuriae suae: i.e. iniuriae sibi illatae; the possessive pronoun takes the place of an objective genitive. A. & G. 217, a; B. 243, 2; G. 363 R.; H. 396, III. 2. — gravius habuere: the usual expression is gravius tulere; but Sallust is fond of the verb habeo.

12. alia aliis licentia est, what is allowed to some is not allowed to others; licentia, taken concretely, is quod licet. — vitam habent: i.e. vivunt; with it connect in obscuro. — quid: accusative of the inner object or cognate accusative. — fortuna, their position in life. Observe that the clauses qui demissi . . . sciunt and qui magno . . . novere run parallel, except that the clause si quid . . . deliquere in the first clause is balanced by eorum facta in the second.

14. in imperio: i.e. in iis qui imperio praediti sunt, as appears from the antithesis.

15. equidem ego, I, for my part. Sallust uses equidem in speeches only. Cicero never uses ego in connexion with equidem. — minores quam . . . esse, are slight in comparison with their, &c. — postrema: only the last results.

16. eos mores: eos and eam are predicate accusatives. — eos . . . cognovi, such I know to be, &c. — viri: a complimentary expression; that honorable gentleman.

18. metus aut iniuria: sc. reorum; the fear of the criminals or the greatness of their crime. — subegit: for coegit; cf. X. 5.

20. De poena: while the sentence de timore, etc., pointedly discusses the metus of § 18, the present sentence touches the iniuria of § 18 only by implication. — equidem: emphasizes the subject pronoun, though this is not expressed. — id quod res habet, what is the fact; asserts the objective correctness of the assertion, which the word equidem had emphasized as his personal opinion. Caesar here avows his belief in the Epicurean doctrine that the soul is not immortal. — aerumnarum, the deepest human misery; the word aerumna was falling into disuse in Sallust's time. — ultra, on the other side of the grave; ultra is an adverb here. — neque curae . . . esse: this is an inference from Caesar's Epicurean opinion; mors ultima linea rerum est, as Horace, another Epicurean, expresses it.

21. Sed, But suppose that death is really a penalty. — in sententiam, to your motion to put them to death. — animadvertetur in eos, they be punished; the Latin has the impersonal construction.

22. Lex Porcia: ne quis magistratus civem Romanum adversus provocationem necaret neve verberaret; it was passed about 200 B.C., being a revival of a Lex Valeria passed soon after the expulsion of the kings. — aliae leges: the laws establishing trial by jury (iudices) are meant. Criminals tried thus could not be put to death, but might be interdicted from fire and water; in other words, exiled. No law abolished the death-penalty directly.

24. quia levius est: sc. verberari quam necari. — qui: this interrogative adverb is found chiefly in connection with fit, potest, convenit. — in minore negotio, in a matter of less importance; negotium is used for the more usual res. — neglegeris: archaic form of the perfect; cf. intellexi in XX. 3.

25. at enim = ἀλλὰ γὰρ, introduces an implied objection (but your argument is worthless, Caesar), with its expressed reason (nemo enim reprehendit, etc.). At enim may be rendered by However. — tempus, circumstances; strictly speaking, time with its attendant circumstances. — dies, time, as it changes and causes change. — fortuna cuius . . . moderatur: cf. fortuna in omni re dominatur in VIII. 1.

26. ceterum, but. Historians often use ceterum in this sense, Cicero never. Its original meaning was as to the rest; adv. acc. (τὰ δὲ ἄλλα).

27. ex bonis: supply exemplis; exemplum (from ex and emo, to take) means a measure that may be appealed to as a precedent. — sed ubi, etc.: the measure is supposed to be good. — ad ignaros eius: sc. imperi; i.e. ad eos qui imperio uti nesciunt.

28. devictis Atheniensibus: is an ablative absolute, and imposuere is without dependent case. In the battle of Aegospotami (404 B.C.), the Lacedaemonians under Lysander completely defeated the Athenian fleet, and appointed thirty of their Athenian partisans to rule Athens (the thirty tyrants).

29. coepere: omit in translating; in conversational Latin this verb was often used where we omit its equivalent, and where, in fact, there is no logical justification for it. — omnibus invisum: by adding omnibus to invisum, the adjective receives superlative force, and is so made parallel with pessimum, as it should be according to regular Latin usage; see on V. 8.—laetari and dicere do not depend on coepere, but are historical infinitives.

30. ceteros: i.e. quos non interfecerant.—metu terrere: the Thirty had sent for a Spartan garrison to support them.

32. memoria: ablative of time.—Damasippum: L. Junius Brutus Damasippus, praetor in 82 B.C. By order of the younger Marius, he caused the most distinguished senators, that sympathized with Sulla, to be butchered in the Curia Hostilia, or while fleeing. He was captured by Sulla in the battle at the Colline Gate, and slain in the Campus Martius along with some four thousand others.—malo . . . creverant: see on LI. 5.—cum . . . iussit, quis . . . laudabat: the principal clause describes a condition of things that began only after the action spoken of in the dependent clause was completed; in such cases the verb in the dependent clause is in the perfect, that in the principal clause in the imperfect indicative.

33. vas aut vestimentum: are often coupled, chiefly on account of the alliteration.—uti quisque: whoever.

34. quibus laetitiae fuerat, who had hailed with joy; laetitia means joy with its outward expression.—trahebantur: sc. ad necem.

35. multa et varia ingenia, multi homines iique varii ingenii.

36. hoc exemplo, according to the precedent we are establishing; hic includes a reference to the first person.

37. consilii: the genitive with egeo occurs repeatedly in Sallust, though it is rare in Cicero and Caesar, who regularly use the ablative with egeo.—superbia, self-conceit.—aliena: i.e. aliorum populorum.—si modo . . . erant: cf. XL. 3. Cicero regularly has the indicative after si modo, Caesar the subjunctive.

38. militaria: Sallust might have used militum to correspond with the following magistratum.—ab Samnitibus: they borrowed the veru (spear), and probably the scutum (shield), from the Samnites.—ab Tuscis: from the Etrurians they adopted the lictors, the sella curulis, and the toga praetexta.—pleraque: predicate adjective, modifies both arma et tela and insignia. It may be rendered to a great extent.—bonis: as we have already seen, Sallust prefers to place a word common to two clauses in the latter.

39. Graeciae morem imitati: according to the Roman historians, the Laws of the Twelve Tables were based on Greek laws; but long before this decemviral legislation, the Romans used both the verbera and the supplicium, as Caesar must have known.

40. res publica adolevit: nations, like individuals, grow and age. — tum: begins the consequent clause. — quibus legibus: the repetition of the antecedent in the relative clause is frequent in Caesar and in official documents. Sallust may have repeated legibus to imitate Caesar's style. The antecedent of quibus legibus is aliae leges only, as appears from § 22.

42. illis . . . in nobis: another change of construction for variety's sake. Sallust was the first to use the dative of the possessor, not only with things but also with qualities. — ea bene parta: ea is the same thing as imperium; its use emphasizes the various things that make up the imperium. When the Roman spoke of the imperium Romanum, including himself in the term, he said haec, which refers to the first person; but here the Romans of Caesar's day are not conceived as a part of the empire, but in antithesis to it; hence the use of ea, the ordinary pronoun of the third person.

43. Placet, Do I therefore move? placet, or placuit, often begins resolutions of the senate. — censeo: is another word used to begin resolutions of the senate; like decerno, censeo in the singular means I propose, I think. — pecunias, their property, its original meaning. — quae . . . valent, which are best provided with means to keep them safe. — referat . . . agat: the technical terms for bringing a question before the senate or people respectively. — contra rem publicam: see on L. 3.

LII. 1. verbo . . . adsentiebantur: besides expressing his opinion in a set speech (sententiam dicere), and going to one or the other side on a division of the house (pedibus ire in sententiam alicuius), a senator might simply state that he favored the motion made by a previous speaker (verbo adsentiri alicui). — alii: only two motions had been made, one by Silanus, the other by Caesar; still alii is right here, because alius precedes. — varie: strengthens the expression alius alii, and impresses the reader more vigorously with the fact that the vote was far from one-sided ; indeed, the result became so doubtful, that Cicero thought fit to make another speech (the fourth against Catiline). Then Nero made his motion to adjourn, which even Silanus supported, saying that by summum supplicium he meant imprisonment. Then Cato spoke, and his speech decided the issue. — M. Porcius Cato: afterwards called Uticensis, because he committed suicide at Utica, was at this time thirty-two years old and tribune elect. Much of the speech that follows is unsuited to so young a man.

2. The opening of this speech is an imitation of the exordium of Demosthenes' Third Olynthiac. — Longe alia, very different ; longe regularly goes with alius, longe or multo with aliter. — res atque pericula nostra, our dangerous position ; hendiadys.

3. patriae, parentibus, aris, atque focis : these four words comprise all that is most sacred to men ; aris et focis is a proverbial combination. — monet cavere : the use of the infinitive after monere, like its use after hortor, is rare in Caesar and Cicero ; see on V. 9. Cato's whole speech is an appeal to the instinct of self-defence.

4. cetera : by prolepsis is contrasted with the following hoc. — persequere : observe the indefinite 2d p. sing. — hoc : is the subject of accidat as well as of evenit. — nihil fit reliqui : the passive of the phrase nihil reliqui facere used in XI. 7.

5. cuiuscumque . . . sunt : expresses Cato's contempt ; they are not worth giving an opinion about. — amplexamini : you cling to vehemently.

7. in hoc ordine : here in the senate. — ea causa : causa, with a demonstrative pronoun, takes the preposition, except in archaic writers and Sallust.

8. qui . . . fecissem : a causal clause ; hence the subjunctive. — animo, delicti, gratiam fecissem : correspond respectively to lubidini, male facta, and condonabam, but the expressions in the first series are all weaker than those in the second.

9. opulentia, its resources. It is in the nominative case.

10. nunc vero : in antithesis to former occasions, when Cato spoke on less vital questions. — haec : i.e. imperium nostrum ; see on LI. 42. — cuiuscumque modi videntur : see on § 5 of this chapter.

11. Hic . . . nominat : this is an indignant question, giving the sentence a negative meaning; hence the use of quisquam. — mihī: is in the ethical dative, and emphasizes the speaker's indignation. — equidem nos: see on equidem ego in LI. 15.

12. sint, etc.: co-ordinate concessive clauses. — furibus aerari: the similar expression, hirudo (leech) aerari used by Cicero, is applied to the Roman rabble; by fures aerari, in this passage, the dishonest officials are meant who appropriated the Roman revenues. — ne . . . eant: the apodosis of the concessive clause sint . . . aerari; hence no conjunction is needed; only let them not, etc.

13. bene et composite: compare Caesar's words in LI. 9. — credo: used parenthetically, is for the most part ironical. — quae . . . memorantur: the popular belief in a future life at this time had not yet died out. Some philosophers favored it, among them the Stoics, to which school Cato belonged. — divorso itinere, etc.: namely, that the wicked, etc.; this clause is in apposition with the preceding one, quae . . . memorantur; habere, i.e. habitare.

14. popularibus: see on XXII. 1. — multitudine: see on L. 1.

15. et non: as well as ac non, following quasi when it denies a supposition, are used to introduce what the writer considers the facts; in this case Cicero agrees with Cato (cf. Ad. Fam. IV. 9. 4).

16. equidem . . . est: equidem is rarely used with a verb in the 2d or 3d person. — solus non timet: a suggestion that Caesar had a hand in the conspiracy. The same charge was made directly by Catulus and Piso. See ch. XLIX.

17. habetote: when habere means to consider, to know, it is used like scire in the future imperative only, in clauses expressing exhortation or appeal.

18. si paulum, etc.: asyndeton, sed being omitted. — feroces: is a predicate adjective.

19. This is said in reply to Caesar's remarks found LI. 37–42.

20. quippe: in the historians often has the force of nam; see on XIII. 2.

21. quae nobis nulla sunt: nulla is used colloquially for non; nullus so used is stronger than non; cf. Cic. Catil. I. 7. 16. — neque delicto . . . obnoxius: these words explain the adjective liber; their minds were free from guilt and from passion.

22. egestatem: resources were not lacking, but the dishonesty of plunderers and the extravagance of demagogues wasted a great part of the income of the Roman commonwealth. — virtutis prae-mia : by these the offices are meant, which ought to be the reward of merit.

23. separatim sibi quisque, each one by himself for his own selfish ends. — hic : in the senate. — vacuam : as a legal technical term, means without owner, or without master, and according to Roman law, unclaimed property belonged to the first occupant (res nullius cedit occupanti). — ubi : because, as proved by the following eo.

24. Confuturavere . . . incendere : the infinitive is rarely used in classical prose to denote purpose ; here we should expect the gerundive with ad or an ut clause. — nomini Romano : everything called Roman, an idiomatic expression ; compare socii nomenque Latinum.

25. vos cunctamini, etc., and under these circumstances do you hesitate, etc. ; asyndeton. — hostibus : may be either dative or ablative, for the Latins said indifferently, quid huic homini faciam ? or quid hoc homine faciam ?

26. censeo : is used parenthetically ; hence ut must not be supplied for misereamini. The sentence is ironical.

27. ne, forsooth ; it was formerly spelled nae, and is usually followed by a pronoun, here by ista. — ista mansuetudo : be careful in translating to express the peculiar force of ista, which generally includes a reference to the second person. — convortat : is used intransitively here.

28. scilicet : as is generally the case, introduces an ironical remark. Here it ushers in an objection, sarcastically made by Cato to himself. — maxime : sc. timetis eam. — animi : is not translated.

29. supplicitis : see note on IX. 2. — muliebribus, womanish ; in a bad sense. — prospera cedunt : prospera is a predicate nominative, which Sallust often uses after cedo, evenio, and verbs of similar meaning. — nequiquam deos implores : compare frustra indicia implores in § 4. — irati . . . sunt : asyndeton ; supply nam.

30. A. Manlius Torquatus : Livy and other historians call him Titus, not Aulus. The occurrence here spoken of, according to the testimony of all the other writers who mention it, took place in a war against the Latins (340 B.C.). T. Manlius Imperiosus, the father, had fought in single combat with a Gaul in the Gallic War, 361 B.C. Hence, perhaps, the mistake in our author. — neocari iussit: he did so by virtue of his rights as a father. — vos . . . cunctamini: asyndeton; in translating it is best to insert and if Manlius so punished his son, etc.

31. videlicet, like scilicet, usually introduces ironical statements. — cetera: the nominative singular of this word is seldom found; the nominative singular masculine never, because the Latin avoids the termination us after r. — cetera . . . obstat: their former life stands opposed to this crime; i.e. their former life secures them against the suspicion of having committed this crime.

32. parcite . . . Lentuli, have some consideration for the official position of Lentulus.

33. ignoscite Cethegi adolescentiae, pardon the youthful Cethegus. — iterum: perhaps he had taken part in Catiline's first conspiracy.

34. Quid . . . loquar: a pretended omission (paraleipsis or praeteritio). It implies that the worthlessness of Gabinus and his accomplices was too notorious to need proof. — quibus . . . fuisset . . . habuissent: this must not be taken as a proof of the foregoing sentence, which needs no proof. It means: their contempt for everything good has of necessity brought them into their present plight.

35. ipsa re, by the course of events. — faucibus: ablative; faucibus urgere is stronger than faucibus tenere or premere. — atque in sinu urbis, and, what is more, in the heart of the city. — neque parari neque consuli: translate these infinitives by using abstract nouns and change occulte into an adjective. The construction consuli quicquam presupposes the construction consulere aliquid.

36. manifestis rerum: it follows from this that only a person caught in the act was manifestus facinoris (cf. Liv. I. 7, 9). The genitive is the same as that used with verbs of accusing and condemning.

LIII. 1. senatus magna pars: this did not include Caesar, who still sought to defeat the measure; he failed, but with Cicero's consent prevented the confiscation of the property of the condemned. — alii . . . increpantes: the historians often use the reciprocal alius alium and alii alios with participles: cf. LII. 28. — senati: cf. senatus magna pars and also XXX. 3.

2. mari atque terra: for variety's sake, instead of the customary terra marique: the change of arrangement is also influenced by the preceding domi militiaeque. — quae res . . . sustinuisset, what was the principal foundation of.

3. legionibus: is improperly and rarely used to designate non-Roman troops; when so used it has the force of exercitus. — contendisse: has for subject populum Romanum. — copiis: i.e. opibus, as appears from the antithesis opulentis regibus. — fortunae violentiam: here, as in VIII. 1, fortuna is personified as domina, who naturally has her violent caprices. — facundia: neither facundia nor facundus are found in Cicero or Caesar; the word means skill in the use of words, whether by orators or diplomats.

4. mihi constabat, I became firmly convinced; mark the force of the imperfect. — paucorum: not taken in a party sense as in XXXIX. 1. — patravisse: see on XVIII. 8. — factum: sc. esse.

5. rursus, in turn. — sustentabat: corresponds to sustinuisset in § 2. — sicuti effeta parente, as if the commonwealth (the mother of her citizens) had become exhausted. — multis tempestatibus, in a long time. In this sense the plural of tempestat is rare. — magnus: this is taken by some to be a stab at Pompey, to whom the surname of Magnus was given by Sulla.

6. ingenti: see on XLVI. 1. — obtulerat . . . fuit: these past tenses are past from the reader's standpoint, like epistolary perfects. — naturam et mores, the natural and acquired qualities; i.e. their character.

LIV. 1. Igitur: often begins a narrative, description, etc., that has just been promised. — gens: though the Julian family was of patrician, the gens Porcia of plebeian origin, both had belonged to the nobility for a long time, and at this period were equally distinguished. — aetas: Caesar was born in 100 B.C. (some say 102), Cato in 95 B.C. — eloquentia, oratory; as an art. Cicero speaks highly of Caesar as an orator. — alia, different in kind; hence altera would be wrong here, though there is question of only two.

2. beneficis ac munificentia . . . integritate: though these qualities are not in themselves opposed to each other, their rhetorical antithesis suggests what was lacking in the two men compared.

3. Caesar dando: see on XLIX. 3. — ignoscundo: compare Cicero's words to Caesar in his speech for Ligarius, § 35: qui oblivisci nihil soles nisi iniurias. — in altero . . . perniciēs: the one was the hope of . . . the other the terror of . . .

4. in animum induxerat: Cicero always says animum induxerat.

—neglegere . . . denegare: historical infinitives. To make them depend on induzerat would be to make Caesar a calculating schemer, which Sallust evidently does not mean to do.—bellum novom: seems to imply a sneer at Pompey, who had got the credit for conquering the Sertorians in Spain, Spartacus in Italy, and Mithradates in Asia, though the hard work had been done by Metellus Pius, Crassus, and Lucullus. Caesar's Gallic, British, and German wars were, strictly speaking, new.—enitescere: a rare word, apparently new in Sallust's time.

5. severitas: Cicero in his letters repeatedly complains that Cato, by his stern, uncompromising honesty, imperilled the interests of the commonwealth and of his party.—factione cum factionis, in party spirit with partisans.—sequebatur: compare Cicero, Tusc. Quaest. I: 109: gloria virtutem tanquam umbra sequitur, a sentiment repeated by Seneca (Ep. 79, 13): gloria umbra virtutis est; etiam invitam sequitur.

LV. 1. in Catonis sententiam discessit: a parliamentary technical term equivalent to pedibus in sententiam alicuius ire, found in ch. L. 4. The term for voting against a motion was in alia omnia discedere, for the consul put the motion by saying, qui hoc censetis, illuc transite, qui alia omnia (sc. censetis), in hanc partem.—novaretur: used impersonally; see on XXXIX. 3.—tresviri: the singular is triumvir, the plural either tresviri or triumviri. The tresviri capitales had charge of executions and prisons, whilst they also performed the functions of a modern police magistrate.

2. in carcerem: the Mamertine prison, which lay at the foot of the Capitoline Hill, east of the Temple of Concord. According to tradition it was built by Ancus Martius, whilst the innermost part, which was underground, was called Tullianum; this was said to have been built by Servius Tullius, and to have been named after him. It seems to have been originally a well (called in old Latin tullius), and to owe its name to this circumstance.—ceteris: dative or ablative; see on LII. 25.

3. ad laevam: supply partem.—humi depressus, sunk into the ground.

4. incultu, through neglect. Sallust is the earliest writer in whose works this word is found.

5. demissus est: through the opening in the ceiling of the Tul-lianum, which originally was the only means of entering. — vindices rerum capitalium: the tresviri capitales are meant. — quibus praeceptum erat: a phrase often used euphemistically, without antecedent, to designate the executioners.

6. consulare imperium: he had been consul in 71 B.C. — exitium: archaic for exitus.

LVI. 1. copia, the crowd; being unorganized they could not be called copias (troops). — duas legiones instituit: Catiline formed the skeletons of two legions. As two legions composed the regular consular army, Catiline by placing himself at the head of such an army emphasized his claim to be consul. — cohortes: there were ten cohorts in a legion; Catiline divided his two thousand men into twenty cohorts, giving one hundred men to each cohort instead of the usual six hundred.

2. ex sociis: i.e. coniurationis; observe its antithesis to voluntarius. — numero hominum: the expression intimates that whilst the cohorts now had the regular number of men, they were otherwise deficient.

3. militaribus armis, arms such as soldiers usually carry.

4. postquam . . . adventabat: see on VI. 3. — in Galliam versus: except in one passage (Jug. XIX. 3), Sallust always uses in or ad with versus.

5. cuius: the relative in the singular has a plural antecedent (servitia), an anomalous construction, without any warrant. Perhaps it may be explained by assuming that Sallust thought of servitia as a class, so that cuius would stand for cuius generis. — rationibus, his interests; see on XLIV. 5. — videri . . . communicavisse, to seem to identify the cause of Roman citizens with that of slaves; fugitivus was a nickname in Rome.

LVII. 1. magnis itineribus, by forced marches. — Pistoriensem: Pistoria, now Pistoia, is a city about twenty miles northwest of Florence. — in Galliam Transalpinam: probably he intended to join the Allobroges. The way thither led through Liguria and Cisalpine Gaul.

2. in agro Piceno: according to Cicero his command extended to the ager Gallicus, north of Picenum, and therefore nearer to Catiline's forces. — praesidebat: is used as a military technical term, like curo in LIX. 3; praesideo without dependent case is not often met with. — supra: i.e. in the preceding sentence.

3. qua illi descensus erat: i.e. qua illi descendendum erat; an archaic turn of phrase, like mihi cautio est, for mihi cavendum est. It is a good illustration of a phrase meaning originally possession coming to signify obligation or necessity. Compare the English 'I have to write.' The place indicated is the northern slope of the Apennines between Bologna and Modena.

4. Neque tamen Antonius, etc.: and though Catiline was hastening to escape from Metellus, yet on the other hand Antonius, etc. Sallust omits the protasis which is easily supplied. — utpote qui . . . sequeretur: this sentence sums up all of Antonius' advantages and all of Catiline's difficulties. Antonius, like Catiline, was south of the Apennines. As Metellus had closed the passes that led northward across the Apennines, Catiline was now forced either to seek escape by way of Lucca, Forum Clodii, and Luna, or to fight Antonius. — tardatos in fuga: belong together and are in antithesis to expeditus.

5. praesidi, reinforcements; see on LVI. 4. — in tali re, under such circumstances; like in in tali tempore in XLVIII. 5. — confingere: the battle took place early in 62 B.C.

LVIII. 1. neque . . . neque, and that on the one hand a cowardly army does not become brave, nor on the other hand, etc. — ex ignavo . . . ex timido: chiasmic arrangement.

2. natura aut moribus: see on LIII. 6. — hortere: present potential, ideal 2d pers. sing. — timor animi: we do not translate animi, which Sallust is fond of adding to words like timore, virtus (II. 3; LIII. 1), ferocia (LXI. 4), cupido (LI. 4).

3. quo . . . monerem . . . uti . . . aperirem: observe the change of conjunction; advocavi is a historical perfect.

4. socordia atque ignavia: are subject nominatives to attulerit, according to the correct Latin construction; to have written scitis socordiam atque ignaviam . . . quantam . . . attulerit would have been a Greek construction. — quoque modo: i.e. et quo modo. — praesidia opperior: see LVII. 5 and note.

5. iuxta mecum: colloquial for aeque ac ego.

6. unus: the army of Antonius. — alter: the army of Metellus Celer. — si: i.e. etiam si. — animus ferat: we should desire it. — placet, with a subject infinitive, occurs first in Sallust.

8. decus, honor.

9. vincimus: the present suggests Catiline's certainty of victory. — commeatus: is in the nominative singular, as Sallust never uses abunde with the partitive genitive; supply nobis erit.

11. supervacaneum est: is in antithesis to necessitudo impendet nobis, of which nos . . . certamus states the reason; the reason for illis supervacaneum est pugnare is contained in the words quia pro potentia paucorum pugnant. Therefore supervacaneum means worse than useless; paucorum is used in its political sense.

13. licuit agere: after licuit, translate the present infinitive by the perfect infinitive. A. & G. 288, a; B. 270, 2; G. 275, 1; H. 537, 1. — potuistis nonnulli, some of you could.

14. illa: that is to say, in exilio aetatem agere and Romae alienas opes exspectare. — haec, our present undertaking

15. pace bellum mutavit: the ablative denotes the thing acquired in exchange, the accusative the object given up. This is the regular construction, though the poets often invert it. A. & G. 252, c; B. 218, 5; G. 404, R.; H. 422, N. 2. — mutavit: a gnomic perfect.

17. audacia . . . habetur, to have daring is to have a rampart around you.

18. aestumo: always means to weigh something in order to ascertain its real value.

19. animus, aetas: in Catiline's speech, XX. 10, he tells the conspirators viget aetas, animus valet.

20. Nam: introduces the reason for the answer to an objection that has been left out, but is easily supplied: 'but the numbers of the enemy will foil all our bravery.' 'Not at all, for,' etc.

21. si virtuti . . . inviderit: euphemism for si victi eritis, which Catiline avoids, lest it be taken as an evil omen. — cavete inulti, etc.: the same thought occurred in XXXIII. 5.

LIX. 1. signa canere: cano is used both transitively and intransitively by Sallust. If construed transitively here, a subject must be supplied, as we must often supply it with the Greek ἐσθλὰ πρῆξεν. — remotis equis: Caesar in the battle described B. G., I. 25, had recourse to the same expedient to cut off all hope of flight; 'Caesar . . . remotis equis, ut, aequato omnium periculo, spem fugae tolleret, . . . commisit.' — pro loco atque copiis, in accordance with the requirements of the field of battle and the number of his soldiers.

2. inter sinistros . . . aspera: as inter requires two objects connected by a conjunction, aspera is in the neut. pl. acc.; rupe may be taken as an ablative of cause with aspera, or as the object of ab; perhaps the latter construction is preferable. Translate: 'between the mountains on the left and the rough country on the side of the rock to the right. — reliquarum signa: by metonymy for reliquis cohortes. — in subsidio, as reserves.

3. evocatīs: men who had served their regular time and re-enlisted of their own accord. Their rank and pay were the same as the centurion's. — armatum, if they had regular arms. — curare: see on praesidebat, LVII. 2. — propter aquilam: this is the eagle mentioned by Cicero in his first oration against Catiline, ch. IX. 24. The use of propter in a local sense is rare. — bello Cimbrico: in the battle of Vercellae, 101 B.C.

4. pedibus aeger: gives the reason why proelio adesse nequibat. — M. Petreius: afterwards Pompey's chief lieutenant in Spain, where he was forced by Caesar to surrender his army at Herda. After the battle of Pharsalus, he went to Africa, and after the defeat of Thapsus he was slain in a duel by Juba, king of Numidia (47 B.C.).

5. tumultus: a war, or warlike movement, that threatened Rome itself, especially a war with the Gauls in Italy. Such wars authorized extraordinary levies. — inermos: compare LVI. 3. Besides inermis, Sallust uses the less current form, inermus. — pro patria, etc.: see on LII. 3; liberis here takes the place of parentibus used there.

6. tribunus: one of the six commanders of a legion. — prae-fectus: a commander of the allied infantry attached to a legion, or one holding a special command, especially of part of a fleet. — legatus: a staff officer of the commander-in-chief, or his substitute. — praetor: the commander-in-chief. These words together make a climax. — fortia: fortis regularly qualifies persons, not things.

LX. 2. unde: the proper adverb here; for committo signifies to begin, and regularly takes a word signifying whence. — ferentaria: light-armed foot-soldiers. They fought with missile weapons, and wore light defensive armor. — cum infestis signis: generally cum is omitted. Sallust uses it here for variety's sake, because a simple ablative precedes. — pila: spears about six feet long, that were hurled by the soldiers at the opening of the battle.

4. vorsari, was astir; mark that vorsor is the intensive of vorto. — militis . . . imperatoris: in the early part of the sentence, Catiline's activity as a general is described before picturing his activity as a soldier. We have thus a chiasmic arrangement.

5. contra ac: contra is an adverb of inequality; hence the use of ac. — tendere: is used instead of the usual contendere. — cohortem praetoriam: the body-guard of the general, composed of evocati, or tried veterans, of young members of the nobility, and a small body of select allied horsemen. — ex lateribus, on both flanks.

7. cum paucis, with only a few.

LXI. 1. tum vero: pleonastic repetition of confecto preslio, as is vero often repeats the subject. — vis animi, vigorous courage.

2. pugnando: ablative of the gerund. The ablative of the gerund was by a popular colloquialism used instead of the participle (pugnans); vivos is in antithesis to amissa anima, pugnando to corpore, ceperat to tegebat.

3. paulo divorsius; i.e. ab eo loco, quem pugnando ceperant. — advorsis vulneribus, with wounds facing the enemy; i.e. with wounds in front, proving that they were received while fighting, not while fleeing.

4. paululum etiam spirans, still breathing slightly. — ferociam-que animi: see on timor animi, LVIII. 2.

6. iuxta: equally, i.e. not at all.

8. visundi, of examining the battle-field.

9. gaudia: in the plural, means demonstrations of joy.

THE STUDENTS' SERIES OF LATIN CLASSICS.

UNDER THE EDITORIAL SUPERVISION OF

ERNEST MONDELL PEASE, A.M.,

Leland Stanford Junior University,

HARRY THURSTON PECK, Ph.D., L.H.D.,

Columbia College.

This Series contains the Latin authors usually read in American schools and colleges, and also others well adapted to class-room use, but not heretofore published in suitable editions. The several volumes are prepared by special editors, who aim to revise the text carefully and to edit it in the most serviceable manner. Where there are German editions of unusual merit, representing years of special study under the most favorable circumstances, these are used, with the consent of the foreign editor, as a basis for the American edition. In this way it is possible to bring out text-books of the highest excellence in a comparatively short period of time.

The editions are of two kinds, conforming to the different methods of studying Latin in our best institutions. Some contain in the introductions and commentary such a careful and minute treatment of the author's life, language, and style as to afford the means for a thorough appreciation of the author and his place in Latin literature. Others aim merely to assist the student to a good reading knowledge of the author, and have only the text and brief explanatory notes at the bottom of each page. The latter are particularly acceptable for sight reading, and for rapid reading after the minute study of an author or period in one of the fuller editions. For instance, after a class has read a play or two of Plautus and Terence carefully, with special reference to the peculiarities of style, language, metres, the methods of presenting a play, and the like, these editions will be admirably suited for the rapid reading of other plays.

The Series also contains various supplementary works prepared by competent scholars. Every effort is made to give the books a neat and attractive appearance.
